JAPANESE ARMY LAUNCHES BIG PUSH ON JEHOL

War Machine Moves Against Chinese.

BULLETIN.

NANKING, China, Feb. 24 (Friday).—(AP)—China's military and civilian chieftains held a secret emergency meeting this morning to consider the Japanese thrust into Jehol. Among those attending were Marshal Chiang Kai-shek, principal military leader of China; T. V. Soong, acting premier; Ho Ying-Ching, minister of war, and all other officers of the cabinet.

TOKIO, Feb. 24.—[Friday.]—The general offensive of the Manchukuoan army, supported by the Japanese, against Chinese forces in Jehol province began early today.

The Sixth Japanese division, led by the Fourth cavalry brigade, left Tungliao for the west yesterday in the midst of a driving snowstorm and with the temperature 12 degrees below zero.

Other Manchukuoan-Japanese forces followed this morning. The order to advance against the Chinese was given by Chang Ching-hui, Manchukuo's minister of war, to Gen. Chang Hai-peng, commander in chief of Manchukuo's army.

The dispatches said the column clashed with Chinese guerrilla bands at Molimiao, 20 miles southwest of Tungliao, and dispersed them, later continuing its advance.

Chinese troops are reported to be invading Fengtien province in Manchukuo.

Chinese Fleeing Advance.

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, Feb. 24.—[Friday.] — (AP) — Gen. Nobuyoshi Muto, the Japanese emperor's generalissimo in Manchuria, has begun his long heralded Jehol campaign with more troops under his command than any Japanese war lord has directed in Manchuria since the armies of Field Marshal Prince Oyama returned home after the Russo-Japanese war a generation ago.

Starting from points north and south of Tungliao, 45 miles from the border of Jehol province, the Manchukuo troops today were traversing treeless plains along the Hailiao river, called the eastern Gobi. It was reported that the Chinese in the Kailu, Lupeh, and Tienshan districts already were retreating.

Japanese Total 60,000.

Although the Japanese high command has maintained the closest secrecy concerning the units and numbers thrown into the drive to annex Jehol to Manchukuo, competent authorities have estimated that nearly one-half of Gen. Muto's command, believed to total 60,000, has been launched against the 150,000 poorly equipped, poorly organized Chinese troops holding the province.

As this campaign begins—the most extensive, most carefully planned, and thoroughly prepared drive since the Sino-Japanese fighting began in September, 1931—the Japanese forces in Manchuria are estimated to be at least 50 per cent stronger numerically than at the commencement of any previous offensive in this quasi-war.

Nearly 20,000 recruits have flowed across the narrow seas from Japan proper during recent weeks to swell the total of Gen. Muto's command to its 60,000.

Two Divisions Bear Brunt.

For the Jehol operations Gen. Muto and his chief of staff, Lieut. Gen. Kuniaki Koiso, have mustered, experts believe, approximately five infantry brigades and probably two cavalry brigades.

Two divisions are expected to bear the brunt of the campaign—the Eighth, from northern Japan, commanded by Lieut. Gen. Yoshikasu Nishi, and the Sixth, from the southern island of Kyushu, newly arrived in Manchuria under command of Lieut. Gen. Masayemon Sakamoto.

The Fourteenth infantry brigade, from the northern island of Hokkaido, brought over especially for winter campaigning, moved to the Jehol border late in January, coming from the extreme northwest of Manchuria, where it had distinguished itself in the campaign against the insurgent general, Su Ping-wen.

The Fourth cavalry brigade, under Maj. Gen. Kennosuke Mogi, which also figured prominently in the December

Student Kills Flyer in Air, Self on Ground

San Benito, Tex., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A falling plane carried two men to death here late today, one of them shot through the head as he sat at the controls in midair and the other, according to witnesses, a suicide after the crash.

Watchers at the field declared they heard a shot while the craft still was in the air. As it spiraled downward the body of Leman Nelson, 33, pilot, hurtled from the cockpit to the ground. The ship straightened out, then nosed over as its wheels struck the ground.

Shot in Back of Head.

Erin McCall, 20, student flyer, climbed out and ran a short distance down the field. Then, witnesses said, they heard another shot and he fell dead. A pistol was found beside his body. Nelson had been shot in the back of the head.

District Attorney D. S. Purl of Corpus Christi, Tex., said three shots had been fired from the pistol.

"We have not had time to question several witnesses, but from a few we learned the most important details," Purl said.

Nelson Veteran Flyer.

Nelson lived in La Feria, Tex., and McCall in San Benito. McCall had been studying flying with Nelson and the two had left the San Benito airport in the plane only a short time before the ship crashed.

McCall, who was business manager of the high school football team at San Benito last year, undertook flying instruction with Nelson several weeks ago and had accumulated nine hours of flying time.

Today they had been practicing landings. Nelson, who made his headquarters at the Harlingen airport, had been a licensed pilot several years.

Identifies Gun at Inquest.

Witnesses at an inquest called by Justice Frank Roberts said they saw Nelson's head hanging over the side of the cockpit and blood on the fuselage of the plane.

Dodson identified the pistol as one he owned. He said he did not know why McCall had taken it from their room.

Friends said they knew of no difficulties between the two flyers. Officers testified each was shot only once, but that three shots had been fired from the pistol. They were at a loss to say where the third bullet went.

APOLOGIZES AFTER 35 YEARS TO WIDOW OF THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 23.—(AP)—It took him 35 years to do it, but Dr. Ira C. Brown, Seattle schools health officer, finally has apologized to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt.

At a reception for the widow of the former President here, Dr. Brown stepped up and said: "I wonder if you remember me, Mrs. Roosevelt? I've been waiting for 35 years to beg your pardon."

"Your face is familiar," she said. "What is your name?"

"Well, I was Maj. Brown of the 6th cavalry."

"Why," she broke in, feigning anger, "you're the man who quarantined my husband! And was I mad!"

She led Dr. Brown to a seat and they recalled how in August, 1898, Maj. Brown, camp quarantine officer at Montauk Point, N. Y., twice on successive days caught Col. Roosevelt trying to sneak out of quarantine to visit his wife, who was living nearby.

Maj. Brown ordered the future President back to camp on both occasions and kept watch to see he didn't try it again.

SENATOR WALSH, WEALTHY CUBAN WIDOW TO WED

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24.—[Special.]—Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who is slated to be U. S. attorney general after March 4, is to be married to a wealthy Cuban widow either Saturday or Monday, according to well authenticated reports received here tonight.

Senator Walsh sailed early today from Norfolk, it is said. His bride-to-be is Mrs. Maria Nieves Trumin, a member of a distinguished Cuban family. She has two sons and two daughters, one of whom is the wife of the mayor of Havana.

The senator, who is 73 years old, was married to his first wife, Eleanor C. McClements of Chicago, in 1889. Mrs. Walsh died in 1917.

BOMBS SET OFF IN HAVANA; FEAR IT'S REVOLUTION

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 24.—(AP)—Three large bombs exploded here early today. The capital was awaiting anxiously for morning to learn whether a revolutionary movement rumored for today was materializing. It was recalled Mexico City dispatches predicted bombings would be a signal for a concentration movement.

Unrest was pervading the island as the 35th Cuban independence day began.

Communications were interrupted eastward from the capital.

Bill May Open Refund Fight on Cotton Tax

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A bill designed to force the federal government to refund nearly half a billion dollars of taxes alleged to have been illegally collected immediately after the civil war was reported today to the house by the judiciary committee.

The taxes in question were levied by the government in 1866, 1867, and 1868.

Cotton Tax at Stake.

On the ground that they were direct taxes and not apportioned among the states according to population southern Democrats for years have sought passage of legislation looking to their repayment.

The major portion of the federal collections was from a tax on cotton, although Representative Butler B. Hare [Dem., S. C.], author of the bill, pointed out to the committee that other commodities, including sugar, tobacco, goatskins and calfskins, were also taxed during the years involved. He said, however, that approximately 200 million dollars would be required to repay the cotton tax collections alone. To repay all the money collected under the taxes in question it was estimated that $423,850,889 would be required.

Twenty-Six States Paid.

Representative Hare submitted a table showing that twenty-six states paid the alleged cotton tax during the three years in question.

The amount collected from these states, as listed by him, were as follows:

Alabama	$10,388,072
Arkansas	2,555,638
California	430
Connecticut	85
Florida	918,944
Georgia	11,807,094
Illinois	124,444
Indiana	81,982
Kansas	286
Kentucky	373,839
Louisiana	9,048,427
Maryland	48,173
Massachusetts	55,720
Mississippi	8,742,995
Missouri	469,992
New Jersey	1,156
New York	730,730
North Carolina	950,704
Ohio	242,225
Pennsylvania	15,378
South Carolina	4,172,420
Tennessee	3,508,233
Texas	5,562,401
Utah	1,278
Vermont	169,288
Virginia	829,727

The bill, as reported today, provides that each of the states shall have power to sue for recovery of the taxes in the United States Supreme court. The sole question at issue in the legal proceedings, as stipulated in the bill, concerns the constitutionality of the taxes. All other defenses by the government are waived.

ILLINOIS PLANS JUNE ELECTION ON DRY REPEAL

May Be First State to Hold Poll.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—All the powers that decide such things agreed today on a method whereby Illinois will submit to its voters the question of national prohibition repeal. Those who participated said that this puts the state in the vanguard and promises as speedy ratification of the 21st amendment repealing the 18th—or bone dry—amendment as is possible for any of the 48 commonwealths.

Gov. Horner presided at the meeting of spokesmen for both the state senate and the house of representatives. All agreed to the program which calls for the election on June 5 of a "vest pocket" convention, which will meet in Springfield at noon on July 10.

As the proposal now stands there will be a clear cut decision by the voters. They will vote either wet or dry and there will be a solid bloc—25 delegates—ready to repeal or, if the vote goes the other way, to oppose repeal when the gavel drops.

Features of Program.

Three cardinal virtues were claimed for the plan:

1. It calls for a new expression from the voters by a referendum.

2. It gives voters the right to select their delegates, combining both a primary and an election on the same day.

3. It is economical, for no special election is required—the balloting taking place during the judicial election. Furthermore, no compensation, not even railroad fare, will be given the delegates.

Delegates will be picked from the state at large. There will be two columns on the ballot printed for the June election. One will be headed "For ratification of the 21st amendment." The other will be headed "Against ratification of the 21st amendment."

Both Parties for Repeal.

There is more than a suspicion that when the ballot is made up there will be a solid bloc of 25 candidates for repeal, composed of Republicans and Democrats. Both organizations favor repeal. So far there has been no conference of party managers except in the legislature, but all the signs, with a Democratic majority, point to a split something like 13 Democrats and 12 Republicans for the combined repeal ticket.

The right to be placed on the ticket would be given by petition, but the number of signatures to be required was not definitely fixed in the committee today. It seemed likely, however, that one per cent of the vote cast for governor—or about 30,000 names—would finally be decided upon.

These planks of the plan will be embodied in a bill over the week-end and it will likely be introduced on Wednesday. There will be no session Tuesday because of the aldermanic election in Chicago.

Drys Oppose Program.

The conference had been in session on two nights and most of this morning before the essence of the plan became public. It was carried by word of mouth about the house floor, where members of the dry unit showed immediate dissatisfaction. They preferred, they said, that the delegates be selected by senatorial district conventions to take advantage of the inequalities now existing in the antique senatorial districting.

The majority, including the wets, insist that a fairer test of state sentiment will be based on the vote of the state at large regardless of the time worn district lines.

Many features of the plan as finally adopted in committee were suggested by Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, the house minority leader. Senator Harold G. Ward [Dem., Chicago] was also active. Other senate members include Richard J. Barr [Rep., Joliet], Jerome O'Connell [Dem., Morris], Arthur A. Huebsch [Rep., Brookfield], and Mark A. Penick [Dem., Quincy].

Five from House.

Besides Schnackenberg, house members were: Thomas P. Sinnett of Rock Island, the Democratic floor leader; A. L. Auth [Dem., Chicago], F. W. Lewis [Dem., Robinson], and Richard J. Lyons [Rep., Mundelein].

The committee will meet again Wednesday to give final sanction to the bill, after which it will be intro-

Doctors Fear Pneumonia in New Crisis

BULLETIN.

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24 (Friday).—(AP)—Hospital attaches at 3 a. m. today said Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago was somewhat restless and his pulse was 132, temperature 99.6, and respiration 26 to 28. They said they had been instructed to have an oxygen tank ready in event of pneumonia, but added there was no indication it would have to be used. The mayor's pulse rate was increased slightly over the midnight reading.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Feb. 24 [Friday].—[Special.]—After a remarkable rally yesterday Mayor Cermak's condition again last night and early today was creating anxiety for his physicians. Dr. Frederick Tice, specialist, who has been watching the patient's heart, was summoned to a conference shortly before last midnight. The official bulletin given out shortly after midnight read as follows:

"Mayor Cermak has had a comparatively comfortable day. The intestinal disturbance has been far less troublesome. His heart, while rapid, is maintaining a good function. Although we share considerable anxiety, yet we believe he has made some improvement in the last 24 hours. Temperature 99.8 degrees, pulse 120, respiration 28."

[Normal pulse for an adult of Cermak's age varies from 74 to 88; normal respiration is 18 to 22; normal temperature 98.6.]

Morale Is Good.

To this opinion, signed by Drs. Tice, J. W. Snyder, and E. W. Nichols, the last named added some oral comment. "He is in high spirits mentally," he said. "His morale is very good. I would say that we were far more anxious last night than any night, except for the brief flareup Wednesday night, which might have turned out very gravely."

Dr. Nichols added that he thought the mayor would be improved later this morning.

All the physicians, however, in giving out interviews on the mayor's condition, invariably add the cautious reminder: "Of course, things happen out of a clear sky. With a man nearly 60 years of age who has gone through what Mr. Cermak has gone through we can never be too sure."

Rally Surprises Physicians.

The rally attributed to the astounding vitality of the patient amazed the physicians earlier yesterday. They showed their satisfaction, and Dr. Karl Meyer announced that the mayor's chances of recovery were four out of five, whereas during the slump Wednesday night they had been only one out of five.

Illustrative of the spirit of the patient during this rally was an incident related by Dr. Meyer. Some one had sent him a supply of glandular extract and he jokingly asked the mayor if he should administer some to him.

"Not for me!" said the patient, and added with a semblance of a chuckle, "Give it to Jim Bowler."

Ald. Bowler has been the mayor's constant bedside companion since he was wounded Feb. 15 by a bullet from the gun of Giuseppe Zangara, who sought to murder President Elect Roosevelt.

The change came yesterday morn-

BRITISH OFFER TO U. S. ON DEBT: 1 TO 1½ BILLIONS

Counter Proposals Made by Roosevelt.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The negotiation proceeding between President Elect Roosevelt and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, is for a reduction of the British war debt owed this country to a lump sum of between 1 and 1½ billion dollars, it was learned today.

The principal of the debt due the United States from Great Britain is four billions 600 millions. Under the terms of the settlement, in which the United States canceled 30 per cent of the obligation on Britain's plea of inability to pay, the debt is to be discharged in annuities running till 1990, at an average interest rate of 3.3 per cent. The present value of the debt is about 3 billions.

The proposal to revise the settlement on the basis of a lump sum payment was made to Mr. Roosevelt by Ambassador Lindsay at their first conference at Warm Springs, Ga.

Reported Back to London.

The President elect, according to the version of the incident that has become current here, received the proposal hospitably, but made counter proposals affecting concessions as to trade agreements, return to the gold standard and disarmament which he thought should be forthcoming from Great Britain in consideration of a reduction of the debt terms.

The ambassador went to London and laid Mr. Roosevelt's proposals before the MacDonald ministry. Sir Ronald was instructed to take back the word to Mr. Roosevelt that there appeared to be the basis of a satisfactory settlement in the exchange of views between the President elect and the ambassador.

The British, it appears, regard Mr. Roosevelt now as definitely committed to the lump sum payment representing a slicing of from one-half to two-thirds from the present worth of the debt. When it comes to what the British are to give in return there is much vagueness.

Roosevelt Asks Concessions.

The concessions that Mr. Roosevelt thinks Great Britain should make are to be considered at the world economic conference and the resumed disarmament conference subsequent to the debt revision negotiations. What the British are asking of Mr. Roosevelt is that he consent to a scaling down of their debt and accept their promises of counter concessions to be fulfilled at some later time.

Some of the Roosevelt advisers think this an eminently fair settlement and are prepared for its acceptance by the President elect, if it has not already been agreed to. Others say that they cannot believe that Mr. Roosevelt would fall into this trap. They take the position that if the debt is reduced before an agreement is reached on trade, monetary and other concessions, these will never materialize. Great Britain, it is pointed out, has no intention of returning to the gold standard until it becomes highly profitable to do so. At present it is highly profitable for Great Britain to remain off the gold standard. The British are underselling Americans in almost every foreign market.

Disarmament Dream.

As for disarmament, none but incorrigible optimists believe the powers can agree on any substantial reduction of armies and navies. Anyway, the linking of debt reduction with disarmament is merely a proposal that American taxpayers shall purchase European disarmament.

Not the least interesting disclosure is that the British have endeavored to influence Mr. Roosevelt with assurances that if he will let them off on the debt they will stand by the United States in any trouble it may get into with Japan. This has caused even some Anglophiles to snort with rage. The United States is not in any trouble with Japan, they maintain, in spite of the provocative Hoover-Stimson diplomacy which interfered with Japan's aims in Manchuria in an effort to implement the Kellogg anti-war pact.

Recalls 1921 Parley.

British intimations that the United States needs protection from Japan are reminiscent of British diplomacy leading up to the Washington arms conference of 1921. The British at the time were extremely solicitous of the welfare of the United States. According to the British thesis, the United States and Japan were headed toward war. Therefore, the United States and Japan should agree with Great Britain to restrict naval armament. The result was the scrapping of America's new navy and an agreement under which the United States and Japan lacked power to conduct a trans-oceanic war.

The British also set out to get the United States to purchase the scrapping of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, although it was patent that the British dominions had doomed the renewal of this pact. The price paid by the United States was the scrapping of battleships and submission of restriction of fortification of American possessions in the Pacific.

MR. BROUK HAS NO USE FOR OUR MODERN YOUTH

The trouble with the stickup business is that so many boys of bad morals get into it. This is the considered verdict of Frank Bourk, 38 years old, 1394 Milwaukee avenue, who is held at the detective bureau and who has admitted taking part in 200 robberies. Three of the journeymen of his gang also are held.

"I took those fellows into a good racket," Brouk said. "We worked with efficient methods. Every afternoon we'd go out. All we wanted was $400. When we got that much we'd quit for the day, but we always kept on till we had it.

"But these boys weren't much good. John Harbut was too yellow. John Lancacksi was a good man, but he used to short change me. The other one, Walter Vanovav, always was hoping he'd get to kill somebody. You couldn't make business men out of them. They took their daily pay and went out in the evenings to spend it on drinking and girls. That's why we got caught.

"As for me, I stayed home at night and saved my money. Thrift pays, and those fellows are going to find it out. When I come out of prison I'll have $7,000 I've got hid away. They'll have nothing."

PRESIDENT LAYS CORNER STONE OF U. S. STRUCTURE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—For the second time in a week President Hoover today laid the corner stone for a new monumental government building begun in his administration. He used a trowel fashioned out of copper nails and oak from the old Frigate Constitution to lay in place the corner stone for the department of justice building. Monday he had officiated at corner stone ceremonies for the New Archives building.

Law enforcement was the theme of the President's address. Speaking, after Attorney General William D. Mitchell had warned against the tendency of government to encroach upon fields hitherto reserved to local initiative, Mr. Hoover asserted that democracy can hope to endure only to the degree it can enforce its laws. He said honest enforcement machinery coupled with the coöperation of the people are essential to real law enforcement.

ACCUSED AS SLAYER.

A coroner's jury yesterday recommended that John L. Winser, 3027 Warren boulevard, be held to grand jury on a charge of strangling to death his sweetheart, Amelia Emmons, 22 years old, in the Harper End hotel, 5012 Harper avenue.

JAPAN TO BOLT LEAGUE TODAY IF CONDEMNED

Delegation Is Ready to Leave Geneva.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Japan's delegation to the league of nations has made its preparations to leave Geneva if the league assembly, meeting tomorrow, adopts the report condemning Tokio's Manchurian policy.

Today Yousuke Matsuoka, head of the delegation, prepared the address he will deliver when the report comes up for adoption. If and when it is adopted, it was said, he will announce the withdrawal of the delegation from Geneva, leaving a skeleton organization until the constitutional question, which secession from the league would involve, shall have been dealt with.

Secession Not Simple Matter.

Secession would not be a simple matter, from the legal standpoint. Article one of the league covenant stipulates:

"Any member of the league may, after two years' notice of its intention so to do, withdraw from the league, provided that all its international obligations and all its obligations under this covenant shall have been fulfilled at the time of its withdrawal."

Constitutionally, therefore, Japan's withdrawal could not be legally effected until two years after notice of intention to withdraw is given, and even then only if the country had a clean record under the covenant.

Discuss Tokio's Expulsion.

No responsible statesman is talking openly of the possibility of expelling Japan from the league, but this action is discussed privately in Geneva. The covenant makes definite provision for such a decision in article sixteen:

"Any member of the league which has violated any covenant of the league may be declared to be no longer a member of the league by a vote of the council concurred in by the representatives of all the other members of the league represented thereon."

The suggestion that Japan's voluntary retirement would be welcomed by the league also has been discussed informally in official quarters, with opinion sharply divided as to the advantage and disadvantage to the league.

Japanese officials of the league secretariat, who include a Japanese undersecretary general, would be left in a delicate position. It is possible that they might remain, for several citizens of the United States, a nonmember power, hold posts in the secretariat.

Assembly to Adopt Report.

For tomorrow's meeting the assembly's program is well organized. It is planned to adopt the Manchurian report with as little discussion as possible, but Matsuoka and W. W. Yen, the Chinese spokesman, will be given full opportunity to present their views.

Japan's subsequent course remains in doubt. There will be the physical withdrawal of the delegation from Geneva, but this move may not constitute a complete rupture with the league. If there should be a clean break the Japanese members of the world disarmament conference also would leave.

Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese ambassador to Great Britain, arrived today to discuss this point with his colleagues, who appeared to be in disagreement.

SIZE OF MANCHUKUO IN RELATION TO U. S.

Map indicates size of Japanese puppet state of Manchukuo and the Chinese province of Jehol, which the Japanese have invaded with the intention of seizing and adding to Manchukuo, in comparison with the United States.

Were Manchukuo and Jehol placed in the middle west of the United States the territory would extend from Lake Superior on the north to the Gulf of Mexico on the south and from eastern Pennsylvania to Nebraska on the west.

The climate of Manchukuo and Jehol, however, is much more severe than in the United States. Manchukuo is located between the approximate latitudes of 53 on the north and 40 on the south, while the United States is between latitudes 46 on the north and 30 on the south. Thus, the south of Manchukuo would lie in the approximate position of central Illinois, while northern Manchukuo corresponds to the position of the Hudson bay region of Canada. The fighting in Jehol is being conducted in temperatures of 12 below zero.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—Executives of twenty-one railroad unions made known here today, after a conference designed to enlist the support of President Elect Roosevelt, that they will attempt to obtain, through congressional action, their wage and hour demands refused by the railway managements. The Railway Labor Executives' association conferred with Prof. A. A. Berle of Columbia university, acting as Mr. Roosevelt's representative.

CHINA REJECTS DEMAND

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 24.—[Friday.]—The Chinese government today rejected an ultimatum served upon China yesterday by Japan to evacuate its troops from the province of Jehol. The ultimatum said that if China's troops are not removed from that territory the combined armies of Japan and Manchukuo will drive them out. Japan further threatened to invade North China if the Chinese resist.

"The fact that Japan not only is bent on attacking and seizing Jehol, but also declares that her military operations may be extended to North China, is sufficient proof that her long cherished policy of aggression remains unchanged," China's reply said.

"Chinese troops resisting Japanese troops and other forces under Japanese direction or command in Jehol or taking necessary defensive measures in any other part of Chinese territory will be acting within their rights.

Will Fight Invasion.

"If Japanese military operations spread into north China Chinese troops will naturally exercise their right of self-defense in protection of Chinese territory. The full responsibility for any situation thus precipitated belongs to Japan.

"Tang Yu-lin as governor of Jehol is the high provincial military authority of the Chinese government, and it is his duty to defend the province. Japan's allegations regarding the governor of Jehol are regarded as a deliberate affront. Hence, the Chinese government hereby lodges an emphatic protest."

Japan's ultimatum to China said:

"The presence of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang's troops and other anti-Manchukuoan forces in Jehol is incompatible with the sovereignty of Manchukuo and also with the restoration of peace and order. The army of Manchukuo, assisted by the Japanese army, under the Japan-Manchukuo protocol, is now putting into effect a plan for the extermination of bandits in Jehol.

Japan's Demands Ignored.

"Japan has repeatedly demanded that Chang Hsueh-liang withdraw his troops south of the Great Wall, but the demands have been unheeded. Should this campaign in Jehol lead to armed conflict between the Japanese army and Chang Hsueh-liang's forces, the responsibility rests with China, which has rejected the demands of Manchukuo.

"Japanese troops in Jehol, aiming at pacification of the province, in cooperation with the forces of Manchukuo, have no objective except to insure order and tranquility. In principle the Japanese troops will remain within Manchukuoan territory, but if Chang Hsueh-liang's troops and other anti-Manchukuoan forces persist in positive action it will be difficult to guarantee that fighting will not spread into North China.

"In the event this occurs, the responsibility rests entirely with China."

RUSSIA CLAIMS JAP HAS CONFESSED PLOT TO DESTROY AIR BASE

MOSCOW, Feb. 23.—(AP)—A dispatch from Khabarovsk today said a Japanese resident named Kaisawa had confessed that he had been commissioned by other Japanese to destroy the Russian aviation base at Ust and other structures of importance to this country.

The Ust base, where a fleet of planes is under construction, was damaged by fire on Jan. 19. Police suspected arson and arrested two members of the militia guard. They implicated a man named Selivanov, a former clergyman employed as a warehouse watchman at Ust.

Today's dispatch said all three admitted their guilt and testified against Kaisawa, who was arrested. The investigation is still in progress.

JUDGE KAVANAGH INJURED BY AUTO; IS RECOVERING

Superior Judge Marcus Kavanagh, 73 years old, dean of Cook county jurists, was recovering yesterday in the Passavant hospital from injuries suffered Monday night when he was struck by an automobile in front of 181 Lake Shore drive. Judge Kavanagh suffered a fracture of the left knee cap, and bruises about the side and face. Physicians said the injuries were serious because of the patient's age. The driver left without giving his name after carrying Judge Kavanagh into the Drake hotel.

There were two automobile deaths in Cook county yesterday, increasing the toll since Jan. 1 to 111. The victims:

John Delke, 70 years old, 1538 Diversey parkway. Died in the county hospital. He was struck by an automobile at Southport and Belmont avenues on Tuesday.

Daniel Crowley, 63 years old, 311 South State street. Died in St. Luke's hospital. He was struck by a Yellow cab on Jan. 27 at Michigan avenue and Harrison street.

Frank Szopa, 55 years old, a car builder, was fatally injured by a hit and run driver at Ridge street and Columbia avenue, Hammond, while returning to his home at 1518 171st street last night. He died in St. Margaret's hospital.

ARIZONA MAN MADE DIRECTOR OF U. S. BUDGET

Dern Gets War Portfolio in Roosevelt Cabinet.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The man upon whom President Elect Roosevelt will rely to slash the extravagances of the federal government, to eliminate bureaus and save tax moneys everywhere down the line, is a young congressman from Arizona, Lewis Douglas.

Mr. Roosevelt announced today that Mr. Douglas will be the director of the budget in the new administration.

The President elect also confirmed today the reports that he will name former Gov. George H. Dern of Utah as his secretary of war.

Has Confidence in Douglas.

In making the announcements, while dallying over the last remnants of his luncheon at his home at Hyde Park on the Hudson, Mr. Roosevelt was quite casual and brief in verifying the Dern appointment, but he discussed at some length his high hopes that Mr. Douglas will be successful in an attack upon the extensive bureaucracy at Washington.

The President elect declared that the budget director will be in as close contact with him as an officer of the government, and he left little doubt that Mr. Douglas will be drawn into White House conferences as frequently or more so than members of the cabinet.

It is a big job, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, and he declared his confidence that Mr. Douglas will be able to fill it completely.

The President elect revealed that for several weeks Mr. Douglas has already been working at his future job, having been engaged, with Swagar Sherley, one of the tax advisers of the governor, and with Daniel C. Roper of South Carolina, slated to become secretary of commerce, in a study of the federal budget and in the preparation of reports for the President elect by which the latter will be able to start economizing immediately upon taking office 10 days from now.

Several preliminary reports on various departments studied by the group are already in Mr. Roosevelt's hands, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Only 38 Years Old.

The promise for a balanced budget was made tonight by Mr. Douglas. Representative Douglas is one of the younger members of the house, in which he has served since 1927. He is 38 years old, a graduate of Amherst college, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and served overseas during the war as an officer of artillery and on the staff of the 91st division. He was cited by Gen. Pershing for service in the Argonne offensive and by the Belgian government.

In civil life Mr. Douglas has been a teacher of history and has engaged in mining and business.

In congress, during the last session, he was one of the leaders in fighting immediate payment of the bonus and has stood against extravagances in veterans' legislation. He was one of Boulder dam's bitterest opponents.

Pledges Balanced Budget.

Commenting on his appointment, Mr. Douglas declared:

"The task which the President elect has asked me to assume and which I have agreed to attempt is to work out a program for balancing the federal budget. It is, of course, the function of the President and the congress to approve or disapprove in whole or in part any plan which I may be able to evolve. That the budget should be actually balanced is one of the most important objectives of the incoming administration."

Bingham May Get London Post.

It was also learned today that Mr. Roosevelt would fill another important post with appointment of Robert W. Bingham, Louisville, Ky., publisher, as ambassador to London.

Mr. Bingham is usually Democratic in his leanings, especially in national politics, but was elected years ago as circuit judge here on the Republican ticket. He is publisher of the Courier-Journal.

His wealth, estimated at several million dollars, enabled him to act independently in politics and save for serving as county attorney, mayor and later as chancellor of circuit here more than 20 years ago, he has always declined to seek political office.

Mr. Bingham owns a plantation of some 300,000 acres south of Albany, Ga., in which is included a large game preserve and where he spends several months each winter. He is 61 years old.

Woodin Confers with Mills on Treasury Department Job

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—William H. Woodin, who is to be secretary of the treasury in the Roosevelt cabinet, conferred today with the present secretary of the treasury, Ogden L. Mills, for the purpose of getting "an insight" into the workings of the department. The conference began at noon at the Federal Reserve bank, of which Mr. Woodin is a director, and continued through luncheon. Later both Mr. Woodin and Secretary Mills attended the weekly meeting of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank.

Before going to the conference Mr. Woodin announced his plans for the next few days at the offices of the American Car and Foundry company, of which he is president, where he received reporters for an informal interview, the first he has granted since the announcement of his appointment to the Roosevelt cabinet on Tuesday evening.

On Saturday Mr. Woodin will go to Hyde Park for a conference with President Elect Roosevelt. On Sunday night he will go to Washington, where he will spend Monday in "looking over the treasury department."

He further announced that next week he will "resign everything"—dissociate himself from all his business connections, including the presidency of the American Car and Foundry and directorships in numerous corporations.

"I have a lot to learn between now and March 4," he said, smiling, "and I'll have to learn it fast."

Mr. Woodin's chat with the newspaper men was informal and friendly. He would not discuss matters relating to the treasury or any policies he may institute.

"I'm just going to saw wood and keep quiet until March 4," he confided.

Ickes Awaits Confirmation on Roosevelt Cabinet Post

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Harold L. Ickes, prospective Illinois member of the Roosevelt cabinet, sat in his office at 140 South La Salle street yesterday waiting for official confirmation of his selection as secretary of the interior to be announced and smiling but saying nothing when friends called to congratulate him.

The President elect, he reminded his friends, has the right to change his mind up to the last minute, and he could not talk about a job that was not his. He had just returned from Washington where he visited yesterday for two hours, chiefly with his friend of many years, Senator Hiram Johnson of California.

If the appointment is made, and Mr. Ickes' manner betrays little apprehension on this score, it is not to Senator Johnson but to Mr. Roosevelt himself that he is indebted. Mr. Ickes has no special interest in California or its problems, but both Mrs. Ickes and himself are intensely interested in the Indian problem of the far west and have a home at Gallup, N. M., where they have had close contact with the Navajos, Hopis, and Pueblo Indians.

To Keep Residence Here.

His chief interest, outside his political fights, in which, as he has often said, he is always on the losing side, is in his home and ten acre flower garden at Hubbard Woods, where some of the prize dahlias of the country are grown. His home has been in Illinois for forty years and he intends to keep his residence here as long as possible.

Mr. Ickes went into the last presidential campaign in support of Mr. Roosevelt and organized here the National Progressive League for Roosevelt and Garner. At that time he had never met the Democratic candidate, but had studied his record and come to the conclusion that he was one whose chief desire was to make better the lot of the average American.

Although in politics ever since college days, when he left school in his senior year at the University of Chicago for several weeks to assist in the campaign of John Maynard Harlan for mayor, Mr. Ickes has never built a permanent organization, and has no intention of doing so now. He has always cut through party lines in state and national campaigns. One could never tell in advance where he would land. His organization was always built afresh, but usually from the same group of so-called progressives and liberals.

Others on Committee.

The western committee headquarters of the National Progressive league at the Auditorium hotel was the only Roosevelt headquarters in this part of the country. On the committee with Mr. Ickes were Henry A. Wallace of Iowa, who is to be the new secretary of agriculture; George N. Peek of Illinois, John Napier Dyer of Indiana, Ralph Snyder of Kansas, Henry M. Wallace of Michigan, Frank W. Murphy of Minnesota, John G. Maher of Nebraska, D. B. Robertson of Ohio, W. R. Ronald of South Dakota, and Edward E. Browne of Wisconsin.

Mr. Ickes, who delights in burying himself in the details of campaign, worked from morning until late at night and kept several stenographers busy. The executive work of the interior department, a vast and complicated organization, which includes the Virgin and Hawaiian islands in its scope, appeals to him. The President elect has also talked of a great new development in the Tennessee river basin, which would come under this department if approved by congress. Mr. Ickes sees in the job an opportunity to help men to better themselves.

Allied with Minority Groups.

After his graduation from college Mr. Ickes went into newspaper work, writing politics for the old Chicago Record and later he wrote sports on THE TRIBUNE and The Chronicle. He studied law and after his admission to the bar mingled law and practical politics, always with a minority group. During the war he was on the state Council of Defense and also served as a volunteer in Y. M. C. A. work in France. He is a Theodore Roosevelt conservationist.

Among his other activities he fought the Insull traction ordinances, declaring that Samuel Insull was a menace to Illinois.

CONGRESS VOTES $308,000,000 FOR YANKEE NAVY

Crews Kept at Present Strength.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Both the house and senate stepped up action on appropriation bills today. The senate approved the million dollar independent offices measure and the $16,500,000 legislative bill carrying salaries for congressmen. After an unusually short debate the house gave its approval to the 308 million dollar naval bill. The latter measure went through the house unchanged so far as its major features are concerned.

The independent offices and legislative bills will be considered by conference committees of both houses as the senate made several changes. These measures will go to the President as soon as conference reports have been agreed to and approved by both houses. The naval bill now goes to the senate for action.

Keeps Personnel Strength.

As approved today, the naval bill carries appropriations sufficient to maintain the enlisted strength of the navy at its present strength of 79,700. The sum of 53 million dollars is made available for continuing work on or beginning new warship construction. The bill provides no changes in the number of marines, but several minor activities of the navy are clipped. As originally drawn, the bill arranged for retaining Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, in some advisory capacity after his retirement for age this month. This provision was stricken out. A limitation placed on flying pay also was eliminated.

Thanks to senate increases, the huge independent offices bill and the legislative appropriation bill left the upper chamber larger by half a million dollars than when they entered.

The senators talked economy. They voted dollars.

Senate Adds to Figure.

Emerging from the house carrying appropriations of $1,002,870,779, the independent offices bill with its 967 millions for veterans left the senate carrying $1,003,314,981. The sum of $591,500 was added for the federal trade commission so that the commission's studies of power corporations might be carried forward. Against this increase a saving of $149,779 was realized through the abolition of the bureau of efficiency. The net increase, therefore, was $444,202.

As the result of an amendment to the legislative bill introduced by Senator Carl Hayden [Dem., Ariz.], the senators, with the Democrats in the lead, performed the congressionally unusual deed of cutting down the number and salaries of patronage positions in the offices of the senate's sergeant at arms and secretary. A saving of $33,000 is to be realized in 1934 as the result and some $9,800 is to be saved on this year's costs by making the cuts effective next March 15.

The cut was more than made up for by increases of $98,136 in other departments, so that the legislative bill which totaled $16,589,878, when it left the house, left the senate carrying $65,000 more than that amount.

Harold E. Vetter, 30 years old, real estate operator, yesterday filed suit for a divorce against his wife, Dorothy Dennie Vetter of Los Angeles, in the Circuit court at Waukegan. Vetter charges that his wife who is a former actress and daughter of a New York inventor, locked him out one night and that he has not seen her since. Vetter lives with his father, George L. CHICAGOAN SEES INFLATION CURE FOR DEPRESSION

Jacksonville, Ill., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Prediction that economic ills will be cured by inflation through temporary abandonment of the gold standard was made tonight by Harland H. Allen of Chicago, a consulting economist.

He spoke at the opening of an "institute on the present economic crisis" at MacMurray college.

"Inflation will be like a visit to the dentist after seven days of toothache, however," Allen asserted. "It will not be the catastrophe which many fear."

Other speakers scheduled to appear before the institute include Eugene Staley of the University of Chicago and Dr. Mollie Carroll of the University of Chicago settlement.

STONE RESIGNS CHAIRMANSHIP OF FARM BOARD

Defends Work of Federal Marketing Act.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Chairman James C. Stone of the federal farm board today announced his resignation in a letter to President Hoover. At the White House it was said that the President would accept it. Mr. Stone, one of the original board members and successor to Alexander Legge of Chicago, first chairman, will leave the board on March 4.

It is generally agreed that the Roosevelt administration will either abolish the farm board or reorganize it past recognition. Mr. Stone's resignation was looked upon, therefore, as one that merely anticipated the inevitable.

In his letter to the President, the retiring chairman spoke of the many millions of dollars lost in stabilization operations, but again defended the stabilization policy as having prevented "inevitable panics in all lines of business."

Defends Marketing Act.

And he believed the cooperative features of the marketing act had more than justified its passage.

"The act is primarily a marketing act," Mr. Stone wrote. "When congress passed this law it declared that it was the policy of the government to assist the farmers of the country to develop a better marketing system for their products, one which they would own and control, with the one definite idea in view of getting for the producer a larger share of the consumer's dollar.

Better Than Commercial.

"Our big job, and one which the public knows but little about, was to preserve well grounded and efficiently managed coöperative associations and to encourage others to be organized where needed and desired by farm groups. We have done this, as the above illustration demonstrates, and in doing it, we have loaned to cooperatives, aside from stabilization operations, approximately 370 million dollars, and to date they have paid back 213 millions of these loans and the loans outstanding, in my opinion, are in better condition than commercial loans of comparable size."

BILL TO REDUCE PAROLE BOARD TO FIVE PASSED

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The house had another economy session today. Among the measures passed was one reducing the membership of the parole board from nine to five, estimated to save $20,000 a year in salaries.

In the senate a new bill proposes to cut the salaries of legislators from $3,500 to $2,000.

A house salary reduction bill was amended to provide a cut from $3,600 to $2,700 in salaries of court reporters and a reduction from $5,000 to $4,000 in salaries of secretaries to judges of the Supreme court.

Declines Interview

Attorney General Otto Kerner yesterday celebrated his 57th birthday at his desk in his Chicago office at 33 North La Salle street. Friends called during the day to give congratulations. The attorney general declined to grant an interview, declaring he was far too young to reminisce.

BILL PROPOSES STATE CONTROL OF MILK SALES

System of Distribution Is Under Attack.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Milk strikes which have disturbed the Chicago area for several weeks may be brought more nearly home unless legislation is passed immediately to pry the market open against the discrimination which now exists.

This opinion was expressed today by Frank A. McCarthy [Rep., Elgin] and others from the milk belt, who have begun a violent attack upon the operations of the Pure Milk association, which, they say, prevents a newcomer from entering the business of selling milk to the distributors.

There are two bills before the assembly now which are intended to cure this situation. One is McCarthy's own bill to place the distribution of milk under the control of the Illinois commerce commission. The other, sponsored by William M. Carroll [Rep., Woodstock], would require special licenses for the importers of milk from states adjoining Illinois.

Cites Price Farmer Gets.

There is more importance attached to the McCarthy bill, in connection with which the author said today:

"The ridiculously low price being paid to the farmer for milk in Illinois by the big Chicago dealers must be stopped. The farmer receives less than two cents per quart for his milk and the consumer pays nine cents a quart. The farmer, out of the two cents, must pay for his cattle, feed, help and maintenance, while the dealer pays only for pasteurization and distribution.

"I believe that if some public regulatory body had charge of this question the farmer would receive more for his milk and the consumer would pay less. Under the present system in Cook county and the absolute control of the distribution of milk by the big dealers it is impossible for any one to sell or distribute milk in Chicago.

Complain of Agreement.

"The most serious complaint that the farmers have against the present system is the agreement between the Chicago dealers and the Pure Milk association providing for a base. Under this system the farmer is paid $1.45 for a certain amount of the milk he produces and all over that amount he must sell for 63 cents. The last amount is slightly more than one cent a quart. Complaints are made in every section of the dairy district that in the distribution of the base among the farmers, those who were friendly have been favored over those who are opposed to the base system.

"The only way a man can produce and sell milk today is to join the Pure Milk association and pay a large price for a base to some farmer who is willing to sell. Under the agreement which the Pure Milk association has with the Chicago dealers the dealers agree not to buy milk from any one who does not belong to the Pure Milk association and also agree that they will withhold out of the farmer's check a certain amount to pay the expenses of the association that has run as high as eight cents per one hundred pounds per month.

"In the previous reduction of the price of milk to the consumers in Chicago, the dealers have compelled the farmers to stand the cost of the reduction, reducing the price paid to the farmers accordingly. The matter is generally referred to an arbitrator whom most of the farmers believe is looking out for the interests of the big milk dealers rather than the interest of the farmers.

"Another serious complaint that is being made not only by the farmers but by the consumers is that almost one-half of the milk or at least a considerable quantity of it comes from outside the state of Illinois at a time when there are thousands of farmers able and willing to produce all of the milk necessary for use in Illinois. They believe that preference should be given to the Illinois farmers.

"I think that by placing milk under the control of the commerce commission much of the milk coming from Iowa, Minnesota, and other outlying districts could be stopped. This milk is not produced under the sanitary conditions and the strict requirements of the Chicago health department as is the milk produced in Illinois. We must keep our barns and buildings in a sanitary condition. The milk must be cooled and everything surrounding it must be kept absolutely clean.

Complains Against Conditions.

"They require complete ventilation of barns and milk houses. They compel us to wash our cows, whitewash our barns frequently, and if this is not done to their complete satisfaction they cut off our milk. It isn't fair to let the outside milk not produced under such inspection and regulations compete with that produced by the Illinois farmers.

"The milk that comes in from the outside is sometimes one, two, or even three days old and cannot compare with the milk produced and delivered the same day or the day following its production. The public is entitled to this protection and the farmers of Illinois are entitled to this business. If the working agreement between the Chicago milk dealers and the Pure Milk association is unfair to the Illinois farmers, and I believe it is, it should be changed.

"The only way to settle this question is to bring it out in the open and have it adjusted and settled by a regulatory body which is interested in both the producer and consumer and do away with agreements entered into at a star chamber conference."

FOUND DEAD IN HIS ROOM.

PATIENT'S FATHER FELLS SURGEON; KICKS HIS HEAD

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Dr. J. J. Murphy, surgeon, was knocked down and kicked in the head until he became unconscious while in a corridor of Mercy hospital today. His assailant, identified as D. J. Condon, fled.

Condon's son, Billy, 14, accidentally shot by another boy as a neighborhood gang played "cops and robbers," was being attended by Dr. Murphy. The latter stepped out of the room to talk to Condon and an argument arose.

In a few minutes two other doctors in the boy's room heard Murphy fall. Hurrying out, they found him lying with his head against a radiator. Condon, arrested tonight, said dispute over a fee caused the trouble.

TEACHER GETS BACK STOLEN TAX WARRANTS

Mrs. Ester Menor, 9814 Jeffery avenue, is a teacher of social science at the Parker High school. Last August burglars broke into her home and stole property valued at $3,000, including $850 in school tax anticipation warrants. In December two youths were arrested when they tried to sell $450 of the warrants. They satisfied investigators they had acquired the warrants honestly, but Mrs. Menor got them back. Yesterday a man tried to use the other $400 in warrants in the purchase of an automobile at the Chrysler agency, 2246 South Michigan avenue. When it was discovered that these, too, were Mrs. Menor's they were returned to her.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BOSTON COMPANY PICKED TO ABSORB THE ILLINOIS LIFE

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered an order directing Abel Davis, receiver for the Illinois Life Insurance company, to negotiate with the Associated Mutuals of Boston for a contract to reinsure the 76,000 policy holders of Illinois Life.

In a memorandum attached to his order, Judge Wilkerson pointed out that of the two makers of reinsurance bids favored by the receiver and his actuary, one, the Lincoln National Life of Fort Wayne, Ind., had withdrawn, leaving only the Associated Mutuals.

Seen Best for Policy Holders.

This plan, he said, offers the best advantages, under present circumstances, for the policy holders. The reinsuring company, represented by James S. Kemper & Co. of Chicago, is to put $1,250,000 of new capital in the Illinois Life and all death claims arising before and during the receivership are to be paid in full.

Judge Wilkerson directed the receiver to insert a clause in the contract prohibiting the payment of excessive dividends to stockholders and excessive salaries to officers. Under the control of the Stevens family, headed by James W. Stevens, $2,000,000 in dividends were paid by the Illinois Life in 1930-'31.

Plans to Mutualize Company.

The Associated Mutuals' plan conplates the eventual mutualization of the Illinois Life, which has $140,000,000 of insurance in force.

Under the Associated Mutuals' proposal, liens will be placed against the cash surrender and loan value of the policies outstanding, but as the assets of the Illinois Life are liquidated these liens will be scaled down. The most important provision for the time being, Judge Wilkerson stated, is for the payment in full of all death claims.

TRACE RADIO RUMOR OF MAYOR'S DEATH TO HALF STAFF FLAG

Several hundred persons, mostly residents of the south side, called THE TRIBUNE yesterday to ask if Mayor Cermak had died. Told that he had not and asked where they had heard such a rumor they said that the flag above the sanitary district pumping station at 39th street and the outer drive was at half staff. Joseph Haney, engineer in charge of the station, cleared up the mystery. The pulley at the top of the flagpole stuck yesterday morning when the flag was half way to the top, he explained, and the day was too windy to send a man aloft to repair it. An unidentified radio station was reported to have broadcast an unverified report of the mayor's death during the day, supposedly based upon the flagpole incident.

FRENCH LINE'S MANAGER SHOT ON HUNTING TRIP

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Jean Tillier, resident manager of the French line of steamships for the United States and Canada, with offices in New York City, was shot and seriously wounded yesterday afternoon while hunting near Gillisonville, S. C. He was brought to a hospital here last night.

A shotgun in the hands of Charles E. Haight of New York City, Mr. Tillier's host, was discharged accidentally and a portion of Mr. Tillier's collarbone and a part of one rib were shot away.

Rules Cows' Appetite Don't Invalidate Mortgage

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The appetite of cows and pigs on the farm of Alva G. Martin, near Fisher, Ill., for corn and hay he had mortgaged with other chattels for $1,598, did not invalidate the mortgage, the Supreme court decreed today in reversing a decision of the 3d district Appellate court and affirming Circuit Judge Walmsley.

CERMAK FAILS; OXYGEN READY FOR PNEUMONIA

ing. The mayor woke from a refreshing sleep. His pain was gone. He smiled feebly at the nurses and whispered: "I feel better. I think I'm going to live."

Then the patient's remarkable vigor began to assert itself. By late afternoon, although he was still in an extremely weak condition, reporters were permitted in the sick room for a moment.

"I'm going to pull through, I think," he murmured. "It's been hell, but they tell me it's over."

After the physicians had examined him thoroughly that afternoon they issued a report which read:

"Mayor Cermak is resting more comfortably. The intensity of the colitis is diminished. He has spent a good day and the outlook is hopeful. His pulse is 118; respiration, 24; temperature, 100.6 degrees."

Reveal Details of Crisis.

In their relief at the mayor's successful passage through the crisis the physicians revealed some details of his condition Wednesday night which they had kept secret at the time for fear of giving partial substantiation to the many wild reports circulated during the time to the effect that the mayor was dying or already dead.

"We thought he was gone at one time," said Dr. Meyer. "It was after we had given him the first injection. His reaction to the injection was terrific. For three minutes we could not find his pulse. We resorted to caffeine to bring up the blood pressure, and that heart of his again began pumping blood through his body.

"His heart has never been strong, but it stood by him nobly in this emergency. Too much cannot be said for the mayor's physical powers, which enabled him to live through agony that would have killed an ordinary man."

CONGRESSMAN FIGHTS BEING CHARACTERIZED AS A "TUMBLE BUG"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Indignantly Representative Tilman B. Parks [Dem., Ark.] arose in the house of representatives today protesting against being called a "tumble bug."

Representative Joseph B. Shannon [Dem., Mo.], Mr. Parks said, had used that term, among others, to depict congressmen.

Mr. Parks asserted that Mr. Shannon, accepting an invitation to address a joint session of the Missouri state legislature, had told about arriving in Washington, where the rail station "red caps" avoided him, as congressmen give only ten cent tips.

Mr. Parks thus quoted Mr. Shannon: "They [congressmen] rank with policemen, most of them below policemen; they put their relatives on the pay roll the first thing and then start running for reelection. They make a five minute speech in the house and then send thousands of copies of another speech, thousands of words long, to their constituents at government expense."

"The inference being," Mr. Parks continued, "that the speeches are printed at government expense. Several times Shannon described members of congress as 'tumble bugs,' saying they tumble first one way and then another. I challenge any one to read the dictionary, see what a tumble bug is, and put the definition of it in this record."

SLAYS BROTHER, 68, AND SELF, 74, OVER WHISTLING

For more than three-score years Fred H. Rolfe and Clark C. Rolfe were the best of friends as well as brothers. They lived together, they went fishing together in the north woods and had their pictures taken with their strings of fish, they shared each other's troubles.

But last night Clark, 68 years old, whistled in the home of 74 year old Fred at 6512 Perry avenue when Fred wanted silence. The older brother seized a pistol, shot and killed the younger, and then committed suicide by shooting himself through the head.

They had been heard quarreling about the whistling of Fred Rolfe's son-in-law, George Colby, who lives in the apartment.

The father of the brothers, John Rolfe, was a Chicago pioneer on the south side who came here from Maine. He left his sons a large apartment building when he died and they owned it jointly. Last April the younger brother suffered a breakdown and was committed to the Dunning hospital. He was released on probation a few weeks ago, but was to have reported back again today. One theory advanced was that the elder Rolfe killed his brother to prevent his going back to Dunning.

Fred Rolfe, it was said, operated a bicycle shop in Chicago at about the time of the World's Fair.

PAY ROLL BANDITS TOO EARLY.

SCHOOL BOARD FAVORS MARRIED WOMEN TEACHERS

The board of education at a meeting yesterday upheld the status of the married woman teacher in the public school system by adopting a resolution opposing the Hruby bill, now pending in the legislature at Springfield. Three thousand married women teachers in the city would lose their jobs on Aug. 1, if the measure, introduced by State Representative John O. Hruby of Chicago, is passed.

The Hruby bill excludes married women from being appointed to any state or municipal positions.

"It's un-American and an attack on marriage," asserted Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell, who introduced the resolution before the school board. "What authority does this legislature have to dictate what the private lives of public employes shall be?"

"It's ridiculous," added Trustee James A. Hemingway.

Sues Peggy Joyce for $20,000 Over Unpaid Note

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Peggy Hopkins Joyce was made the defendant in a $20,000 suit filed in Superior court today. The suit is based on a promissory note which Edward Hunt, the plaintiff, claims was executed on April 8, 1926, in New York. No part of the debt has been paid, according to Hunt.

RIDING MASTER STOLE HIS WIFE, PARRY SWEARS

Recalls Quarrel, but Not Firing of Shot.

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Harvey Parry, 30, riding academy owner, accused of the murder of Garnet Brotherton, riding master, took the stand in his own defense today.

He detailed the events leading up to the slaying. He swore he could not remember whether he had killed the man or not.

Frequently breaking into tears before Supreme Court Justice Philip A. Brennan and a jury, Parrry told how Brotherton had taunted him over Mrs. Parry's love on the fatal day, and slapped him in the face.

"Then I reached for my pocket," he said, "and that's all I remember."

Mother Calls to Son.

At one point, his mother, Mrs. Mary Parry, cried out, "Cheer up, son." At another, Brotherton's widow interrupted and was ushered from the court.

Parry said although Brotherton and Mrs. Parry had begun to take automobile rides together before, it was at Christmas time that he first suspected anything. She had gone to the Parry farm at Dover, Del., to take Christmas presents to the Parry children staying there with their grandparents.

The witness related that when she came back sooner than planned, she refused to say why, and that when he asked Brotherton if he had driven her there he answered no in an odd way.

Parry said he gave his wife a $1,000 bill, of which she was to use $600 to pay a debt on the farm at Dover and the remainder for the purchase of horses. He found out, he said, she had never paid the $600 and wouldn't tell why.

Make Business Trip.

Brotherton and Mrs. Parry, he said, went to Connecticut to look at a horse. They were to have come home the same day, he said, but didn't return until the following evening. At noon of the day they returned, he said, Mrs. Parry called him and said she was in New York City and would be right home, but she did not get home until 6 p. m.

Parry said he asked his wife where she had spent the night and that she said with a girl friend of Brotherton's brother.

Parry said he, his wife, Brotherton, and some friends were at his barn on the night of Jan. 7 last. His wife lay on Brotherton's bed in the glass and refused to go home, he testified. Parry left and returned. Reentering a dark barn, he was struck on the head. Brotherton jumped on him, biting an ear. Brotherton was pounding his head on the ground when he (Parry) said, "If you don't stop something is likely to happen to you." Parry showed the jury some scars on his head.

LAPSE OF VISION BLAMED FOR "L" CRASH; 19 INJURED

Nineteen persons were injured yesterday when a loopbound Lake street elevated train, crowded with women shoppers, collided with a coal supply train on the Lake street tracks just west of the Ashland avenue station.

The more severely injured were taken to the Presbyterian hospital and others were treated at the scene.

Blame for the collision was placed by elevated lines officials on Motorman William G. Schneider of the passenger train, who was taken to the Presbyterian hospital in a serious condition. Schneider is 43 and lives at 425 Humphreys avenue, Oak Park.

"I had a sick headache last night," Schneider said, "but felt able to go to work this morning. Just before the crash I had a blurred spell and could see nothing. A second before the impact I saw a flagman from the work train at the switch and tried to stop the train, but it was too late."

More than five tons of coal from the work train was dumped into Lake street. The Lake street elevated trains were held up for several hours.

COURTNEY RAPS COUNTY BOARD'S DENIAL OF FUND

Demands Appropriation to Meet Overdraft.

State's Attorney Courtney yesterday charged the budget making county commissioners with breaking faith with him in not keeping an agreement to vote $20,000 to his office to cover 1932 overdrafts for expenses incurred by the former administration in the trial of Banker John Bain.

Courtney appeared before the commissioners to protest against the exclusion of the item from the 1933 budget. He declared he had been promised the money by the board's finance committee. The commissioners replied that the action of the committee did not bind the board.

"I wish you'd make up your minds sometime," the prosecutor shouted. "I don't know if you're trying to embarrass me, but you're not going to do it. If you want to cut me down some more and tie my hands, keep it up."

Advised by Attorney, She Says.

Commissioner Marie Plumb said the board had no wish to indicate a lack of confidence in the state's attorney. The item was omitted, she said, on advice of Hayden N. Bell, assistant state's attorney and legal adviser of the board.

"It certainly shows a lack of cooperation," Mr. Courtney said.

"I don't propose to sit here and be intimidated by a speech for the public rostrum," Commissioner Amelia Sears interrupted. "This body is trying to cooperate in keeping down expenditures."

"I'm not trying to intimidate anybody," replied Prosecutor Courtney. "But this board has turned about and made a complete somersault on the understanding we had. I can't come to the conclusion that you are cooperating."

"No one is turning about here," President Whealan said. "We are trying to give you credit."

"I don't want credit," Courtney retorted. "And another thing: I want it understood that Hayden Bell is in my department and you'll use him as an adviser when the state's attorney sees fit to let you have him."

Owed to Special Prosecutor.

The $20,000 in overdrafts are owed to Special Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber, who prosecuted Bain; Harry S. Cutmore, who appraised Bain properties, and two assistants of Raber. Courtney said if these men were not paid they might sever their connection with his office and halt further prosecution of the banker.

The commissioners asked Mr. Courtney to return with a legal opinion authorizing the payment. He was asked to include in his opinion a declaration of the status of $320,000 in overdrafts of other department heads, which the commissioners voted to repudiate in the 1933 budget last Tuesday.

WIFE FORCED HIM TO SLEEP WITH DOGS AND CATS, HE SAYS

His 62 year old bride made him eat and sleep with her dog and two cats when she found he had no money, John Porfirio, 64 years old, 7845 Normal boulevard, charged yesterday in a bill for annulment filed in the Superior court against Mrs. Agnes Kamesh Porfirio, 653 Center street.

Porfirio's bill, filed by Attorney Norman Becker, says that he met Mrs. Kamesh on Jan. 23 after answering her advertisement for a husband inserted by a matrimonial bureau in a German language newspaper. The same day, the bill charges, Porfirio gave her $100 to buy a trousseau and then took her to the county building and married her.

Porfirio charges that the treatment he received endangered his health and that as a result he left his wife on Feb. 15.

CITY EMPLOYES GET PAY DAY IN CASH TOMORROW

County's Workers Receive Half Month's Wages.

City employés will get half a month's pay in cash tomorrow, it was announced yesterday by City Controller Szymczak. While he made the announcement, county employés were receiving a half month's pay in cash, and arrangements were being completed to start paying school employés 1931 tax warrants tomorrow for 22 days' salaries.

The city pay rolls total $2,083,000 a month, all city employés and those of the public library and municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, and are for the last half of September. The money to meet them came from city license collections and water revenues received since the first of the year. City workers got their last pay on Jan. 24.

The pay checks which county employés got, totaling $474,000, were for the first half of August. The money, county officials said, came from fee earnings in the office of County Treasurer McDonough.

Must Sign Tax Warrants.

Before school employés can receive $4,105,000 worth of tax warrants to pay them for 15 days' work last May and seven days at the start of last June, $2,100 tax warrants of $50 denomination must be signed by proxies of Mayor Cermak, City Controller Szymczak, and President Orville J. Taylor and Secretary Charles E. Gilbert of the school board.

The school trustees, as an efficiency measure, authorized President Taylor yesterday to use the name O. J. Taylor, instead of Orville J. Taylor, in the signature of the warrants. This will save his proxy some hours' work in manipulating the machines, which sign 25 warrants at once, not to mention the saving of a gallon or so of ink.

The tax warrants to be issued to the teachers are now held, in large denominations, in the city's aggregate of funds. The school board will give the city $4,114,000 worth of 1932 tax warrants in exchange for an equal sum of 1931 warrants, most of which will be reissued in small denominations to meet the pay rolls.

Get Mayor's Proxy Today.

The proxy order which Mayor Cermak signed on his sickbed at Miami on Wednesday permitting his name to be affixed to the warrants will reach Chicago today by airmail, and the work of signing will start immediately. Officials expect to have $1,000,000 worth of warrants finished and ready for delivery by tomorrow.

Meanwhile, mutilated pay checks will be distributed to teachers and other school employés, starting today, as fast as warrants are prepared to be exchanged for the checks. The exchange will be made on the second floor of the former City State bank building, Randolph and Wells streets, beginning tomorrow morning.

Payments will be made in the order that schools appear in the school budget, senior high schools first, then junior high schools, and then grade schools, each class in alphabetical order.

ILLINOIS PLANS JUNE ELECTION ON DRY REPEAL

State Is Expected to Be First to Act.

duced and pushed toward passage in both houses.

IOWA TAKING ACTION

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Ollie J. Ditto [Dem., of Osceola county], Carl B. Stiger [Dem., of Tama county], and Henry M. Hartman [Dem., of Des Moines county] were appointed this afternoon as a house committee to confer with a similar committee from the senate on the drafting of legislation for a constitutional convention to ratify or reject repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The senate authorized Lieut. Gov. N. G. Kraschel to appoint a committee to draft a resolution calling a repeal convention. No opposition was voiced against the motion which was made by Senator Harry White [Dem., of Vinton], senate administration leader.

State Liquor Bill Prepared.

Manufacture and sale under state control of both high and low alcoholic content intoxicating beverages would be provided for by a bill ready today for introduction in the house. It would provide a state liquor control of five at $4,800 a year each and a system similar to that of some Canadian provinces. The commission could issue and revoke various classes of licenses and permits, for which the fees vary. Its sponsors predict a revenue of about four million dollars a year. The board would be named by the governor for a seven year term.

Question Up in Arkansas.

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Opposition developed in the state senate today over the course to be taken to submit the repeal of the 18th amendment to the people. The house will have the bill placed on its calendar, but the senate will send it to its committee on constitutional amendments. Senate advocates of the bill wanted it to go to the committee on temperance. The bill was drafted by a special house committee.

Nebraska Is Acting.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The first step toward a public expression on state prohibition in Nebraska was taken by the senate today in advancing to third reading the Halpine referendum bill. He is 26 years old, a Democrat from Omaha. Prohibition is a part of Nebraska's constitution and a three-fifths vote is required for amendment. A referendum would follow such a vote in both houses. The popular vote would be at the general election in November, 1934.

Moving in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Whether Ohio voters are given an opportunity next November to decide if prohibition shall remain in the state constitution now is up to the house of representatives, which votes on Tuesday. The senate proceeded today toward a system for handling the federal prohibition repealer.

Idaho Votes in 1934.

Boise, Idaho, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The question of repealing the state prohibition amendment will be put before the voters in November of 1934 following adoption by the house of an amending resolution today. It has passed the senate and, if the voters approve, becomes effective Dec. 31, 1934.

Texas May Change Law.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A bill to reduce the penalties in the Dean law, Texas' prohibition enforcement statute, was given a favorable report today by the criminal jurisprudence committee of the Texas house. Now a first offense is a felony. The change would make the first two offenses misdemeanors, the third a felony.

Colorado Wants Speedy Action.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A resolution proposing a speedy method of action on repeal of the 18th amendment was introduced in the state senate today by Senators Ira L. Qualt, Denver attorney, and A. E. Headlee of Montevista. They would call a convention in the senate chambers at 10 a. m. March 1. It would consist of the lieutenant governor, who would preside, and 34 delegates to be elected by the general assembly. The measure will be voted upon tomorrow.

Beer in Washington, D. C.?

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A bill to legalize beer of 3.05 per cent alcoholic content for the District of Columbia was approved today by the house District of Columbia committee. The measure provides a local tax of $1.20 on a barrel of 31 gallons in addition to the federal tax of $5 proposed in the Collier bill pending in the senate. The vote was 10 to 3. It awaits action on the Collier bill.

Minnesota Gets Word.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A joint resolution of congress proposing repeal of the eighteenth amendment was received today by Gov. Floyd B. Olson. It will be referred to the state legislature tomorrow without comment. In the senate, a special committee probably will meet Saturday to discuss plans for calling a state convention.

Missouri Acts Today.

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 23.—(AP)—House Democrats voted unanimously today to bind themselves in caucus to support the Weeks bill for a convention to act on repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The bill will be called up for passage tomorrow. It is certain the measure will pass. Conferring with Gov. Park, sponsors decided the measure should be amended in the senate to provide for a state wide vote on the 68 delegates to that convention.

ROBS TWO ON SOUTH SIDE.

A bandit took $3 and a wrist watch from S. L. Hatch, 7500 Normal avenue, at 75th street and Harvard avenue early yesterday. The robber then entered a Checker cab at 74th street and Vincennes avenue, and took $4.50 from the driver, Harry Cone.

REALTY BOARD ASKS HEARINGS ON TAX PROBLEMS

Petition Is Presented to State Commission.

A committee from the Chicago Real Estate board yesterday presented to the state tax commission a petition asking the commission to hold public hearings for discussion of Cook county's tax problems. Barnet Hodes, one of the commissioners, promised that such a hearing would be announced within a few days.

Lester W. Porter, chairman of the legislative committee of the real estate board, and Mark Levy, chairman of the subcommittee on taxation, headed the group which presented the petition. George L. Bruckert, vice president of the Oak Park Real Estate board, presented a similar petition from that organization.

Attacks Valuation Figures.

The Chicago board's petition, signed by President Henry G. Zander Jr., cited figures upon tax delinquency on the 1928, 1929, and 1930 levies, and asserted that while stress had been laid upon uniformity of assessments in the 1928 reassessment, insufficient attention had been given to the level of valuations.

As a result, the petition asserted, the 1931 assessment and those for the three preceding years were in excess of the full fair cash value of real estate in the county. The assertion was made that the assessed valuations of the 1931 reassessment of real estate, which were 26 per cent below 1930 levels, would have been proper for that year, but are excessive for the present real worth of real estate.

Wipes Out Tax Suit.

The Illinois Supreme court handed down opinions yesterday at Springfield in three Cook county tax cases, one of which, in the Koester mandamus suit, wiped off court dockets the last litigation started by the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers in the hope of delaying collection of taxes against its members.

The ruling in the Koester case had been anticipated, since the same charges of discrimination of assessment officials against real estate in favor of personal property had been raised unsuccessfully in a number of other causes, and further because in this particular case the trial court held that attorneys for the plaintiff had not presented proper pleadings.

Another Tax Opinion.

The court's opinion in a second suit was regarded as a slap at the practice of attorneys for the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers of combining the pleas of thousands of tax objectors in a single case. In this case Walter W. Alschlager, architect, and twelve other taxpayers were granted a mandamus upon the board of tax appeals to give them hearings on objections to 1928 taxes dismissed by the board of review, predecessor of the present tax appeal board.

The Supreme court held that it was proper for the thirteen taxpayers to unite their pleas in a single action, but added:

"In making this ruling we are not to be understood as holding that 40,000 relators or another unreasonable number of relators should be permitted to join in one petition."

In a third tax ruling the Supreme court sustained the contention of the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank that its stockholders individually, and not the bank, are liable for delinquent 1930 personal property taxes levied against the stock of the bank. The effort to levy upon the bank was made by Lee La Rochelle, former special attorney for the county in collecting personal property taxes.

GOOD STYLE is never extreme. If you look around at the people who dress in good taste, you'll see that there's never anything "flashy" about what they wear.

Come to think of it . . .

it's very much the same with cigarettes.

No cigarette should ever be "strong." That means that they should never be too rich or over-seasoned—not harsh or "bitey."

BARE SCHEME TO SMUGGLE ITALIAN GUNS TO HUNGARY

Austria Suspends Head of State Railway.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, Feb. 23.—Chancellor Dollfuss today suspended Egon Seefehlner, general director of the Austrian state railroads, on a charge of trying to have the 50,000 Hirtenberg rifles smuggled into Hungary after the chancellor had promised the British government he would send them back to Italy. Anton Schoepfer, a member of the heimwehr, was named to succeed Seefehlner.

Seefehlner's alleged attempt to deliver the rifles in Hungary by bribing the railway men's union to pass them over the border on a branch line was revealed by the Austrian Socialist party, which disclosed the original shipment to Hirtenberg from Italy.

[France and Great Britain recently requested from Austria an explanation of the arms shipment, which was reported to be destined for Hungary. Austria was reminded that concentration of arms in countries defeated in the war would be a violation of the peace treaty. In reply Austria asserted the arms had been sent from Italy for repair and would be returned after the repairs had been completed.]

Suspension Communique.

The Austrian government's communique about Seefehlner's suspension follows:

"The chancellor learned yesterday that the general director of the Austrian state railways had conversed with representatives of the railroad men concerning the transport of the Hirtenberg rifles in a direction not corresponding to the intentions of the government. Commerce Minister Jakoncig accordingly immediately suspended the general director of railroads."

The socialists said tonight that Socialist Deputy Berthold Koenig, an important official of the railroad men's union, was invited yesterday to a conference with Seefehlner. The latter proposed, the Socialists charged, that the Hirtenberg rifles, instead of being sent back to Italy, be diverted to Sopron, just inside the borders of Hungary.

Tells of Scheme.

Seefehlner said, according to Koenig, that preparations had been made to unload the freight cars in Sopron, after which they would be resealed and returned empty to Italy.

If the plan to divert the rifles succeeded, Seefehlner was alleged to have said, the transport of weapons would become a steady business for the state railroads and would be a good thing for the railroad men.

Seefehlner said it was clear this could be done only if the railroad men agreed. He asked Koenig, it was charged, to name a middleman to whom $20,000 would be paid for the benefit of the union. The National Socialist Railroad Workers' union had already promised to keep silent about the shipment, he asserted.

FINE BUILDINGS FOR UNCLE SAM AND HIS DEFICIT

Poor, He Will Dwell in Marble Halls.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Among the little luxuries of the United States government is the magnificent building of the department of commerce which cost 17 million dollars.

The Commerce building has sufficient lobby space for an intercollegiate football game; its outer walls are adorned by large ornamental lanterns made of bronze; there are several sets of massive bronze portals big enough to admit a box car, giving onto interior courts and the entrance doors, which are in doubles, providing outer and inner sets, with a draught chamber between, are made of brass frames and plate glass, all very heavy. A staff of laborers, colored, is constantly required to polish up not only the handles but the frames of these big front doors, and there are no back doors.

Where Mr. Klein Takes Action.

The office of the assistant secretary, Dr. Julius Klein, is about 40 by 20 feet, with walnut furniture and doors and a pair of expensive pedestal ash receivers of the knick-knack type which the specialty shops used to advertise for Christmas presents for difficult relatives. The secretary's office is considerably larger, with walls of wood, and is equipped with a private elevator.

Dr. Klein, who will be moving out soon after the 4th of March, agrees that his own quarters are a little more roomy and luxurious than they actually need be for the performance of the assistant secretary's duties, but when he first moved in and proposed that the architects divide the room with a partition, making two rooms of it, the architects said that would spoil the proportions and necessitate the relocation of the blowers and suckers of the heating, cooling, and ventilating system, an expensive job. So Dr. Klein just said, "O, let it go, then," and the office of the assistant secretary is as it is.

The rest of the building is proportionate to the assistant secretary's office, but there seems to be no justice in blaming any one in particular. The Commerce building is one of those boomtime extravagances conceived by architects and paid for by the taxpayers in the case of government works and by bond investors in civilian jobs.

More Similar Buildings.

However, there is now in course of construction a whole group of similar buildings for the departments of justice, interstate commerce, and labor which might be revised in the direction of strict utility and economy but for one unfortunate fact. These works are all performed under contracts negotiated far in advance and the government stands committed to the luxurious and extravagant scale of building, according to agreements undertaken a long time ago. To wiggle off the hook, the government would have to go through expensive litigation and perhaps pay some indemnities and forego the benefit of some of the money already spent in shoving the work along to its present stage.

The carpenters on these jobs were drawing $11 a day and they went out on strike a few weeks ago when the contractors decided that $8 a day would be enough. This strike threw a lot of men in other trades out of work. The carpenters contended that the contracts had been let with a scale of $11 a day in mind and that inasmuch as the government was bound to pay this money to the contractors, they, the carpenters, ought to get it.

Spends Bravely from Deficit.

The upshot of it all is that a busted government goes on spending enormously out of its deficit to materialize an extravagant dream, although the dreamer has long since rolled out of bed and waked up.

The architects, largely responsible for the undertaking of so many stupendous buildings, governmental and private, can not be blamed entirely, of course. They were pretty wild, it is true, and they could hardly believe their ears when, a few years ago, they suddenly found government departments and private promoters, then known as financiers or capitalists, who were willing to back them in the realization of their pet idea, which was colossal magnitude and luxury. The government found the money out of taxes and the promoters took it away from little investors in exchange for beautiful bonds and the architects had their hour.

Luxurious as the commerce department is, however, paneled walls, walnut furniture, private elevator for the secretary and all, it is no more magnificent than some other buildings which were erected in the same mood in various cities.

Gorgeous and Goofy Era.

It is a true relic of the gorgeous, goofy era in which a clerical straw boss of a private firm, resplendent in the title of fourth vice president, could not do his work in an ordinary 20 by 20 room with a little desk for his secretary off in a corner, but had to have a sort of studio with paneled walls of matched wood, the size of a roller skating rink, a tile and chromium and plate glass bath suite adjoining that, a dressing room where he could change into golf bloomers or evening clothes, a vault full of liquor and a bar. And of course, there had to be a private office, somewhat smaller and less ornate, if only to mark the difference in rank, for the use of the secretary. And beyond that a reception room, preferably paneled and equipped with walnut furniture, intended to impress the visitors.

Private Bars Mysterious.

There is no telling what these exceedingly private bars and the vaults full of liquor were for, but at an irresponsible guess they could have been used for drinking purposes, and if that were so it might contribute something to a general explanation of the collapse of business in the U. S. A. The alert, hustling young executive type was a phenomenon of the gorgeous and goofy era and he did not fall on his face in public. But this close proximity of the bars and the liquor supply to the young executive's desk was no reassuring thing to anybody who ever paused to consider the matter, if any one ever did.

Twenty years ago if a man had kept so much as a quart in the big, bottom drawer of his desk as a regular thing, he would have aroused certain misgivings. But, indicating just how goofy the gorgeous and goofy era was, it came to be quite the smart young executive thing to keep from a hundred to a thousand quarts, arrayed in nice racks, with the heads down, in a vault adjoining the wood paneled office, and, in some cases, to maintain a sort of combination doorboy, bartender, butler and valet as a necessary member of the young executive's office personnel.

People Must Match Fittings.

There are no bars in the government's new buildings, but in all other respects the dreams of the architects are realized or will be under the present plans. Then, naturally, it will be necessary to maintain the personnel of all the departments in order to utilize all the space and facilities which would otherwise stand idle, running up losses.

In private industry this sort of spending has ceased and the bars are not being used as much as they were before. But a statesman, even though sober, finds it difficult to cease spending. He does not have to quit spending merely because he is fresh out of money, which is a fortunate brake on the spending of other people. A statesman can spend the future and magnificent spending induces a goofiness all its own and causes the subject to spend more and more.

So the boys are as goofy as ever.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.—More scandal in connection with the sale of honors is considered likely to be exposed by the suit filed today for return of a $34,200 "loan" to Mauntdy Gregory. Gregory was sentenced recently to two months' imprisonment for trying to obtain from a naval officer $50,000 for a grant of a knighthood or a baronetcy.

Tell of Other Cases.

The suit was brought by Simon Hartog, director of a firm of produce agents. It is rumored that another of Gregory's former acquaintances is bringing suit for the return of $100,000.

At Gregory's trial police testified that they had heard of several other cases in which he had obtained or tried to obtain money on representation that he was able to influence the grant of honors.

Gregory, who is editor and proprietor of a monthly journal called the Whitehall Gazette, which specializes in political and diplomatic information, is a man of mystery.

Although he had no apparent source for a large income, he always had plenty of money to spend and it was generally believed, probably due to his own hints, that he occupied a high position in the British secret service.

Lists Scrutinized.

There was no implication that Gregory is able to influence the grant of honors and it is a fact that the lists have been strictly scrutinized since the scandals over grants of honors for political subscriptions during and previous to the last premiership of David Lloyd George.

It was also announced today that Gregory inherited $90,000 from Mrs. Edith Marion Ross, who died in his house last September. Mrs. Ross was the wife of a theatrical composer and musical director now living at Brighton.

COON ABANDONS ATTEMPT AT TREE SITTING RECORD

Snooney, the tree sitting raccoon, yesterday upset plans to return him to his home in the raccoon pit at the Lincoln park zoo. A hunting party, headed by Zoo Supt. Floyd Young, set out yesterday morning with food, nets, and rifles for the tree in which the raccoon had taken residence late Wednesday afternoon. The tree is on the Diversey beach, but the animal had gone away. The escape was made despite an espionage system set up by park employés.

Supt. Young said a careful count showed that three raccoons had fled the zoo pit early Wednesday morning. He expressed the belief that vandals had freed the animals. He also pointed out that raccoon meat was excellent as food. Several ducks also have disappeared from the zoo lately, Mr. Young said.

"We cannot allow the raccoons to be running around loose frightening people," Mr. Young said. "If they will not come out of the trees we'll just have to shoot them in the trees—if we can find the trees."

HITLER TROOPERS CENSOR CATHOLIC PAPER BY FORCE

Invade Offices; Demand Proof Sheets.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 23.—Adolf Hitler's storm troopers today invaded the offices of the Catholic Centrist newspaper Niederrheinisches Tageblatt in Kempen, a Rhineland city, and demanded to see the newspaper's proof sheets. The Nazi storm troop leader and the police commissioner censored the proof sheets before permitting the newspaper to go to press.

Dr. Heinrich Vorkel, secretary general of the Centrist party, sent a sharp protest to Capt. Hermann Goering, minister without portfolio in Hitler's cabinet, and also Prussian minister of interior.

Capt. Goering, who has been waging a vigorous campaign against the Catholic press, replied to the protest by warning provincial governors that control of the press must be enforced more drastically.

Threatens to Punish Officials.

"Insults against Chancellor Hitler and the government must end," he warned, threatening disciplinary punishment for negligent officials.

The iron hand of censorship against opponents of the government of "national concentration," was also felt by the Socialist party today. The police commissioner of Mannheim decreed that all campaign speeches intended for delivery to outdoor Socialist assemblies must be submitted for censorship 24 hours in advance.

In Berlin tonight, Nazi troopers appeared before the Busch circus where a Socialist rally was scheduled to be held. Police prohibited the meeting "to avoid useless clashes and bloodshed."

Earlier in the evening, Friedrich Stampfer, Socialist member of the reichstag and editor of the frequently suppressed newspaper Vorwaerts, addressed foreign newspaper men and said that he believed Hitler will not succeed in creating a Fascist state in Germany.

"The people want a moderate republic," he said. "The German worker has no revolutionary inclinations, but his power of resistance to oppressive rule is tremendous. History proves this. For years he resisted the kaiser's anti-socialist laws and ended by overthrowing the monarchy. Even the Nazi wave of terrorism does not frighten us."

In an effort to soothe the ruffled feelings of states in southern Germany, Gen. Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, is visiting Munich, Karsruhe and Stuttgart. The general reviewed troops at Munich today and appealed to them to remain faithful to the fatherland.

Bavaria Defies Cabinet.

While he was exhorting the reichswehr to greater patriotism, Fritz Schaeffer, leader of the Bavarian People's party, flatly warned the Hitler government that Bavaria will not stand for a federal commissioner in response to reports that such action was being contemplated by the Hitlerites after the reichstag elections March 5.

"The Bavarian people and their defense organizations will arrest a commissioner at the border," Schaeffer said.

[Prussia is the only state under rule of a commissioner. Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen holds that post.]

In line with this warning, the Prussian state council today adopted a resolution declaring the dissolution of the Prussian diet and communal governments unconstitutional. The Supreme court was asked to rule on the dissolution.

SLAPS TEACHER WHO SENT HER BROTHER HOME; HELD IN JAIL

Edinburg, Ill., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Miss Ruth Breuninger, a teacher at the Greer school west of here, today caused the detention of George Richards, 16, and his sister, Lottie, on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The teacher sent George home from school yesterday. Later, Miss Breuninger charged, Lottie came to school and slapped her. The teacher said she remained in the school house when she saw an automobile containing six persons patroling the road in front of the building.

COURT UPSETS CONVICTION OF TWO BANKERS

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday reversed the conviction of two Cook county bankers, sentenced to prison terms for embezzlement. The conviction of a third Cook county banker was upheld by the Supreme court.

Charles J. Wolf, former president of the Citizens' State bank of Melrose Park, obtained one of the reversals. In the Circuit court of Cook county testimony was produced to show that he had embezzled more than $33,000.

The second reversal was made in favor of Karl J. Heinzelman, a director of the closed Exchange State bank, who was sentenced to one to ten years. The case was remanded for a new trial.

The conviction upheld was that of Carl A. Mueller, president of the closed Laramie State bank, who was convicted of making false statements to bank examiners. His sentence is one to ten years in prison.

ACID STOMACH IS DANGEROUS

Sufferers from Indigestion CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach," says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach at an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis or stomach ulcers. Don't dose an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only give temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize or sweeten your acid stomach after meals with a little Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. Your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any Walgreen Drug Store. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

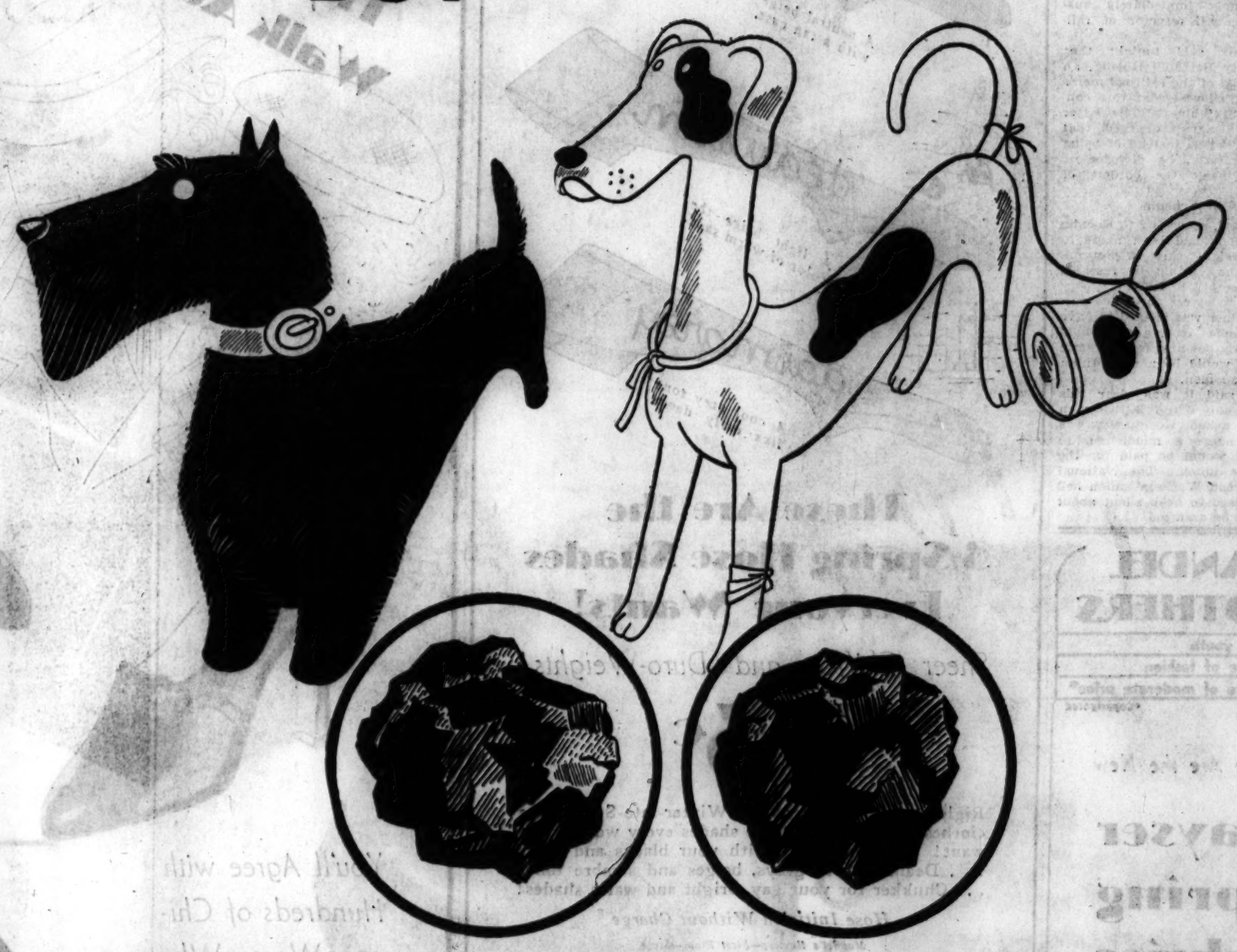
BOTH HAVE THE SAME NAME

BUT—



WHAT A DIFFERENCE!

CALL "FIDO!" and either of these dogs will come to you. Their names are the same . . . but one is a mongrel, the other a thoroughbred. One is worth nothing, the other several hundred dollars.

There is often a similar difference between two lots of coal, both with exactly the same name.

No matter whether you use soft coal, smokeless coal, or hard coal . . . regardless of the size you order or what name you ask for . . . each kind of coal has grades that are as far apart as a mongrel and a thoroughbred.

One comes from a good mine, the other from a poor one. One is properly cleaned, the other contains impurities. One is shipped carefully by rail, the other broken in shipment by boat. One is delivered fresh to you, the other is weather-beaten by long exposure in the yard. One is what you buy, the other likely to be a mongrel mixture of inferior fuels.

The danger lies in the fact that the difference, great as it is, is hard for the average man to see. You can't tell the mongrel coal until after you have paid for it, tried to burn it, and learned your lesson too late.

How To Buy Thoroughbred Coal!

FIRST: Know your coal merchant, his reputation for honesty, reliability and experience.

SECOND: Beware of so-called "bargains". You can't buy a thoroughbred for the price of a mongrel.

Buy from a reputable merchant. He has his own yard and his own rail siding—his good name to protect and your good will to value. He knows good coal from bad, buys carefully and sells fairly.

There are at least 240 such good merchants in this city. They are members of the Chicago Coal Merchants Association. The pledge of every one to deliver you full weight and honest grading is backed by the Association's guarantee.

Before you buy, ask if the merchant is a member of this Association.

FOUR ENGINEERS BUILD MILL FOR SOVIET PARDONS

Czarist Technicians Work 3 Years for Freedom.

MAKEYEVSKA, U. S. S. R., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Four engineers of the old "intelligentsia," convicted as confessed enemies of the state and then reprieved conditionally from prison terms, have redeemed themselves by giving the Soviet union its first steel blooming mill of a home manufacture.

Working for almost three years under the sharp and ever present scrutiny of the secret police, these technicians of the former régime finally completed construction of the machinery from their own design and have triumphantly witnessed its successful tryout in the Makeyevska steel works here.

Worked Under Arrest.

During the entire period of their labors the quartet, although not in actual confinement, were kept under technical arrest, and their every movement was carefully watched by guards. Now they apparently have qualified for full pardons.

The four men—K. Neimeier, V. Tikhomirov, A. Zile, and N. Tile—were among a group of old Russian technicians arrested with Y. Ramzin, confessed leader of a counterrevolutionary movement, and condemned, after a sensational trial in Moscow in the spring of 1930.

All acknowledge furthering the cause of the "Industrial party," by which Ramzin and his band of fellow engineers sought to overthrow the soviet régime and substitute a government of industrialists of the old order.

Granted Reprieves from Death.

Ramzin and seven of his co-leaders were sentenced to death and then reprieved to 10 years' imprisonment. More than a score of others, including Neimeier, Tikhomirov, Zile, and Tile, were condemned to from five to eight years in prison.

Stalin's speech demanding greater tolerance for the old technical intelligentsia was not made until a year later and feeling was high against all such remnants of czarist Russia.

The soviet state, however, was sorely in need of technical knowledge to pursue its ambitious five year plan. In May of the same year the four men were marched from their prison cells to the office of a high official of the G. P. U.

Needed Technicians.

"The country is badly in need of the knowledge and skill required to produce its own blooming mills," they were told. "You have the experience and brains. Will you design and construct them for us?"

Ready assent came from the four. Guarded night and day, they went to work in the Izhora machine building plant in Leningrad, perfected their designs for the intricate machinery and after experiencing numerous setbacks now have been rewarded by having experts at the factory here acclaim their finished product as equal to the modern foreign blooming mills.

WINS PROMOTION

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Heroic rescues at sea and a record for being one of the finest navigators in the service, today brought to young Capt. Giles G. Stedman promotion into the prize berth of staff captain of the United States Line's flagship, Leviathan.

For a month Stedman has been receiving honors on both sides of the Atlantic for the rescue by his ship, American Merchant, of the twenty-two men of the sinking Exeter City, British freighter, during a gale on Jan. 20.

In October, 1925, while chief officer of the President Harding, he was the hero of the rescue of the crew of the Italian vessel Ignazio Florio.

Capt. Stedman was navigator and chief officer of the Leviathan for several years. The American Merchant was his first command. Now at 35 he is returning to the flagship, second only to Commodore A. B. Randall.

He will replace Capt. Schuyler Cummings, who will be transferred to another ship.

STATE TO SEEK INDICTMENTS IN GAS TAX CASES

Evasion Total Estimated at $1,000,000.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Director Joseph J. Rice of the department of finance announced this afternoon that between forty and fifty indictments will be sought for gasoline tax evasions totaling close to $1,000,000. Some of the delinquencies date back to late 1929 and early 1930.

"We hope to recover most of this money for the state," added Daniel Sullivan, administrative auditor. "Attorney General Kerner will handle civil suits to obtain judgments, and state's attorneys, including Thomas Courtney of Cook county, have indicated they will cooperate with criminal proceedings."

Two Types of Fraud.

Mr. Rice said his department has exposed two general types of criminal fraud. There were distributors who operated without a state license, making no report and paying no tax to the state, and there were distributors who falsified books and records to retain part of the public's revenue, he said. A few of the delinquencies were due to distributors' banks being closed or due to their poor business management, and in these few cases settlements may be made without criminal action.

The first of this series of indictments was returned this week in Cook county against Al and Max Johnson and Sam Levin of the Consumers Gas and Oil company.

"In addition to auditing past collections," said Mr. Rice, "we are also checking on the list of licensed distributors in Illinois to weed out those fly by night companies with officers who have been involved in gasoline bootlegging under some other corporate name. The attorney general has given us an opinion that we can refuse a license to such men."

Claims Total $992,000.

The department of finance has submitted claims totaling $992,000 for collection by the attorney general's office. These include gas tax delinquencies of $680,000 that are two years old and current taxes of $312,000 that are overdue.

"With a rigorous enforcement of the motor fuel act," said the department head, "we expect that 1933 will show an increase in gas tax collections, even over the boom years. The total registration of vehicles has shrunk a bit, but traffic counts indicate owners are using their automobiles more."

In 1932, $29,060,000 state gasoline tax was collected, as compared with $30,258,000 in 1931. From the 1932 total, $1,280,000 was refunded for gasoline that was not used on the highways. The counties were allotted $9,271,115 for road work or for charity relief, while $18,542,230 was turned into the state highway fund.

MINE PICKETS AND DEPUTIES CLASH; FIRST SINCE TRUCE

A special deputy was shot in the foot; others were less seriously injured when hit with stones and clubs, and pickets suffered minor injuries before they were dispersed.

About three hundred pickets had gathered at the Peerless mine, a Peabody colliery, at closing time. Fifty special deputy sheriffs were on duty. As the working miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America, left the grounds the pickets yelled and threw stones at their automobiles.

Officials were not prepared to say by whom it was fired.

Stones and clubs were used by the pickets in resisting the efforts of the deputies to drive them away. Members of both sides sustained minor injuries and bruises. A number of automobiles were damaged.

INDIANA LAW TO GIVE PENSION TO THOSE OVER 70

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The bill for a pension of $15 monthly to citizens of Indiana attaining the age of 70 became a law this evening. It was signed by Gov. Paul V. McNutt. It had been advocated for 12 years in Indiana by the Fraternal Orde of Eagles.

The state senate under suspension of the rules today rushed through a bill increasing the salary of Lieut. Gov. M. Clifford Townsend from $1,000 to $6,858.80 in years when the general assembly meets and to $6,000 in the other years.

Townsend yesterday led the administration fight in passing a sales tax under similar suspension of rules.

BUYER'S GREED CAUSES CAPTURE OF AUTO THIEVES

Because a band of young automobile thieves believed that the fence who purchased stolen automobiles and accessories was giving them a "bum deal," police yesterday were able to capture the whole ring, recover 17 stolen cars and a supply of accessories which is valued at $8,000. The gang of eight has confessed to thefts of 150 automobiles during the last two years. Already 40 complaints have been signed against them.

On Saturday afternoon Policemen James Oakey and Michael O'Donnell arrested Andy Zengrin, 23, of 4551 South Talman avenue, and Ray Lysien, 18, of 2306 West 23d place, in a stolen sedan. After questioning, the pair told the police to arrest Walter Jurek, 28, at the Drop Inn Service station at 5117 Ogden avenue, Cicero. They said Jurek had been purchasing stolen cars, paying $15 and $20 for machines which he sold for $200. "He once gave us $15 for 40 brand new tires we stole," the youth said. "If we are locked up we want to see him behind bars, too."

Jurek was seized, the accessories discovered at his home and several stolen automobiles in the garage. When he was informed of the source of the police information he retaliated by giving the names of five other youths who worked with him, who also were arrested. RETRENCHMENT AND THE NEW CONGRESS.

As was pointed out the other day, it is of great moment to the nation in its present emergency that power and responsibility for government retrenchment be concentrated in the hands of the chief executive. The fate of economy at the hands of congress has been as conspicuous as deplorable. Its fate will be no happier in the new congress if the President is not given full power to act and will exercise that power courageously.

It is also of importance that the power be granted by this congress. It is much the safer course. It is true that the next congress will be organized by the Democratic party, which is pledged to drastic retrenchment of expenditure. It is true that its chief, the President, is even more explicitly pledged to retrenchment and that he can exercise, if he will, a commanding influence over congressional action. It is true that the lame duck congress has demonstrated that congress is not a likely agency of economy and this has impressed the nation and even congress itself. With this demonstration the demand for radical retrenchment has grown in extent and intensity and it may be hoped on this ground that the next congress will be even more amenable to it than the present.

But this is not a safe assumption. The new congressmen are pledged collectively, and in many cases individually, to retrenchment, but they are also under pressure of special groups to protect their special claims for federal aid. Many of the present congress are leaving office and therefore can afford to consider the general good, and it would be well to take advantage of this while we have it to get authority for the executive to act freely for retrenchment. We hope the manhandling of retrenchment proposals in the present congress will so intensify the demand for economy that the next congress will be impressed by it, as well as the urgent need for it, more than the present congress has been. But it is not advisable to rely upon this for the reason we have given. The next congress should find the executive in possession of full power to act in the common interest and not be required to meet the importunities of self-seeking groups whose pressure will very likely be greater than ever. With the President fully empowered to act in the nation's interest congress should be willing to support him. Responsibility for fulfilling the party pledge will be fixed and not evaded among hundreds of legislators, while the President, as representative not only of all the people but of his party's good faith under pledge, will have a moral and political sanction for essential drastic action which will support him adequately.

It is of first rate importance also that the Democratic organization shall be under more effective discipline in the next congress than in the present. A consistent program for reduced appropriations and emergency legislation is essential to substantial accomplishments. It must be assured as far as party control can assure it, that such a program shall not be raided by rebel groups in the party and that action urgently required in the critical conditions of this time shall not be delayed by the parliamentary tactics of reckless groups. It is up to the President elect and the party leadership not only to formulate a program but to organize an iron support for it. A prompt demonstration of party solidarity for a sound program would do more than anything else to restore the morale of the business and financial world and the confidence of the people generally.

But the pressure upon congress for economy must be maintained and increased. It must be organized more widely and it must have the vigorous aid of the responsible press. There must be no relaxation, but, on the contrary, an intensification of the demand for drastic retrenchment and immediate relief from destructive taxation. Opposition, obstruction, and evasion will not only continue but probably increase. Special interests are always powerful out of proportion and in congress they are able to combine their strength by log rolling. The common interest of the nation in tax relief must be strong enough in organization and unity of action to overcome them and especially to give to the executive the support he must have to impose his will.

THE INSULL PENSION.

A petition to the Illinois commerce commission asking for an investigation of financial losses by the Insull operating companies raises the question of the pensions paid to Samuel Insull Sr. Mr. Insull is in effect a fugitive from Illinois indictments and is protected by the Greek government. He departed from Chicago as soon as the incon sruity of his place of responsibility as a receiver became notorious. He fled from France when he learned that the Cook county prosecutor would require his return to stand trial. In Greece he successfully resisted the efforts of Cook county exercised through the federal extradition treaty to bring him back. The quasi-judicial proceedings in Greece were curiosities to the American comprehension of them, but the upshot is that Mr. Insull is at liberty to view beautiful ruins for the conditions of which he has no responsibility.

His freedom may be a matter of satisfaction to him, but it would not be to a man who keenly felt that his operations had brought ruin to as many citizens as now view the wreckage of their expectations in the various obligations issued by Mr. Insull.

Even when Samuel Insull was recognized as the creator of sound and successful utility companies he was also identified with a great deal of political action, incidental, probably, to the protection of his companies, but nevertheless highly contemptuous of ideals of political probity.

If Mr. Insull had faced the issue when he was abroad as a man conscious of his innocence although ruined by elements he could not control, there would be justice in withholding judgment until he had had his day in court. He said that he feared political animus in the proceedings started against him. Another man is now the Cook county prosecutor, but Mr. Insull has not changed his conduct.

In these circumstances his right to a pension, however much it may have been deserved by the good he did his companies in his best days, becomes highly questionable. The victims of his later day operations will never see the justice of granting him a competence when they face destitution.

A VICIOUS MEASURE.

Chairman Davis of the house of representatives committee on merchant marine, radio and fisheries has submitted to the house the revised intercoastal carrier regulation bill, with the recommendation of the committee that it be enacted into law.

The bill, according to the committee's report, is intended to provide publication of rates in the public interest and to prevent secret rebates and preferential treatment to favored shippers and make stable rates available to all shippers alike.

While the bill appears innocent enough, so did the interstate commerce act at the time it was originally submitted to congress. If that act is to be regarded as a precedent the shipping board will now proceed to dig itself in, hire a lot of clerks to examine and file tariffs and to make recommendations for changes in the law that will give more and more power and territory to cripple water transportation. It will be observed that the intentions of the bill are very similar to those of the original interstate commerce act. The bugbear of secret rebates and preferential treatment to favored shippers is held up as the principal reason for the government assuming to dictate the details of water transportation.

The real result of such an enactment will not be the benefit of shippers but the making of more jobs to be carried at the taxpayers' expense. It is a part of the process by which bureaucracy has expanded year by year, the freedom of enterprise enchained and the public debt piled mountain high. When the history of federal regulation of railway operation is considered, the proposal to extend its consequences to a new field is inexcusable. That a congressional committee should recommend it cannot be accounted for on grounds of experience, for experience condemns it. It is a repudiation of experience. Congressional approval can only be explained on the ground that the measure will create more patronage. The measure is an unjustifiable extension of bureaucratic meddling at a time when the business men of the nation are demanding relief from it. It is a reactionary measure, vicious in its results and dubious in its intent. It should be defeated.

IN FAIRNESS TO HARVARD.

From time to time enemies of the nation's oldest pedagogic institute accuse it of an aristocratic snobbishness. This is not, has not, and could not ever be true. There has never been an aristocratic taint or touch about Harvard, Boston, Massachusetts, or New England.

The w. k. pilgrims were a band of small, small-town shopkeepers, "petits commercants," as the French say. In their blood Boston and Harvard were born, and in their footsteps their descendants have loyally followed.

Such gentlefolk, in English parlance, as came to our shores settled in Virginia and Maryland, and some French Huguenot nobles took root in South Carolina, but there is no color of ancient lineage north of Cape May.

Looking upon the southern "Aristos" as aliens, the Bostonians even resented the hauteur of the Virginia officers who came with Washington to save them, drove the English from Boston, and avenged the defeat of the Massachusetts militia at Bunker (Breed's) hill.

Never let it be said that Harvard is a den of snobs or aristocrats. It is as always the exponent of the virtues and foibles of the bourgeoisie that is New England.

As the oldest and one of the largest schools in America, Harvard is entitled to this defense.

[Aurora Beacon-News.]

Human beings have many fears. None of them is more tragic or foolish than the fear of old age.

There died in New York not long ago a veteran actress at the age of 80. Few people knew her real age before her death; some thought she was 65, some thought she was much younger. She had a grown daughter, but she never let any one know it; she had left her husband and her daughter long ago in order that no one might find out how old she was.

Several years before her death she had had to retire from the stage, but she tried to keep up the fiction of youth to the very last. She passed herself off as "the pretty young ingénue." After her retirement she became even more determined to be youthful. She even convinced herself. In her last years she was not an old woman, in her own eyes; she was a charming young actress, flushed with triumphs, ready to rise to stardom anew on her girlish beauty and charm.

Her story is almost unbearably pathetic. But it is unusual only in that this woman went a little bit farther in her fear of old age than most of us try to go.

We all share her fear, to a certain extent. We fight the advancing years desperately and futilely, and when wrinkles or gray hairs or bodily weakness at last convince us that we are on the downward slope we feel very sorry for ourselves.

There is in all of this a subtle proof that our scheme of living is out of joint somewhere. Old age should be the crown of life—the Indian summer of human existence, a time for peaceful contemplation and reflection. It might be, if we prepared for it.

But we don't. We force ourselves not to think that we shall be old some day; and when that some day comes, and we are old, we feel that fate has cheated us most infamously.

It needn't be that way. We all know old people who have escaped that mistake; people who accept age undisturbed, who don't grope back in vain for the illusion of lost youth, but who accept the quiet and peace of advanced years as a harbor for which they have long been steering.

Wonder if some of the statues we've got scattered around here and there in Chicago wouldn't work into good jigsaw puzzles. And anyhow, if they couldn't put 'em together afterwards we could still worry along.

AND NOW THAT WOMEN have one of their sex in the cabinet—well, it's going to make it tougher, boys, for us to high hat 'em. And try now and tell 'em that a woman's place is the home! Or that a woman can't understand politics or baseball or other great questions of the day! Men, it looks like we're all through pulling this man is the superior stuff any more. They've got us licked, fellers, they've got us licked. It won't even do any good to try to end the argument by saying: "Well, yuh never heard of a woman President of this here country, hev yuh?" They'll come right back with "Not yet, but now that we've got into the cabinet, a woman President is the next thing." We've got to think up some comeback to that one, men, otherwise we'll just stay down for the full count.

TWO ITEMS in the newspapers yesterday prove that what is an orchid to some people is only an onion to others. The governor of Maine has appointed Rudy Vallee a colonel on his staff. That's one way of looking at things. The other item quotes John McCormack, the w. k. tenor, saying he had quit discussing crooners. "After all the poor boys must live," and then he added somewhat gloomily: "God knows why, but they must, so let 'em alone." Well, if we all saw things exactly alike what a tiresome world it would be.

SONNET.

Tonight the world is somber in its sleep.
The clouds ride fast before the Winter moon
Like witches in a race going to keep
The Devil's Sabbath. This same place at noon
Was but a blare of Winter sun, and I
Was one who moved about the market place
Glad of people, glad of the sunny sky,
With thoughts of carrots, and a housewife face.
But now I sit alone, the only one
Awake in all my world. The little death
Of sleep killed all save me. And when the sun
Comes up tomorrow, bourgeois, warm of breath,
And smug, I will be as I was before,
And seeking people, know myself no more.

AVOID DUST.

LEAVING aside speculations and theorizing, the present day information concerning the harmfulness of dust is about as follows:

The effects of the inhalation of dust are of several kinds. There is an outgrowth of fibrous tissue, or scar tissue, in the lungs, which goes by such names as miner's phthisis, miner's consumption, silicosis, anthracosis, and a number of others. It causes shortness of breath, lack of endurance, and limitation of capacity for work. Eventually it may result in cavities in the lungs and hemorrhages not due to phthisis. People with this disorder are generally able to keep at work for several years after they learn what the trouble is, though they can expect to lose something in capacity for productive labor year by year and finally to cross over the river a few years in advance of schedule.

In most cases the disorder is suspected because of poor wind and lessened endurance and this leads to an X-ray picture of the lungs. In evaluating X-ray pictures as a basis of diagnosis of silicosis it is well to recall Dr. Thayer's opinion of the diagnosis of consumption by means of X-rays made on soldiers and sailors during the world war. This opinion was that such diagnoses were wrong in at least half the cases and that the conclusions drawn from X-ray pictures were generally too serious.

In addition to the more direct effects silicosis of the lungs is not infrequently the basis for a secondary tuberculosis infection of the lungs.

Aside from the harm due to breathing dust through overgrowth of fibrous tissue in some circumstances dusty air contributed to pneumonic infections.

And finally breathing dust might cause asthma, hay fever, and bring about poisoning such as lead poisoning.

The dusts most productive of silicosis are those richest in silicon. Sandstone and quartz stand at the top. Granite is much lower in the scale. Limestone is quite low.

The most harmful trades are cleaning buildings with sand, sand blasting of other kinds, mining sand and sandstone, mining in quartz rock, handling quartz ores and sand products, mining and fabricating asbestos.

The worst of all combinations is dust composed of sand and soap. Handling of artificial products made from silicon mixtures such as carborundum is also an important source of silicosis.

In most situations the indoor air can be kept fairly free from dust by means of artificial ventilation. The use of positive pressure respirators and other forms of dust masks has a field, though not a large one.

The only satisfactory method of keeping track of the effects of dust in the lungs of men working at dusty trades is to make X-ray pictures of the lungs when the workman is employed and periodically thereafter. These should be filed. The periodic physical examination should include a record of breathing capacity and wind. Every industry having a factory or division in which the air is habitually dusty should have a record of periodic dust counts and an analysis of the physical and chemical qualities of the dust.

HIS EARS BURN.

1. What is ringworm eczema?
2. Is it hereditary?

REPLY

1. An eruption caused by ringworm.
2. No.

BLOOD PRESSURE.

L. F. D. writes: Which is more dangerous to health—high or low blood pressure?

High blood pressure is much more liable to cause or to be associated with organic diseases and to cause death. Low blood pressure is more likely to cause symptoms and some functional disorders.

If the policy is so worded that you are in a position to collect an endowment figure at any time that you choose then it is a question of this figure rather than of a surrender value. In general your rights depend on the wording of the policy.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 24, 1917.

LONDON.—Premier Lloyd George announced in the house of commons the revolutionary methods decided on by the war council and cabinet to meet the conditions brought about by the German submarine campaign. He did not conceal the gravity of the situation. He admitted that the submarine menace, "unless dealt with ruthlessly, will bring disaster before us"; that the food shortage was the worst England ever had known, and that unless Britain stripped down for action to the last ounce of its strength victory is impossible. Great Britain's program—regarded by many as the last effort to crush the enemy—contains these main features: Prohibition of the import of all luxuries and many things now considered necessities of life, thus freeing tonnage that will be used to bring the essentials of life and the articles needed for the national defenses; government fixed prices for producers of foodstuffs within the nation, national aid in increasing the crops, and a minimum wage for the farm workers; gigantic reduction in amount of beer brewed, with similar reduction in distilled liquors; the strengthening of the naval forces of the empire, especially in the smaller craft fitted to combat the submarines, and the ruthless use of these powers in an attempt to sweep the submarine peril from the seas; speeding up of the building of the merchant marine to replace the havoc wrought by the submarines, and speeding up of all forms of labor needed by defense by the payment of higher wages, by government bonus if necessary.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—With a break with Austria impending and open rebellion against President Wilson brewing in congress, the international situation took on a graver aspect. The President and the cabinet at a two hour session came to the conclusion that unless Austria presents immediately a withdrawal of her proclamation of ruthless submarine warfare there will be no recourse but to sever diplomatic relations with Vienna. The Republicans in the senate served notice that they would endeavor to force the calling of an extra session of congress on the ground that the war making powers should share with the executive the grave responsibility of shaping the policies of the nation at this critical time.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, famous contralto, who was to have sung here tomorrow night with the St. Louis Symphony orchestra, was seriously injured when a street car crashed into a taxicab in which she was riding with her accompanist, Miss Edith Evans. Mme. Schumann-Heink suffered fractures of two ribs, a deep laceration of the right arm, and probable internal injuries. Miss Evans escaped uninjured.

CHICAGO.—A food census of Chicago will be started today. Acting under the forestalling ordinance of the city, Chief of Police Schuettler will send out a special detail of officers to call at each of the twenty-one big cold storage warehouses in Chicago. They will be instructed to secure at each an exact statement of the total amount of food of various kinds and classes which are in storage. With that information on hand it will be possible to determine to just what extent food speculators and manipulators are responsible for the soaring prices of food materials.

CHICAGO.—Two marriages of interest to society will take place today, one in this city, the other in New York. Miss Julie Manierre, one of the most popular of the city's young women, will be married at the home of her father, William R. Manierre of 1507 North Dearborn parkway, to William B. Mann. The wedding of Miss Helvetia Orr, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Orr of 66 Cedar street, to Frank B. Perkins, son of Robert Forbes Perkins of Boston, will be solemnized in New York at the home of Miss Orr's sister, Mrs. Marion Sims Wyeth.

THE PARASITES.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—There isn't the slightest doubt that the parasites are destroying the life upon which they live through their ever increasing greed. We have drifted into the socialistic state, taking from those who have and giving to the unproductive leeches. Our elected officials are imbued with the one idea of getting for themselves everything they can and absolutely refuse to see the handwriting on the wall, though it looms as large as the sun.

An ever increasing array of so-called experts are marching on Washington propounding ways and means of taking gobs of money from the U. S. treasury to help agriculture when by so doing they are only aggravating the farmer's plight. Every civilization has been ruined by taxation and again history is repeating itself. If they really want to help agriculture and industry it is as simple as A B C.

The wealth of the country has found safety in tax exempt securities and the back of the country is being broken by waste and tax eaters.

There should be no tax exemptions. Every one should share the tax burden and owner farmers should have a small acreage almost tax free.

No person should be penalized for thrift.

The depression could be immediately broken if the tax eaters, federal, state and all the rest, would adjourn for a year without pay. Dismiss the unnecessary bureaus and equalize the taxes and let the natural law of the fittest survive. Gamblers know that in a poker game that is carried through to a conclusion the kitty or table has all the money in the end. The tax hogs are cannibals and will destroy themselves in time, but they will destroy the world with them if they are not curbed.

THE PROHIBITION BRIGADE.

Indianapolis, Feb. 17.—Your editorial, "Federal Men Under Prohibition," would be amusing were it not for the fact that the great bulk of the citizens of this country never saw a prohibition agent, have no idea of the infinite pains the government has taken to select a high type of man and later to thoroughly train him for this service. Their idea of a prohibition agent is almost invariably taken from such horribly misleading articles as appear in your paper.

A parallel to the inference that you draw in this editorial could well be an inference that because on several occasions robbers have dressed themselves to represent a Santa Claus and under such a disguise have robbed stores that the celebration of Christmas should be prohibited.

When prohibition first became the law the necessity of procuring a large number of enforcement officers, at a time when other jobs were plentiful, made it possible for many undesirables to get into the service. For the last four or five years since the service has become subject to civil service regulations, and at a time when work for the highest type of men is scarce, the service has been able to get the type of men it wants. Col. Woodcock has been untiring in his efforts to get rid of the older, cruder political appointees in the service and to build up the service with a new type—young college men, ex-army men, men who have been successful in other lines and now, on account of the depression, find themselves in this service.

PROHIBITION INVESTIGATOR.

TWO MEN DIE.

Chicago, Feb. 21.—A few days ago a prominent physician died in Chicago. Notice of his death, with a small passport type of photograph, was printed on an inside page of the Chicago dailies. A few days later a famous prize fighter died in New York. The best of the photographer's art was seen in his picture that occupied a large space on the front page. Many columns of reading matter told the story of his life.

The doctor had spent his adult life searching, finding and teaching other doctors the causes of disease, so that those causes might be controlled or eliminated. When the war came he used his knowledge and gave unsparingly of his strength and energy to protect the health of soldiers in the United States army. What he did there has benefited the army and civil population of every country of the world.

Why the death of the prize fighter was news and the death of the doctor was not news we do not know. Of the value of the two lives editorial opinion is perhaps the same as ours, but no one knows better than editors the difference between real value and news value.

Physical combat has a great appeal for childhood. The average mental age of the world's adult population is said to be somewhere between eight and twelve years. As long as that level maintains, prize fighting must continue to entertain and war must be the choice means of settling differences of opinion. Who knows? Perhaps if we lost our interest in the prize ring and refused to engage in war adult mental age might sink to even lower levels. At any rate, Dr. Charles Spencer Williamson, your contribution to the science of medicine will never die, and we say bon voyage with a quotation from the Book of Common Prayer: "Unto God's gracious mercy and protection we commit thee. The Lord bless thee and keep thee. The Lord make his face to shine upon thee and be gracious unto thee. The Lord lift up his countenance upon thee and give thee peace."

SERVICE.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—I wish to commend the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company for the way it handled the situation at 47th and Lake Park avenue during the recent big fire when the gas had to be shut off in that vicinity for a day and night. I have an oil burner in my home which has a gas pilot light and it was necessary for some one to attend to the burner constantly. The gas company sent men in frequently to see that all was well during the day and when evening came sent a man to stay with the burner all night so that we would not be inconvenienced.

VIVISECTION WAR RAGES; SCIENCE LISTS BENEFITS

Dog Experiments Credited with 12 Achievements.

Vivisectionists and "antis" have renewed their old battle over the dogs that nobody wants.

While the Anti-Vivisection society is seeking an injunction to restrain the police from turning over the dog pounds to the universities in the interests of science the Illinois Society for the Protection of Medical Research is petitioning each alderman to keep in effect the Arvey amendment to the dog pound ordinance which makes unclaimed dogs available to the medical institutions.

This research protective society is led by the precidents of the four great universities in the state. Its active workers are Dr. A. J. Carlson, professor of physiology at the University of Chicago, and Dr. A. C. Ivy, professor of physiology at Northwestern university medical school.

They present a long list of scientific achievements which have been made possible through the experiments on the humble dog. The objections raised against such experiments are looked upon in the light of an hysterical crusade.

The dogs who have gone through the medical mills have been responsible for at least twelve wonders of medical science, and have saved millions of lives, according to the professors.

Accomplishments Are Listed.

A homely mongrel who wagged his tail at the name of "Jerry," but who had no master and was on the way to the lethal chamber, may stand as the symbol of martyrdom for these accomplishments:

1. Discovery of insulin, which has prolonged a million lives.
2. A liver extract used in combating pernicious anemia.
3. Parathyroid tetany, formerly fatal, now made easy.
4. The new anesthetic, ethylene, which relieves pain.
5. The use of ether.
6. Pasteur treatment for rabies and, incidentally, the prevention and cure of this disease in dogs.
7. What is known about hookworm, which also attacks dogs.
8. Recent discoveries in the control of Addison's disease.
9. Treatment of phosphorus burns, lung irritants such as gas, and traumatic shock.
10. Methods of resuscitation.
11. Study of digestive processes and the liver.
12. Methods of measuring blood pressure and experiments in the cause and cure of rickets.

Benefits for Dogs, Too.

There is fully as long a list of benefits which have come to the animals, so Jerry's name should be writ high in dog heaven books.

"Anti-vivisectionists," said Dr. Ivy, "remind me of the tragic story of the Russian countess who went to a theater and wept profusely because of the imaginary sufferings of the heroine. After the drama she went out to find her waiting coachman half frozen to death and went into a rage because this did not fit in with her ideas of service. Her reaction to false sentiment caused her to weep. The presence of a true sentiment would have caused the countess to take steps that would have prevented the coachman from freezing and would have aroused sympathy instead of wrath.

Through true sentiment medical science has done and is able to do something real for suffering humanity and animals. True sentiment compels men to use methods which lead to an understanding of biologic processes which result in the increase of food supply and the control and prevention of suffering.

For Humane Experimentation.

"The only way known to man for accomplishing this end effectively is experimentation involving the humane use of animals. To deny that animal experimentation has accomplished anything is to deny most of the findings of modern medical science and the efficacy of most of its treatments.

"I received the following letter a year ago: 'I hope you will suffer the agonies of the damned, just in proportion to what you are making those little animals suffer. I pray that whoever rules the universe will punish you terribly.'

"My reply was: 'It is my sincere hope that I will suffer no more distress in the life to come than I have caused my animals to suffer, and the little I will suffer shall make me extraordinarily happy when I shall think of the inestimable value for the welfare of mankind that will have been derived from such a small sacrifice.'"

ACCIDENT VICTIM

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Daisy Danziger Moreno, society wife of Antonio Moreno, the Spanish motion picture star, was killed early today when her automobile plunged down a 250 foot cliff.

The accident occurred shortly after midnight, when Mrs. Moreno was driving a friend of herself and her husband, Rene Dussac, Swiss youth, into Mulholland highway, along a ridge of the Hollywood mountains, to show Dussac the panorama of city lights far below. A fog shrouded the mountains and Dussac, who had taken the wheel, lost control of the car.

Dussac, suffering from five fractured vertebræ and internal injuries, managed to crawl up the mountainside and flag another car for help. Surgeons said they were unable to explain how he was able to climb the cliff with his back broken.

Moreno collapsed at Hollywood Athletic club, where he had removed after beginning a "temporary separation" from his wife last Friday, when informed of the tragedy.

BROR DAHLBERG WILL SETTLE BILL FOR TIGHT SUITS

Bror Dahlberg, president of the Celotex company, will not face the necessity of trying on four suits and a waistcoat in the Municipal court of Judge Eugene Holland. Attorneys for Dahlberg and a New York tailoring concern, which had sued for $770 for the suits, told Judge Holland yesterday that a settlement would be made.

Attorney Henry N. Miller, who had demanded that Dahlberg appear in court and don the two dress suits and two sack suits in question, said out of court that he was prepared to prove that Dahlberg, who claimed the suits were too tight, had gained two inches in girth since he ordered them. Dahlberg was represented by the law firm of Barthell & Rundall.

ETTELSON WINS POINT IN INSULL TRUSTEE FIGHT

Judge Admits Court May Have Exceeded Power.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson raised a question yesterday as to the right of himself or any other judge to hand over the list of creditors of a bankrupt company to certain selected attorneys, thereby, in the judge's own words, "providing those attorneys with all the weapons necessary for the election of a trustee of the bankrupt company."

The judge raised the question at a hearing on the validity of the election of Attorney W. W. Wheelock as trustee of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc. Admitting that he and his colleagues on the federal bench had frequently followed the questioned practice, Judge Wilkerson indicated nevertheless that in this case it might provide grounds for disqualifying Mr. Wheelock.

With $500,000 cash in its treasury and with suits for recovery of $40,000,000 pending against ten big banks, the Insull Utility trusteeship has been contested hotly for weeks. Distribution of the $500,000 among creditors and supervision of the suits against the banks will devolve upon whomever Judge Wilkerson confirms as trustee.

First Trustee Disqualified.

Counsel for three groups of creditors, having lost a fight for confirmation of their original candidate, Calvin Fentress, put up and elected Mr. Wheelock, whose election is now being challenged by Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel. Intervening as attorney for his wife, an Insull investor, Mr. Ettelson contends that the lawyers sponsoring Mr. Wheelock were, at the outset of the receivership, in collusion with Samuel Insull and the banks they are now about to sue.

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, whose Committee of 1,000 cast the vote of $3,000,000 in claims which elected Mr. Wheelock, was defending himself against the collusion charge and reciting how he had laid the groundwork for the suit against the banks yesterday when Judge Wilkerson cut him off.

"There is no question by your adversary as to your diligence and aggressiveness so far," the judge observed. "His objection, as I perceive it, is that you have had some underground relations in the past which may cause you to relax your diligence when the suits reach the critical stage. His objection also bears on the manner in which your committee was formed."

Mr. Jacobson broke in to explain that the list of creditors which his committee used in soliciting deposits of claims had been given the committee by Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, in whose jurisdiction the Insull receiverships first fell.

Raises "Serious Question."

"That raises a serious question," Judge Wilkerson remarked. "Just what right has a judge to give such lists to one group and not to all? I am raising a question about something we've all done. I don't know, of course, that other attorneys who have received such lists have used them to secure powers of attorney, as seems to have been done here. It appears, however, that the judges, in furnishing such lists, provide those attorneys all the weapons they need for naming the trustee. When the question of the trustee's election comes up no one else can make representations.

"Mr. Ettelson raises the point that the giving of such lists is an unwarranted arrogation of authority. Getting away from all charges of frameups, collusion, and tools of the banks, this is the naked question: Have the courts the right to grant certain lawyers a monopoly on the formation of creditors' committees in bankruptcy cases? I venture the suggestion that if you press your monopoly one step further and elect a trustee in bankruptcy you'll have a high hurdle to jump in getting that trustee confirmed."

The judge indicated he would allow Mr. Jacobson to argue further on the question this morning.

CHICAGO WOMAN GIVES CONCERT IN WASHINGTON

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Mrs. Carl Chindblom, wife of Representative Chindblom of Evanston, gave a farewell concert tonight at the meeting of the Illinois State society and was in turn given a farewell ovation of flowers. Mrs. Chindblom, who came to Washington 14 years ago when her husband was first elected to congress, will leave March 4, when her huhband returns to Chicago. He was defeated in the Republican primaries last April.

Politically a Republican, Mrs. Chindblom is musically a bi-partisan, for she has played at many Democratic parties in the last 14 years, and has frequently accompanied a Democratic tenor or baritone.

Tonight's meeting was the second farewell she has given in the past week. The other was at the Congressional club Friday when she played the favorite selections of former presidents of the club. At both events, her listeners, Democrats as well as Republicans, tossed prophecies as well as bouquets at her, as they said, "You'll be back one of these days."

PRISONER DEAD WHEN HANGED, DOCTOR ASSERTS

Accuse Tazewell Deputies of Fatal Beating.

Petersburg, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Hemorrhage from external violence and shock, Dr. E. A. Allen of Pekin, then Tazewell county coroner, said caused the death of Martin Virant, an East Peoria coal miner found hanging in his cell at the county jail in Pekin last autumn.

Deputy Sheriffs C. O. Skinner and Ernest L. Fleming of Pekin are on trial here on the charges of manslaughter, following a third degree given to Virant, who was seized as a suspect in a murder case.

Dr. Allen was called to cut the belt with which Virant was hanged. He was questioned about that by Attorney Nobell Dowell, who is assisting State's Attorney Nathan Elliff. On a cross-examination Dr. Allen told Jesse Black, attorney for the defendants, that Virant was dead before he was hanged. Dr. William D. McNally of Chicago, for many years chemist for the Cook county coroner, is here assisting the prosecutor. He is expected to testify Friday. The defense is assisted by Dr. R. H. Gradwohl of St. Louis, Mo.

Dr. Allen said Virant was the victim of a beating. The dead man had a brain congestion, a torn ear, a broken rib, and other signs of torture.

Edward Jackson, an undertaker's assistant, told of being called to the jail on Sept. 1 and removing Virant's body.

LOCK UP THREE AFTER COURT CANCELS BONDS

The bonds of three defendants in cases in the Criminal court, who were at liberty on surety scheduled by the Public Indemnity company of New Jersey, were canceled yesterday when they appeared in the court of Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

The defendants are Louis Clementi and Philip Mangano, recently convicted of conspiracy for terrorism in the cleaners and dyers industry, and Melville Reeves, the "skyscraper burglar," awaiting trial on a burglary charge. Clementi and Mangano are awaiting a ruling on their motion for a new trial.

All three were placed in the county jail pending their scheduling new bonds. The Public Indemnity company's license to schedule bonds was revoked recently when it was discovered that representatives had continued to write bonds with a judgment outstanding against the company on a defaulted bond of $10,000.

DEP'T. 6 STORES
CHICAGO
3931 S. Winchester Ave.
Chicago Tribune,
Chicago,
Illinois.
February 21
1933.
My dear Mr. Donahue:-
Attention Mr. H. E. Donahue:-
It will interest you to know of the successful results of our four page GOLDBLATT DAY section which we ran in your last Sunday's edition. We had the largest sales volume of any Monday in our 18 years of business!
The success of this sale is particularly gratifying because the last years sales figures we had to meet for the same Monday for the six stores were unusually large. Every one of the stores was crowded from the time of opening until the closing hour, and each individual store showed a substantial increase over a year ago. Our total increase for all stores amounted to approximately 33%.
You have certainly demonstrated to us the tremendous pulling power of the Sunday Tribune which helped establish a New Monday sales record for Goldblatt Bros.
Respectfully yours,
GOLDBLATT BROS. INC.
MAURICE GOLDBLATT
President.

LAST Sunday, February 19, Goldblatt Bros., operating six department stores located in Chicago neighborhoods and one suburb, used four full pages in the Sunday Tribune to announce a store-wide selling event—"Goldblatt Day."

"We had the largest sales volume of any Monday in our 18 years of business," reports Maurice Goldblatt, president.

"The success of this sale is particularly gratifying because the last year's sales figures we had to meet for the same Monday for the six stores were unusually large," continued Mr. Goldblatt. "Every one of the stores was crowded from the time of opening until the closing hour, and each individual store showed a substantial increase over a year ago. Our total increase for all stores amounted to approximately 33%.

"You have certainly demonstrated to us the tremendous pulling power of the Sunday Tribune, which helped to establish a new Monday sales record for Goldblatt Bros."

Goldblatt's—and Chicago department stores as a group—know one definite fact about selling in Chicago and suburbs today: the one Chicago newspaper which delivers by far the greatest influence on and coverage of the able-to-buy families in this market is the Chicago Tribune.

FIRST IN DEPARTMENT STORE ADVERTISING!

During January of this year Chicago department stores placed more of their advertising in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper.

In January, 1932, the Tribune published 30.4% of the total department store lineage which appeared in Chicago newspapers. This year in January, while all other Chicago newspapers sustained losses in total department store advertising, the Tribune gained, and increased its percentage of the total to 38.7%.

COURT MODIFIES PUNISHMENT OF CANAL LAWYERS

Disbars 1, Suspends 14, and Censures 21.

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday entered its final order in the disciplinary proceedings brought by the Chicago Bar association against 52 lawyers who were members of the sanitary district law department during the "whoopee days" from 1926 to 1928. The court modified the punishment given a number of the attorneys in its decision of last Dec. 23.

In the final order the court disbarred one attorney, suspended one from the practice of law for two years, suspended 13 from the practice of law until May 1, censured 21 and cleared the remaining 16. All were charged with "unprofessional and dishonorable conduct" in receiving pay from the district for little or no work.

Earlier Ruling Recalled.

In its decision last December the court punished 30 of the attorneys, censured 16 and cleared 16. Of those punished one attorney was disbarred, one suspended from practice for two years, three suspended for one year and fifteen for six months.

The December decision moderated the findings of Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor, who heard evidence against the attorneys as special commissioner for the Supreme court. Judge Taylor's report to the Supreme court recommended disbarment of seven lawyers, two-year suspensions for eight and one-year suspension for 10. Others were censured or cleared.

Under the final order of the court Frank J. Brewbaker is disbarred. Brawbaker has never tried a case. At the time he was on the district's pay roll he was employed at full time by an express company. The two year suspension is placed against Joseph E. Paulissen, who left Illinois for California and gave up his practice here shortly after the proceedings were begun by the bar association in July of 1930.

List of Attorneys Affected.

Those suspended until May 1 are:

Harry J. Berman	Arthur Donoghue
John C. Garriott Jr.	Maclay Hoyne
Henry E. Jacobs	Eleofas Jurgelonis
Joseph A. Kolb	Medard A. Muns
Nathan A. Lawrence	Sidney Lyon
Harry Mantell	Mark J. McNamara
Adam E. Patterson

Those censured in the final order are:

John M. Beverly	David S. Chesrow
John J. Dillon	Robert E. Eberle
Daniel V. Gallery	Al F. Gorman
Thomas P. Grant	John S. Hall
Eugene M. Hines	John R. Horan
Philip A. Losowick	Carl H. Lundquist
Stephen A. Malato	Arthur F. Manning
George B. Mason	Abraham L. Miesner
William S. Newberger	Victor I. Ohrenstein
Leo V. Border	Ivor L. Smith
Augustus Williams

Hector A. Brouillet	Charles F. Brown
Roy J. Egan	John F. Higgins
A. Paul Holleb	Samuel J. Graff
Meyer D. Kaufman	John E. King
John M. Lowery	Edward F. Lozoak
Edward B. Luebeck	John R. McCabe
James J. McDermott	Eugene L. McGarry
G. Edwin Mitchell	William S. Stewart

Maclay Hoyne, who is suspended for two months, is a former state's attorney and was head of the sanitary district's law department during the so-called "whoopee years." In the December decision the court had ordered his suspension from practice for one year, together with Garriott and Lyon.

The court denied petitions for rehearings filed by a group of attorneys before entering the final order. The final order closes almost three years of litigation, which was pressed by Attorney W. R. Matheny for the bar association.

KIDNAPERS TOLD THEY MUST ACT BY TOMORROW

Father May Withdraw $60,000 Ransom.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A nerve wracked millionaire, Claude K. Boettcher, father of kidnaped Charles Boettcher II., threw the power of his millions today behind his personal promise to pay the demanded $60,000 ransom on condition his son be returned to him unharmed by midnight next Saturday.

Failure of the abductors of the 31 year old investment broker to accept that pledge and release him by the midnight deadline, Boettcher said, will result in withdrawal of all previous offers and the instigation of "such action as may then seem advisable."

Issues Ultimatum.

"For reasons given in two previous statements I cannot comply with the demands heretofore made," Boettcher's statement said, "nor will I comply with any demands which fail to give positive assurance of the safe return of my son.

"I therefore propose the following: That my son and his abductors agree upon the time, place and method of paying the ransom; that my son be released at once; that upon the return of him unharmed I will personally guarantee the payment of $60,000 ransom demanded. In the event of his safe return, in accordance with the foregoing arrangement, is not accomplished by midnight, Saturday, Feb. 25, 1933, this and all of my previous offers are withdrawn and I shall take such action as may then seem advisable."

Try Nebraska Clew.

While the father prepared his third signed statement to the kidnapers since young Boettcher was abducted the night of Feb. 12, two city detectives, Harry Blair and Dave Chuven, sped by airplane today to Sidney, Neb., to investigate a "mystery house" where Boettcher may have been held captive.

Chief of Police A. T. Clark said Sidney authorities requested him to send two officers to aid the Sidney police in searching the house.

The Denver detectives made the air trip to Sidney and declared they found nothing which would indicate the whereabouts of the kidnaped broker.

Search Wild Lands.

In the meantime, in the rugged northern Colorado country, known as a haven for liquor manufacturers, Sheriffs Lee Templeton and W. W. Wyatt led a dozen deputies in the Chalk Bluff region thinking Boettcher may be held captive in one of its cave-like recesses.

Police, acting independently of the elder Boettcher, concentrated their hunt in that country because Boettcher's first attempt to keep an appointment with the kidnapers was in the vicinity of Derby, Colo., on the edge of the wild lands.

Unable to post $5,000 bond, O. E. Stevens, who police said operated two gambling houses near Colorado Springs, remained in jail.

RELATIVES DOUBT THAT JOHN R. FELL TOOK OWN LIFE

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Relatives declared today that John R. Fell, millionaire sportsman of New York and Philadelphia, who was found stabbed to death in a hotel room in Java, "was not the kind of a man to take his own life."

Dispatches from Surakarta, where Fell, accompanied by his wife, the former Martha Ederton, actress, was found dead, quoted the Java police as saying the dying man's last words were, "It's my fault; I did it myself."

In the absence of more details, however, Alexander Van Rensselaer, Fell's step-father, and Radcliffe Cheston Jr., a brother-in-law, scouted the theory that Fell committed suicide.

"He was not the man to take his own life. He was not a quitter, as all his friends know," said Van Rensselaer.

"I agree with that statement absolutely," said Cheston. "We had a letter from him just a short time ago telling how happy he was."

Fell was a nephew of Anthony J. Drexel, grandson of the founder of Drexel & Co., banking house, which is associated with Morgan & Co. His first wife was Dorothy Randolph, now Mrs. Ogden L. Mills. They had two sons and a daughter. His present wife, whom he married a year ago, was his third.

FATHER OF 17 FALLS DEAD.

MRS. HASBROUCK HAYNES FILES DIVORCE SUIT

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Haynes yesterday filed suit for divorce against her husband, Hasbrouck Haynes, chairman of the board of Haynes corporation, industrial engineers, charging adultery. The suit, which was filed in the Superior court, charged that Haynes' alleged infidelity occurred with an unnamed woman on last Dec. 31. The bill recites that Mr. and Mrs. Haynes, who resided at 219 Lake Shore drive, were married on Oct. 23, 1923, and separated last September. Mrs. Haynes asserts her husband's assets amount to $50,000 and that his annual income is $20,000.

TEAR GAS READY, BUT FARMERS' RIOT IS AVERTED

Sale Halted Till Horner Meets with Committee.

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—A threatened riot was averted here today when Sheriff Albert Goodknecht agreed to halt farm foreclosure sales until a farm committee had conferred with Gov. Henry L. Horner regarding mortgage relief. More than 500 farmers had gathered in front of the courthouse to halt a foreclosure action brought against McKinley Hendrix by the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance company of New Jersey.

One hundred special deputies, armed with clubs and tear gas bombs, and the entire Kankakee police force, augmented by 20 special policemen, were mobilized in the courthouse. As the farmers gathered outside, Edward Kennedy, secretary of the Farmers Education and Cooperative Union of America, and Fred Winterroth, a representative of the Farmer's Holiday association, sought and were granted an interview with Sheriff Goodknecht.

Demonstrations Tame Affair.

The farmers dispersed after the interview when Winterroth told them that Sheriff Goodknecht had agreed to halt foreclosure sales until a farmers' committee has conferred with Gov. Horner. Winterroth said that officials of Will, Ford, Grundy, and Kane counties had also agreed to halt sales until after the conference.

There were no disorders during the quiet demonstration of the farmers, who came to the courthouse from all parts of the county in automobiles and wagons. The special deputies moved among the crowd and confiscated cameras from newspaper photographers. The cameras were held until the crowd had dispersed.

1,000 Farmers at Second Sale.

More than 1,000 farmers gathered today before the Yorkville quarters of Master in Chancery C. A. Darnell during the foreclosure sale of the farm of August Wollenweber Jr. The sale was held on the mortgage of $33,000 held by the Life and Casualty company of Chicago. Trouble was averted when representatives of the insurance company agreed in a conference before the sale to pay $23,000 for the farm.

Members of the Kendall County Farmers and Business Men's Protective association had held that if the farm brought less than that figure the lending concern should assume the loss.

STATE FOOTS BILL AS FARMERS HEAR PROPAGANDISTS

Institute Listens to Speakers' Tirades.

BY PAUL POTTER.

For the thirty-eighth year, state funds were being employed yesterday to enable a group of 200 farmers and others to attend a chautauqua program, given in the form of the annual meeting of the Illinois Farmers' institute. The three-day meeting at Joliet closes tonight.

During yesterday's sessions, the state institute, created by law in 1895 to encourage education of farmers and to develop increased production of illinois agriculture, stepped outside its legal bounds to discuss means of reducing farm production.

At state expense, its delegates listened to tirades against the meat packers and others opposing legislation to boost farm prices in Washington, while Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association admonished farmers not to read metropolitan newspapers.

Speakers Boost Sales Tax.

Other speakers, supplied at state expense, discussed the possibilities of doing away entirely with property taxes and letting a sales tax carry the entire taxation burdens of the state. C. V. Gregory, editor of a farm paper and director of the state institute, said that inflation was the only way to "prime the pump" to bring back good times.

Records of the institute and reports of its officers made at yesterday's meeting indicate that Illinois appropriates nearly $75,000 biennially to conduct the institute. Its chief function is to supply speakers for local farm meetings over the state, for which traveling expenses and a per diem are allowed.

The auditor's report discloses that most of the funds are used for salaries and expenses of officers and a small group of favored speakers, who in turn constitute the large part of the delegation at the annual meeting.

Book Must Be Printed.

The law also requires the institute to publish as a bound book the proceedings of the annual meeting. There must be 50,000 copies of this book printed, and delegates were urged yesterday to take all they could back home to get them distributed.

Today's metings will conclude a series of speeches, technical talks on farming and homemaking, recitations, singing, dancing, and debates, all provided from the appropriations at Springfield each two years. Considerable concern was expressed by the directors yesterday over reports that the institute would be classed among the unnecessary items in the new state economy program to be presented to the legislature soon.

GIRL, MARRIED IN MYSTERY, ASKS AN ANNULMENT

Marion Gilbert, 22 years old, filed suit in Waukegan yesterday for an annulment of her marriage to Donald Lynn, 23, which took place in a Waukegan hotel room at 12:30 a. m. Sunday.

Mrs. Lynn, an office secretary, said in her bill that she thought the ceremony was a mock affair. It was planned as a joke by a group of celebrants, some of whom obtained what turned out to be a bona fide license from Clerk Lew Hendee, while others produced Justice of the Peace Michael Haney.

Haney said yesterday, however, that the couple appeared before him alone and that they knew what they were doing when he married them in the Hotel Waukegan. There was no party, he said.

Attorney Leslie P. Whelan, who filed the bill, said later that the couple left the Highland Park home of the bride's parents, when dared by friends, and were married. Young Lynn, it is said, works for a Chicago insurance company, but the lawyer refused to disclose the names of the bride's and bridegroom's parents, or their addresses, fearing that they would lose their jobs.

GIRL ASLEEP FOR A YEAR; EFFORTS OF DOCTORS FAIL

Miss Patricia Maguire of 523 South Clarence avenue, Oak Park, will complete a full year of uninterrupted sleep today. The case is said to have set an endurance record for sleeping sickness.

Since Miss Maguire, who is 28 years old, passed into a coma on Feb. 24 of last year physicians have tried all possible remedies to bring her back to consciousness. Serums have been administered and a blood transfusion was given her about two months ago—all to no avail.

At times hope was held out that she would awaken. The message last night was of a different tenor. Physicians attending the young woman said that in the last few days she had developed a high temperature. Miss Maguire is fed through tubes and is given electric light treatments. Her mother Mrs. Peter Miley, and her sister, Mrs Gladys Hansen, are constantly in attendance and are still hopeful that she will recover.

[Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Feb. 23.—The fiercest snowstorm in England in more than twenty years continued incessantly today, completely isolating many villages in eastern Yorkshire. Some were surrounded by snowdrifts ten to fifteen feet high. Automobiles were abandoned. The south of England was also experiencing unusual cold and heavy snows, and along the channel there were huge drifts from Dover to Folkestone.

Dies at 86; Wife, Blind and Paralyzed, Calls Aid

Frank Weitt, 86 years old, 1718 McReynolds avenue, who had ministered to his blind and paralyzed wife for the last twenty-seven years, died yesterday. Mrs. Weitt, who has been unable to move for more than a quarter of a century, said that when her husband bade her good night Wednesday he complained of feeling ill. Neighbors heard her call and found him dead in a bed in the same room.

MISS HAMMOND, NOTED EDUCATOR, IS DEAD IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Miss Eleanor Prescott Hammond, educator, is dead here at the age of 66. She was graduated from the University of Leipzig, Germany, in 1891, later took honors at Oxford, was fellow in English at the University of Chicago from 1895 to 1898, and docent in English there for the next six years. Since 1922 she had been associated with the department of English literature at Wellesley college. Miss Hammond was a member of the Modern Language association and Societe des Anciens Textes Français. She was an author. The University of Chicago conferred a Ph. D. degree on her in 1898.

CHARLES WATT, MUSIC EDITOR, DIES IN TAXICAB

Charles E. Watt, 71 years old, editor of the Music News, who was head of the Chicago Piano college from 1895 to 1910, died of heart disease last night in a taxicab while on the way from the loop to his home at 105 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park. The cab driver discovered that he was dead when he reached the destination.

Mr. Watt was born in Ohio, but came to Chicago as a youth. He was a music teacher for ten years before he founded the piano college. He started his music publication in 1909. He was a frequent contributor for a number of other periodicals. Surviving Mr. Watt are his widow and four daughters.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels, and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts—amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Beware substitutes. 25c at all stores. © 1931, C. M. Co.

CLARA, LU 'N' EM TO TELL STORY OF INAUGURATION

The gossipers received an official invitation yesterday to attend the inauguration in a telegram from Admiral Cary T. Grayson, chairman of the inaugural committee. The message read:

"Many requests have reached me with reference to your unique and interesting radio performance. Would it not be possible for you to be present in Washington at the inaugural ceremonies and give the country your vivid description of all that is taking place in the nation's capital?"

The girls, who in real life are Louise Starkey, Isobel Carothers, and Helen King, plan to leave next Tuesday for Washington. Their broadcast on March 1, 2, 3, and 4 will come direct from Washington.

PAIN DEADENED CHEST COLDS LOOSENED WITHOUT DRUGS

Get quick relief from neuralgia pain, sciatica pain, neuritis pain, rheumatic pain, lame back, stiff neck, headache, strains and chest colds by rubbing plenty of Baume Bengué (pronounced Ben-Gay) on the spot. It doesn't blister or stain. Rub it in till it sinks down and soothes the pain or breaks up the chest cold. Take no drugs, for any drug that is powerful enough to "deaden" pain or loosen a chest cold may not be good for you.

But beware of imitations. Ask your druggist for Baume Bengué by name (called "Ben-Gay" in English). There are many analgesic balms, mostly cheap imitations of Ben-Gay, made out of synthetic drugs. That is why they are cheap. That is also why they are ineffective. Insist on Ben-Gay and you will get real results.

Paula Wilms Becomes Bride

MR. AND MRS. MALCOLM HENDERSON
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Rites at Chapel

Miss Paula Wilms became the bride of Malcolm Siborne Henderson, the British vice consul here, yesterday afternoon in the chapel of St. James' Episcopal church, the Rev. Duncan H. Browne reading the service in the presence of the bride's immediate family, including her father, William Wilms, and her brother, Herman Paepcke Wilms, and his wife.

The bride wore a traveling suit of black broadcloth with a white fur ascot tie and a shoulder bouquet of lilies of the valley, a black velvet cap, and a blue blouse. Immediately after the ceremony the young Englishman and his bride left for New York to sail tomorrow for a six weeks' wedding trip abroad which will include a visit to his parents, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Kenneth Henderson, in Surrey, England.

Stock Returns from Winter Vacation Trip

Walter Gieseking Soloist for Symphony.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mr. Stock is back from his mid-winter vacation looking rested and displaying renewed vigor in his baton arm. His return to the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night was in the company of Walter Gieseking, the pianist, who was the soloist of the concert.

Mr. Stock's part of the program concerned itself with the British isles as heard through the ears of two of its living composers. Both works were decidedly romantic in character. The first was "In the Faery Hills," by Arnold Edward Trevor Bax, a respectful but affectionate tribute to ancient Ireland and its fays, or "sidhe." It is a composition with a good deal of charm, color, and imagination. Perhaps it is not conceived altogether forcefully, but no one is in the habit of thinking of the kingdom of fairyland in its muscular aspects.

Ralph Vaughan Williams' "A London Symphony," is considerably more realistic in tone, but its composer has made a sincere and on the whole a rather successful attempt to catch the voice of the great city, its spirit, life, humor, and sufferings, and translate them into music. It bustles, hurries, dances, shouts, and laments, all with a forcible rhythmic impulse and well marked line. A big city has a voice, and each voice is different, wherefore Williams has done something notable in capturing the voice of London.

Mr. Gieseking is this week making his fourth visit as soloist with the orchestra and on each of his former trips he has presented himself in some of the less frequent music for piano and orchestra. Perhaps it was for this reason that this time he is playing Brahms' First Concerto, the one in D minor, opus 15. For the D minor concerto is generally not the first work cited by the Brahmins when they are indulging in dithyrambs to the glory of their favorite composer.

No one need quarrel over his style. All that is asked is that in whatever style he chooses to employ he shall create a glow in the mind of his hearers. Mr. Gieseking, an uncommonly able executant at the keyboard, was efficient, forceful, and where possible brilliant in the performance of the work, although, possibly out of regard to its character, he at times made use of an unwontedly dry tone.

Howard Turns Down $60,000 Movie Offer

But Takes $25,000 to Play Different Role.

BY GEOPGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Feb. 23.—Leslie Howard is like Ronald Colman in waiving salary to refrain from making pictures under personal contacts he didn't like. According to his friends, Howard has just turned down a $60,000 offer to appear with a woman star in a vehicle which Howard thought would neither enhance his professional standing nor cause him personal pleasure. In place of that $60,000 job, Howard is winding up negotiations for another role, at another studio, with another star, where the salary will be $25,000.

Warner Brothers is reported to have bid $100,000 for movie rights to "Dinner at Eight," but retired from the bidding when MGM raised the ante to $120,000.

During the shutdown at Universal that studio has rented out most of its featured players. Gloria Stuart is at RKO in "Sweepings." Paul Lukas is with Phil Goldstone Independent Productions in "Public Be Damned." Andy Devine is being loaned to Producer Charles Rogers at Paramount, to appear in "The Legal Crime," and British producers are making offers to the Universal studio for Boris Karloff.

Phil Stong, whose novel of Iowa rural life, "State Fair" was turned into a film hit at Fox studio, has now sold the movie rights to another novel about farming people, "The Stranger's Return," to MGM. Stong is to come here and help write his own screen adaptation.

Jigsaw Puzzle Tourney Will Be Held Tomorrow

Five hundred children are expected to attend the event scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at the headquarters of the Fourty-fourth Ward Business and Professional Men's league at 2827 Broadway. Tickets have been distributed to both public and parochial schools and fifty women of the area will assist General Chairman Dr. Frank Furch. At a given signal the small guests will take their places at long tables. All puzzles will have the same number of pieces and be of identical size with the others.

Lewis, dean of the faculty; Manager H. B. Lemon of the University of Chicago, F. A. Rogers, dean of the school of engineering, and G. N. Carman, director of Lewis institute.

Dudley Crafts Watson Plays New Art Role

Drawings, Water Colors on Exhibition.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Dudley Crafts Watson as extension lecturer of the Chicago Art institute is one of our best known figures in the art world. He has appeared before thousands of audiences in and about Chicago and probably there is no art organization or woman's club of which he does not know or before which he has not spoken. In addition his children's classes at the Art institute have endeared him to succeeding hundreds upon hundreds of Chicago's youth.

Mr. Watson appeared yesterday in a new rôle. He is neither instructor, nor lecturer, nor travel guide, but an artist in his own person. An exhibition of crayon drawings and water colors by him is the principal event in the exhibit which opened yesterday in the Increase Robinson gallery, Michigan Square building. His work is possessed of charm and beauty. Many of the drawings are travel notes, sometimes scenes caught from a passing window of a train, sometimes more leisurely views of shores enjoyed from the deck of an anchored ship. "At Lucerne" is possibly the most lovely, delicate, and fascinating of the drawings. The "Ephraim Boathouse" stands out among the water colors for the beauty of its handling and the opalescent quality of its paint.

With Mr. Watson's work, water colors by George Buehr are also being shown. They afford a stimulating and vivid contrast. Mr. Buehr paints in a free, vigorous, and loose manner that is most effective. He dwells upon color and emotion, rhythm, and pattern. When he rises to a high palette and showers colors like the breaking of an April rainbow upon his canvas, praise runs to him as naturally as rain to earth. The more violent, turbulent conceptions, ejaculations of distress, and revolt fail to convey in full the genius that is undoubtedly his.

In the second gallery Mrs. Robinson is showing water colors and drawings by ten mid-western artists, each a man of note in his locality. The group offers several fine things and others of great interest. The tiny "idea sketch" for Grant Wood's "American Gothic" will prove of interest to every one who has followed the success of his painting.

The exhibition will continue to March 15.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Knitted clothes continue to walk away with Paris styles for active sports and for country wear. Hand knitted garments are naturally the leaders, but machine knitted things are also in vogue. If this keeps on, and it probably will, we'll all have to learn to knit because the smart hand knitted outfit takes a large slice out of the clothes budget.

The knitters of Paris are working sixty miles an hour to create new and complicated patterns, which do a lot to keep knitted clothes on top of the fashion heap, and the newest pattern for the sports frock that comes off the knitting needles is a chevron design done in a lacy stitch. Worth has used this to make the frock shown in our sketch today.

This dress is light red in color and the chevron pattern in the hand knitted fabric is worked horizontally except at the top, where it goes vertically and is much finer, giving the effect of a drop yoke. The wide collar is fringed with wool around its borders. At the waist line is a leather belt in dark brown with a big round silver buckle at the front, and the leather beret is brown, too. It is worn pulled over the forehead.

The red dress, with its brown accessories, doesn't finish the color scheme. A third shade is added. The pin seal handbag is silver gray, and the oxford shoes are also made of silver gray pin seal. A long top coat of silver gray completes the outfit.

Take Time to Be Friends with Your Children

Confidence, Twixt Mother, Youngster Is Vital.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Friday's mother contributes this to the column:

"Every night when little Joan goes to bed she and her mother have a good talk. They tell each other things they have been doing and things they want to do. They talk about just everything, as two friends will. During the day they don't see a great deal of each other as Joan is in school and at play, and her mother is busy in the house or with her music. When mother has to go out to sing in the evening they have to have their talk a little earlier and it can't last as long, and once in a while if mother is going far away they have to skip it. Then they enjoy it all the more next night.

"They began this little custom when Joan was 3 or 4 years old and it has made them very dear and intimate friends, although away from each other a great deal. Mother feels she knows Joan very well, indeed, and has her entire confidence.

"Confidence between a child and his mother is one of the most helpful things in the world. And it is easy to gain if the mother will realize it. Never say you haven't time enough to be friends with your child. A minute is time enough sometimes. A few words of affection and understanding, a few questions tactfully asked, really wanting to know your child and be known of him—that's all there is to it.

"And daddy, too, can be a real friend, as many of them know to their great pleasure. One busy father makes a point of spending an hour or more outdoors with his boys every Sunday. They play football, baseball and go skating and sledding. On gala occasions they spend a whole day in the woods hiking or cooking over a campfire.

"Another father shares the chores at home with his son. They take entire charge of the cellar and keep it in beautiful order. They keep their yard neat and attractive and relieve the mother of the care of the bathroom, getting a lot of fun doing these umdrum tasks because they are doing them together.

"One of the greatest objectives for any parent is to gain the friendship and confidence of his or her children."

Can't Relax? Try These Sleep Inducing Ideas

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"It's easy enough to advise a person to relax in order to get sleep," challenges 'Em', "but how are you going to relax when you're all tied up in knots from worry and fear?"

Fair enough, "Em"!

If you can't relax by ordering yourself to do so, we'll have to find some other means of forcing you to relax. Folk who are nervous and "tied up in knots," so to speak, need exercise to help bring about relaxation and a release of an unnatural tension. It's almost an impossibility for them to let themselves go, either physically or mentally.

On the same sound principle of fighting germs with serums, a tensing exercise is often what the tense one needs. An exercise in which you tense every muscle until you feel as rigid as a poker. Then, let go. You find you welcome the release, that you respond more easily to it after an exaggerated tenseness than by merely ordering the muscles to relax.

Deep breathing is another thing that helps loosen tension, and also induces sleep. So, "Em," if you can manage a little light exercise just before you retire, including breathing, or just do deep breathing before your open window, you'll find some surcease for your harried nerves.

Sleeplessness and nervous disorders go together. Instead of counting sheep vaulting over a wall, a smarter sleep-inducing trick is to count the deep breaths you take until sleep overtakes you. The deep breathing does loosen the tension.

Telling people to stop worrying is silly advice. No one does it because she enjoys it. BUT—it's a habit that can grow on you. And often grows out of the folly of trying to do too many things at once. No one thing is concentrated on properly because of the thought of other things needing immediate attention. The trick, then, is to systematize things better. You know, yourself, that indecision or lack of plan will keep a Damocles' sword hanging over your head.

John Derns of Winnetka Will Go with Father to Washington

Son of New Secretary of War Will Meet Utah Governor and Mother Here Sunday.

BY JUDITH CASS.

WHEN former Gov. George H. Dern, officially announced yesterday as secretary of war in President Elect Roosevelt's cabinet, and Mrs. Dern arrive in Chicago Sunday from their native state of Utah their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Dern of Winnetka, will meet them and proceed with them to Washington, D. C., for the inaugural ceremonies one week from tomorrow morning.

"Of course we are pleased," said Mrs. John Dern (the former Jean MacLeish) enthusiastically yesterday an hour after she had heard the news about former Gov. Dern. "Father and Mother Dern are due here on Sunday. Mr. Dern and I will go on with them immediately to Washington."

MRS. G. H. DERN.

As members of the inaugural party the Derns will have places of distinction at the various functions which highlight the day of Democratic jubilation. They will occupy seats in the grandstand on the east front of the capitol during the inaugural ceremony, lunch at the White House at noon on Saturday, review the afternoon parade from the presidential grandstand on the White House lawn, and sit in an official box at the charity ball in Memorial hall Saturday evening.

MRS. JOHN DERN.

While in the capital city the Dern's will stay at the Willard hotel and there Gov. and Mrs. Dern's younger son, William, will join them. Young Mr. Dern is in Washington working for the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Houghtelings to Attend Ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling are another Chicago couple who will enjoy special privileges during the inauguration. Mrs. Houghteling is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Delano, who are cousins of the Roosevelts, and during their stay in Washington the Houghtelings will be guests at the Delanos' S street home.

They will also visit without doubt the Sumner Welles' marble palace on Massachusetts avenue which the Roosevelt family is to occupy over the week-end. And then they will be among the 50 guests whom the Roosevelts will have for a supper of scram-

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we give our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Good lighting in a kitchen means much less eyestrain and oftentimes a lessening of body fatigue. Do you work in areas with shadows falling across them? If so, have your lights placed so that no such shadows lie across table or stove, sink or workshelf. To accomplish shadow shortening locate the light sources as high above the work areas as possible. There should also be abundant light without glaring light. Install lamps of sufficient candle power to give you plenty of illumination and then use a diffusing shade or reflector. Enough light and the right kind of light will make cooking tasks easier and less fatiguing.

LOW PRICE MAKES PORK POPULAR ON TODAY'S TABLES

Here Are Some Recipes for Its Preparation.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

With pork ing at relatively the cheapest pr on the history of the packing ind...ry, housewives are seeking diversified ways of preparing pork. In addition to low retail prices of fresh pork, hams and bacon are also being sold at tempting prices.

It is no longer considered necessary to baste pork roasts, according to experts at university experimental stations. Another theory dispelled by the experts is that roasts should not be salted until they are done. They are now salted at the beginning, because although salt does draw out juices, it draws them only from the surface of pork, and they are used in gravy.

Directions for Roasting.

For roasting a loin of pork, the following instructions are given: Wipe the roast with a damp cloth, place in an uncovered roasting pan without water, and rub with salt, one teaspoonful to a pound of pork. Sear in a hot oven for 15 minutes, then reduce the oven temperature to a low point, and cook 30 minutes to the pound for a 3 or 4 pound roast.

Pork should always be cooked until it is well done. Moreover, the flavor of pork is better when it is well cooked.

A recipe for preparing pork tenderloin with dressing was perfected by the University of Minnesota agricultural experiment station. It is:

Wipe tenderloin, split it nearly through lengthwise so that when opened and spread out it lies flat. Rub with salt, one teaspoon to the pound of meat. Spread apple bread crumb dressing on the tenderloin, roll and tie securely. Place in an uncovered pan and sear for 10 minutes, or until it is brown, in a very hot oven, 500 degrees F. Reduce to a slow oven, 300 degrees F., and roast for 45 minutes.

How to Make Dressing.

For the dressing, mix 1 cup bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons butter, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, and ½ teaspoon onion juice, and mix well. Use more water if the crumbs are very dry.

Other combinations of seasoning may be used as follows:

1. Add ¼ teaspoon summer savory, ¼ teaspoon paprika, and ¼ teaspoon celery salt.

2. Add ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon onion salt, ¼ teaspoon thyme.

3. Add ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, ½ teaspoon marjoram, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley.

Another dish the housewife may prepare and serve to a grateful household is spareribs with apples.

Use one side of pork ribs, six apples, and salt. Split the ribs down through the center. Place one-half the side in a covered roaster and salt. On top of this put a row of cored apples, placing the other half of the ribs, salted, on top of the apples. Cover the roaster and bake slowly for one and one-half to two hours.

Another College Recipe.

2 cups flour.
4 teaspoonsful baking powder.
1 tablespoonful fat.
1 teaspoonful salt.
1 cup milk.

Salt the backbone and pour boiling water over it. Let simmer until done. Make dumplings by sifting together the flour, baking powder and salt, cutting in the fat and stirring in the milk. Drop by spoonfuls on top of the backbone, cover tightly and cook twelve to fifteen minutes. The dumplings must rest on the backbone and not settle into the liquid. Potatoes also could be cooked with the backbone and the dumplings added at the last.

The housewife who wants "something different" might try pork chop suey, a recipe for which follows:

1½ to 2 cups shredded, cooked lean pork.
2 cups shredded onion.
2 cups shredded celery.
2 cups meat broth or thin gravy.
2 cups sliced raw Jerusalem artichokes or radishes.
4 tablespoons soy sauce.
3 tablespoons fat.
1 tablespoon cold water.
3 teaspoons cornstarch.
2 shredded green pepper.
Salt to taste.

Brown the meat lightly in half the fat and remove from the skillet. Cook the pepper and onion in the rest of the fat a few minutes. Add the celery, meat, salt, broth or gravy, cover, and simmer for five minutes. Mix the cornstarch and water until smooth, stir into the mixture and cook for a few minutes longer. Add the artichokes or radishes, or substitute for them, one cup of Brazil nuts or toasted almonds. Add soy sauce in sufficient quantity to give the desired flavor, and salt to taste. Serve with hot, flaky rice.

Fat an Essential Factor.

In purchasing a ham choose one moderately fat, and that weighs from eight to sixteen pounds; thin of skin, short and tapering. Fat is an essential factor to a good ham in order to have a good flavor. A ham under the minimum weight mentioned is ordinarily too immature, and if it weighs more, the muscles are inclined to be too tough.

To boil ham, brush or wash thoroughly to remove mold, soak for an hour in cold water and rinse again. Shave off the hardened surfaces. Place over fire in covered receptacle, let come to a moderate boil and keep it steadily at that point, allowing twenty minutes for each pound of meat. Replenish the water as rapidly as it boils away. When cooked serve with a few whole cloves and garnish with parsley. In boiling, a bottle of grape juice may be added to the water, which adds a tang to the ham.

Another method of serving ham, is roasted. A roasted ham baked with a sprinkling of egg moistened bread crumbs or cracker dust is a very appetizing meat dish.

Preparation of Sausages.

Sausages, another variety of pork, consist of chopped beef or both types of meat, which are cured, spiced and stuffed into beef or sheep or hog casings. These sausages may be marketed either raw or cooked, fresh, or dried and smoked or simply air dried. In large packing houses, they are generally made of the trimmings of hams, etc., but choice grades may be of prime whole cuts. Curing consists of the addition of sugar, salt, and a little saltpeter to the chopped meat, which is allowed to set for two or three days, and then is chopped the second time into a finer mixture.

There are two divisions of sausages: Dry or "summer," such as cervelats, and salami, which will keep for an almost indefinite time if kept in a cool, dry, dark place. The other is the fresh variety, as the bolognas, frankfurters, and fresh pork sausages, which should be kept in a refrigerator.

Cook a Plenty!

It seems as though every country in the world has contributed a new type of sausage, as for instance, the capacola, from Italy; Goteborg, Sweden; Landjaeger, Swiss, etc. The majority of the American sausages are made in the United States, with the exception of a few dry varieties which are imported from the home countries.

And now, for the final admonition. It is far better that pork be overdone, rather than underdone.

Pork, particularly the lean portions, is composed chiefly of protein and water. It is also important in one's diet as a source of phosphorus and iron and as bacon and ham contribute a great deal of fat in the daily menu.

"One Dish" Sunday Evening Meals Tasty, Easy to Prepare

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

For simplified gastronomy, how do you like "one dish" meals? At least the saving of fuel, labor, flavor and quantities of dishwashing should recommend such meal preparations in which the proteins and starches go to school together for the education of the appetite.

What especially recommends the one dish idea to any one family might be one of several pointers. The usual rest or the unusual activity of a Sunday may tempt themselves to favor the idea for a Sunday evening. Or maybe friend husband or son and daughter in the rôle of "mother's helper" will find dishwashing solaced any day in the week when fewer dishe require soaking in the suds.

The "one dish" title is nearly always a misnomer, for a few side frills always lend enhancement to the simpler meals as well as the more expansive. Salads, desserts or biscuits, perhaps, perform this duty in a skilful manner.

For That Well Dined Feeling.

Typical of the menus that apply to this change in the meal planning are certain foods that provide nourishment in fact and with it that well dined feeling that puts the appetite in the future file. A hot soup, a hot creamed dish, a steaming cheese preparation, or a hot drink such as cocoa present the idea.

If you've been tempted by these suggestions, there are scores of preparations that fit the idea. Here are nine varied servings that merely need some steaming white sauce to complete them: Cooked diced meat and seasoning, hard boiled chopped eggs, seasoned cheese, macaroni and cheese, green pepper and cheese, rice and cheese, diced boiled potato, or dried beef.

Tomatoes, scalloped, with cheese and eggs is a main course item that provides variety in but one dish. A recipe suggested for this includes two and one-half cups of tomatoes, seven or eight hard boiled eggs, one cup of American cheese grated, and two cups of soft bread crumbs, four tablespoons butter or fat, one small chopped onion, two teaspoons salt, and a dash of pepper.

Place Half in Greased Dish.

Half of the tomatoes are placed in a greased baking dish and half of the eggs, sliced, are placed on top. Then half of the seasoning is put in the dish and half of the grated cheese

PLENTIFUL CROP OF ONIONS, MOST VERSATILE FOOD

Israelites in early Bible days at times yearned for the return to slave days, as far as food was concerned during the historical forty years in the wilderness, for among the foods that were lacking were onions.

Tastes have not changed so much since the time of Moses, thinks May E. Foley, foods specialist of the Massachusetts State college. If Americans were required to spend forty years without onions in their cooking, she says, no doubt there would be a great deal of complaining in this land, too. Thoughts of giving up forever such delicacies as steak smothered with onions and fried onions would disturb almost any American.

In Many Combinations.

"There is no vegetable that can be used in more ways than the onion," says Miss Foley. "It is not only good as a vegetable but can be combined with meats and vegetables of almost all kinds. It is particularly valuable when the food budget is limited, because it adds flavor and variety to meals that would otherwise be lacking in savor and interest."

But flavor and versatility are not the only things to be said in favor of the onion. When eaten raw, it is an excellent source of vitamin C, the vitamin which prevents scurvy, helps build teeth and bones, and promotes growth. Most of this vitamin is lost in cooking, but the important minerals, calcium, iron, and phosphorus, are present in fairly large amounts.

Praised in Old Verse.

As a hint to the wise, Miss Foley quotes a poem included in a "History of Vegetables" published in 1822:

"This is every cook's opinion;
No savory dish without an onion.
But lest your kissing should be spoil'd,
Your onions must be thoroughly boiled."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Brooms should be dipped in hot soap suds at least once a week. It toughens the bristles and makes them last longer.

Next to cod liver oil and other fish oils, egg yolk is said to be the best source of vitamin D, the sunshine substitute.

FOOD SAFE IN OPENED CAN THOUGH IT LOOKS BETTER IF TAKEN OUT

Food spoils no faster and no slower in an open can than in any other container, if given the same care. This is the assertion of laboratories on the once perplexing question of whether foods may be left safely in a can after it has been opened.

Canners advise housewives to remove the contents from the can when it is opened because the food presents a more appetizing appearance. A metallic taste may develop when some acid foods have stood in the can, but this flavor is no indication that the food is unwholesome.

HERE'S A POETIC PIECE OF PASTRY: WALNUT LOAF!

It Rivals Even the Best of Famous Paris Bakery.

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

No Ragueneau is she to sing her recipes in rhyme, yet we know a little lady who makes a walnut loaf—a poetic piece of pastry—the like of which, we would wager, never was seen in that famous bakery shop which stood where the Rue St. Honore met the Rue de l'Arbre Sec, the rendezvous dear to the hearts, for more reasons than one, of the hungry poets of Paris.

"Beat your eggs, the yolk and white,
Very light;
Mingle with their creamy fluff
Drops of lime juice, cool and green;
Then pour in

Thus chanted the prince of pastry cooks.

Cream together a cup of sugar and ½ cup of butter. Fold in three beaten egg whites. Add a cup of milk and a teaspoon of vanilla, 2 cups of sifted flour and 3 teaspoons of baking powder. Finally, stir into the batter 1-2 cup chopped walnuts. Pour into a buttered loaf tin, and bake in a moderate oven.

But we invite the critics to pronounce upon the finished product when it appears on the dessert plates in thick slices, luscious and fragrant, under a generous embellishment of whipped cream. Any standard for excellence we ever had, it met long ago. And never can the recurring harmonies of a favorite sonnet move us to a deeper gratification.

TREAT KITCHEN TO SOME USEFUL NEW EQUIPMENT

"Aisle Shopping" Gives Suggestions.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a Saturday morning radio feature—will be presented tomorrow by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 9:45 for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

It's smart to be up to date these days in pots and kettles as well as in frocks and perfumes. And whether we're brides-to-be laying plans for the new fold-away kitchenettes or master homemakers deftly turning out our thirtieth year of family dinners, what's new, improved, and different in pots and pans, measuring spoons, and tricky gadgets for the kitchen deserves all the attention it gets and oftentimes more.

One of the quickest ways I've found of keeping posted on new tricks in kitchen furnishings is by going "aisle shopping" off and on through large department stores. Sometimes I buy—more often I don't. But at least I know what's new.

For instance, we've been glorying over rich copper sauce pans and tea kettles for some time, but now there's something even newer soon coming to market to raise cheers from kitcheneers and ease up on the equipment budget. The answer—chip-proof enamel!

Three Times as Heavy.

No more big black places on the bottoms and edges of our shiny enamel pans, rough spots for the spoon to grate on, and thin areas where food will burn. At least that is the promise of the manufacturers of this new type enamelware. It's the result of a secret process upon which engineers have been working for several years. The enamel on the pans and kettles made by this process is three times as heavy as that on ordinary enamelware.

It also has been demonstrated that with one of the new pans a piece of ordinary enamelware can be battered almost beyond recognition without hurting the new ware appreciably. All sorts of things may be bought in this new enamelware—coffee pots, Dutch ovens, and a generous supply of kettles and pans. On the coffee pots and Dutch ovens we find chromium covers and heat resistant knobs.

Many Purpose Machine.

Then another quick shopping trip yesterday reminded me of three more equipment favorites you will be interested in. The first is a most astounding many-purpose little machine which is at once a sieve, grinder, and separator. It looks like a regular food chopper with a long nose. You adjust one of the stainless steel sieves which accompany it, clamp it onto the table, place the food in the open mouth at the top, and turn the handle in the usual food chopper manner.

But listen to some of the things which it can do for you! It grinds meat, cuts vegetables for salads, cuts nut meats, prepares fig paste, extracts juice from fruits for both table and preserving needs, and makes purées. It removes seeds from berries, makes tomato juice, and removes strings and skins from peaches and apricots, and coarse gristle and tough fibers from meat. It will be helpful in preparing invalid foods and the baby's purées.

New Can Opener.

Another time and temper saver turns up in the form of a new type can opener. I have discovered that mine will open all sizes and shapes of cans and cuts out the tops quickly and smoothly. It consists of a sturdy black handle, a neat set of cog wheels and knife blades which grip the can edge, and a second handle which one uses as a crank. The whole affair enables one to pick up a can steaming hot right out of boiling water, open and empty the can all without touching it once with your hands.

But my final delight along the equipment line came when I discovered the tricky maker of square eggs! This new kind of egg poacher poaches the eggs square to fit your toast! There's a generous sized pan with a handle, a cover, and a nest of in-setting pans which just accommodate four poached eggs—done on the square!

Fresh Pork, Round Steak Represent Best Meat Buys

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers the committee on marketing information of the Meat Council of Chicago states:

"All cuts of fresh pork are recommended to the housewives of Chicago as unusually economical meat buys over the coming week-end. The less demanded cuts of beef such as pot roast and round steak also are selling at low levels."

Menus Tomorrow

MARY MEADE'S menus for Saturday and Sunday will appear in tomorrow morning's Tribune. Watch for them, together with the Saturday food marketing news story. Mary Meade's menus will enable you to take advantage of week-end food bargains and to plan attractive meals more economically.

Consider Soup; It Can Be Appetizer or a Whole Meal

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Consommé, bouillon, bisque—our adoption of these familiar names and dishes is in itself recognition of French leadership in the matter of soup. Not to mention onion soup, a favorite of the gourmets of Paris. The chefs who brought these delicacies to our shores deserve a reproach, however, for leaving the humbler pot au feu at home. Cross between soup and stew, this dish which is a meal in itself would be a welcome addition to the repertory of a busy and economical housewife.

But the French are not alone in the creation and appreciation of soups. The Russians have contributed their bit.

Red borsch, served with a dash of sour cream, possesses the rarely combined virtues of sustaining a man and whetting his appetite. Another sustaining soup is potroka [giblet soup], and soljinkie [fish soup with onions], is yet another. Americans might do worse than to take these over.

Soups of Other Lands.

Much has been written and little understood of kouskous, the Abyssinian vegetable soup. Italian minestra is another soup with which Americans might become acquainted to their advantage. Daikan, the Japanese radish soup, should prove an interesting variant.

The point is, there's a soup for every purpose and palate. And too few Americans ever eat soup [yes, "eat," not "drink," is the expression recommended by Webster], except when they are ill and cannot help themselves or when it comes with the rest of the dinner on a table d'hote menu.

A Perfect Introduction.

Yet a consommé or bouillon is the perfect introduction to any meal. Especially is it recommended to soothe the tired business man into an attitude of proper receptivity toward his dinner. Then there is vegetable soup which, like pot au feu, is capable of acting as a meal with no outside help, if made with sufficient stock and vegetables.

BOUILLON WITH PARSLEY.

4 to 5 cubes beef or chicken bouillon cubes.
Dash celery salt.
1 teaspoon finely chopped parsley.

Add the water to the cubes and stand them over the boiling water until the cubes are dissolved. Add the celery salt, and pour into serving cups. Sprinkle parsley over the top.

RUSSIAN BOESCH.

2 lbs. pot roast.
1 big beet.
1 small parsnip.
2 medium size onions.
1 bunch green parsley.
1 can tomatoes (10 oz.).
3 quarts water.
2 potatoes.
Salt to taste.

Place bone and meat in pot. Boil and skim. Add chopped beets. After 15 minutes add chopped onions and parsnip. After 1 hour grate tomatoes [if fresh], chop cabbage, and add both to borsch. After 15 minutes salt and add 2 peeled potatoes and finely chopped green parsley. Boil 1 hour longer over hot fire in uncovered kettle. Serve each individual portion with a tablespoon sour cream poured on top.

SOUPE A POIGNON.
[Onion soup.]

2 rounding tablespoons butter [4 level teaspoons].
3 medium onions.
Salt.
Pepper.
2 cups fine noodles.
2-3 cup grated Swiss cheese [loosely packed].

Put the butter into a soup kettle and heat until it boils. Add the onions that have been sliced very thinly and cook until browned, stirring frequently. Add water, salt and pepper, and bring to the boiling point, then add noodles. Let cook ten minutes, boiling vigorously. Grate 10 cents worth of Swiss cheese. Draw soup to the back of the stove, where it will not boil but will kep warm. Add cheese and let stand 5 minutes. Then serve. Yield: Six servings.

Put more SUNSHINE days on your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws.

The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. ALL-BRAN also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Here's a Recipe for 18 Ordinary Jars.

BY MABEL BRYANT.

Once having crashed the inner circles of civilization no fruit has shown less inclination to "go native" than has the orange. It was the Seville, or sour variety, we learn, which was the first brought into Spain by the Moors early in the eighth century, nearly seven hundred years before the sweet orange made its appearance in Europe.

Oranges were first cultivated in California in 1870. At that time an infant colony at Riverside produced the first navel crop—which consisted of one whole box! And it is amusing, when we flounder in a grapefruit, cousin to the orange, to know that the first grapefruit which was shipped to Philadelphia in 1876 was looked at askance. Twenty years after its introduction the supply of one carload a day was adequate to meet the demand.

Many Ways to Use Them.

There are almost as many ways of using oranges as there are leaves on the trees. This delicious fruit probably is the most wholesome and useful of all subacid fruits, and that old saying of oranges being "golden in the morning, silver at noon and lead at night" has passed out like many other things that have no place in our modern living.

Do you like orange marmalade? Did you know it was first made during the reign of Henry VII.? We feel assured it wasn't as good as the following recipe.

This marmalade, if followed to the letter, will yield about eighteen ordinary size jelly glasses of delicious amber colored jam. The method is as follows: Take one orange, one lemon and one grapefruit. Wash them, but do not peel, and with a sharp knife shave the fruit very, very thin on a bread board. It might be well to quarter the grapefruit if it is very large for better results in cutting. Be sure to remove the seeds, but not the skin. Do not put through the food chopper.

Boil Next Morning.

After the fruit has been cut as thin as possible, measure the fruit and add to it three times as much water. Let stand over night in preserving kettle. Next morning bring slowly to a boil and then let it boil for ten minutes only. Remove from stove and let stand for 24 hours. On second morning add cup for cup of sugar which will be about five pounds and cook until thick and amber colored. Bear in mind the process requires care, for it the fruit is overboiled the sirup will crystallize and if undercooked it will mold.

An old English custom is to use orange marmalade with a cup of tea in place of lemon or sugar. Right now, with both fruit and sugar at prices so low, this marmalade will be found a most economical sweet and not at all bad on good homemade bread for hungry youngsters when they pile in from school or play.

INDIANA SWEET POTATO GROWERS CROWN "KING"

Indiana sweet potato growers have crowned a new "king." He is Carl Moyers of Vincennes. He was granted his title as the most efficient sweet potato grower on the basis of a harvest of more than 438 bushels per acre. Three other men in the state were able to exceed the goal of 300 bushels per acre. In a contest between father and son, Charles Stevens Jr. of Oaktown, Ind., grew 410 bushels to the acre while his father averaged 42 bushels less. The fourth highest producer was Irvin Jording of Vincennes, who beat the goal by an average of one bushel to the acre over the mark of 300.

Speaking of Temperaments, Consider the Army Cook's

BY ROE FOWLER.

Somewhere or other I have heard hotel chefs cited as the ultimate examples of artistic temperament. In fact, it was a writer for these columns, who mentioned in an article based on his own experience with hotel chefs that they were [individually and respectively] fond of expressing their temperaments by singing high C, threatening their assistants, or butting their heads vs. the wall. To all which manifestations I answer: "Shucks!"

Never having worked in a hotel kitchen, I cannot vouch for the authenticity of the article in question, but I can say from my own experience that the peculiarities named could be doubled and add 50, and still they wouldn't begin to match the temperament of an army cook. There, ladies and gents, is temperament as is temperament!

Well do I recall the first day I was on K. P. (there have been other days of kitchen police, but this one is typical). We began at 4:30 o'clock in the dewy morn, and trouble began simultaneously.

Draws the Broom.

The first duty of the K. P. detail was to police the kitchen. That is, sweep up. I was the unfortunate victim who happened to be allotted the broom. Anxious to show that I was a willing worker, I took hold of that instrument firmly and gave a lusty sweep. Just one. The cook was down on me like a tornado. When the storm had cleared the broom was in the hands of another victim, and through the barrage of epithets I made out that my crime had been in failing to observe sufficient reserve in my efforts. I had raised a dust, in my misguided ambition, and was therefore put to work building the fire—a task which entailed cleaning out the clinkers from the grate. That was grate fun.

Meanwhile the other members of the detail fell afoul the cook's temper. One lad got a skillet bounced off him for dropping a pan and had to wash the both of them. The cook, when excited, would jump up and down, emitting alternately some of the most fluent profanity I have ever heard, and animal sounds indicating incoherent speechlessness. The incoherence, by the way, was not because he had run out of words, but because there were too many of them. They created a sort of miniature log jam in getting out.

Tepid to the Cook.

The prize incident of the day, however, came after lunch. We had laboriously washed and stacked the dishes along the tables, tilted so that they would drain and dry themselves. The cook, who was known as "Shorty," came in just as the last one was washed.

He plunged his hand into the dishwater. Now, we K. P.'s had been handling the dishes with scrub brushes, the water being scalding hot. In spite of our system whereby we fished around with a brush in each hand like fire tongs, we hadn't been able to avoid being splashed with the water, which raised blisters wherever it landed. We expected to see "Shorty" withdraw his hand in a hurry, but he only sniffed. "Water's cold," he scoffed.

Grabbing the nearest dishes, he tossed them clear across the mess shack. They were enamel ware, so they didn't break (though I'll bet a lot of them were nicked). They did, however, land on the dirt floor of the shack. Wham, wham, wham! He didn't stop throwing dishes until every dish was on the floor.

"There," he said, when he was able to speak. "Pick them up and wash them—and use hot water this time."

I guess that should be the climax to the story, but there is one that is (to me) more satisfying. "Shorty" had a reputation as a tough guy. When we would be boxing on the company street after supper he would come out and put on the gloves. None of the boys liked to put them on with him. He rarely boxed, anyway, but stood, instead, flatfooted—stuck out his jaw—and invited his adversary to hit him.

"Hit me," he would say. "Come on—hit me."

His opponent would generally decline, or else, frightened badly, would hit him a glancing half hearted blow. Then "Shorty" would wade in and beat the lad up.

"Hit Me, You Ham!"

One night he was boxing with a kid named Maxant from Boston. Maxant didn't want to box with him and tried to pass the gloves off on somebody else, but nobody wanted them. Nope, not for love or money. Well, being unable to sell the gloves, Maxant finally put them on and stood nervously awaiting "Shorty's" onslaught.

"Shorty" sneered and stuck out his jaw. "Hit me," he invited. "Go on—you ham—hit me!"

What happened was a surprise to us all. Maxant stepped forward and turned loose something that looked lightning and sounded like dynamite. "Shortly" did a backward flip into a mess of tent ropes and stakes. Taking off his gloves, he got up and shook his head. He never offered his chin to anybody else during that camp.

Maxant muttered to himself. "Call me a ham—" he grumbled, "—me, that my uncle is a rabbi!"

HONEY DRIZZLE HELPS FLAVOR OF FRESH FRUITS

Honey used as "a drizzle" on servings of fresh fruits is recommended as an improvement in dessert flavors, according to James Gwin, marketing specialist for the Wisconsin department of agriculture and markets. Berries, cantaloupes, and other fruits are suggested for honey combinations.

The invert sugars of honey plus the fresh fruit sugars form a blend that tickles appetites, Mr. Gwin reports. The state's honey crop is expected to be but half that of normal. Two preceding years also have brought less than normal honey production, although prices are considered comparatively low.

Cream Manufacturers in Wisconsin Note Decline

Due somewhat to a loss of volume in trade with Chicago buyers, the ice cream manufacturers in Wisconsin last year produced 27 per cent less than the high production mark of 1929. In the peak year of 1929 the nation's ice cream plants turned out 254,618,000 gallons, and Wisconsin 8,891,000 gallons.

TASTY MUFFINS ARE RELISHED BY ALL THESE DAYS

New Variety Is Suggested Each Day of Week.

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

While the frosty mornings still last—according to the timid ground hog there is still three weeks of winter ahead—suggestions for hot muffins are not amiss. Cheese muffins for the lazy Sunday breakfast or fruit muffins for the informal family luncheon.

The first recipe is a simple standard muffin formula and the basis for the variations which follow it. Follow the directions, adding a new ingredient or substituting one for another, and you will have a new delicious hot bread for each day of the week.

Simple Muffins.

2 teaspoons baking powder.
½ teaspoon salt.
3 tablespoons sugar.
1 egg, beaten.
1 cup sweet milk.
2 tablespoons melted fat.

Sift the flour once, then measure. Add the other dry ingredients and sift again. Mix the fat, egg and liquid and add to the dry ingredients, blending quickly with a fork. Do not try to produce a smooth mixture. Pour into greased muffin tins, filling 2-3 full. Bake in a moderately hot oven [410 degrees F.] for 15 to 25 minutes, depending on the size of the muffin.

Breakfast Bacon Muffins.

4 tablespoons minced bacon.

Pan broil the bacon slightly and substitute the bacon and its fat for the fat in the simple muffin recipe.

Graham or Whole Wheat Muffins.

Substitute 1 cup graham or whole wheat flour and 1 cup of white flour in the simple muffin recipe. Do not sift the graham or whole wheat.

Cheese Muffins.

Substitute 3 tablespoons grated American cheese for 1 of the tablespoons of fat in the simple muffin recipe. Stir in the cheese at the last.

Peanut Butter Muffins.

Jelly Surprise Muffins.

Prepare the recipe for simple muffins and place it as directed in greased muffin tins. For small muffins, place ¾ teaspoon of fairly soft grape or apple jelly on the center of each; for large muffins use 1-3 teaspoon. Bake as directed. As the muffin rises, the jelly sinks into the heart of each, the crust forms over it and a sweet surprise center is formed, especially loved by children, and delicious for tea.

Fruit Muffins.

Add ¾ cup of any of the following to the simple muffins: Fruits, raisins, chopped dates, chopped figs, currants, drained canned blueberries [or fresh], drained canned raspberries [or fresh], shredded drained pineapple, or banana pulp. The raisins, dates, currants and figs may be added to the flour after sifting, then the other ingredients stirred in. The other fruits should be added to the batter at the last, just before baking.

Apple Muffins.

Simple muffin recipe: ½ teaspoon cinnamon. ¾ cup finely sliced and finely cut apples, 4 tablespoons sugar.

Add the cinnamon and extra sugar with the other dry ingredients and fold the apple into the batter just before baking.

CALL VITAMIN D PRODUCTS FOODS, NOT MEDICINES

Cod liver oil and similar vitamin D products are not medicines but foods, according to interpretations of nutrition experts. They advise even limited budgets should include the winter health protection for all children under 2 years of age, explaining that even 15 to 25 cents a week will provide a child with two to four teaspoons of the vitamin carrier daily.

FOLLY ISLAND

By Wallace Irwin

SYNOPSIS.

Bart Burgess is marooned in a catboat on Peconic bay, fifty miles from his Long Island home in Wyattville. His companion, Ingalls Frederick Warren, spoiled child of a new-made fortune, known as "Nosey Ingy," rows to town and sends Bart help and taxies home. A girl in a canoe invites Bart over to her family's island. Bart learns that she is one of the Bayleys, who have lived in seclusion on the island fifteen years. The father travels. He invites the girl, Alice, to visit him in Wyattville. Less than a week later Trevor Burgess, Bart's father, dies suddenly from a heart attack. He confesses in a letter left for Bart to being a bigamist. The Bayleys of Folly Island are his second family. They know him as Matthew Bayley. He asks Bart, for his invalid mother's sake, to guard the secret, and leaves a fortune to provide for the Bayleys. Bart calls on Mrs. Bayley, posing as a lawyer, and finds her a lovely woman, not the harridan he expected. Bart is happy to learn from her mother that Alice isn't Matthew Bayley's daughter. But to keep her from visiting his home and seeing his father's pictures is now a problem. When Bart realizes he loves Alice he resolves to stay away from Folly Island. He sees a lot of Lora Sachsit, a distant relative and recent divorcee, and soon finds himself unexpectedly engaged. The Bayleys visit New York, and Bart sees them. Ingy Warren has been visiting the island and has invited Alice to Wyattville. Bart tells Alice of his engagement. Ben Love, an oil catcher, long employed by the Bayleys, tries blackmail when he sees their newly acquired affluence. Ingy invites Alice and her mother to Wyattville for the annual flower show. Alice takes first prize with her exhibit.

INSTALLMENT XXXV.

A COOL RECOGNITION.

Driving alone, all around the countryside, Bart's mind was reaching crazily toward every possible expedient. Alice and her mother in the very center of Wyattville. . . . Aunt Augusta's prompt invitation to them to come to the Burgess house. . . . The prize dahlias were only an excuse. What were Ingy and Aunt Augusta up to, their heads together? Two natural spies, working like beavers, gnawing slyly to undermine a reputation. His father's!

A light came to Bart Burgess and he began to see it all. Between them Ingy Warren and Aunt Augusta were digging out the story of Trevor Burgess. The chain was still unlinked somewhere, but slowly, patiently they were pulling it together. Ingy, with nothing to do but make trouble, Aunt Augusta with no passion in life beyond the ramifications of her detective stories. . . . How casually Ingy had dropped in at Folly island, insinuated himself into Mrs. Bayley's good graces and taken advantage of her sudden decision to take Alice out into the world. Then, with the same charm he had for many women, he had formed a strange companionship with the old maid, who had always made a business of family secrets. . . . But how had Ingy gotten his first hint of the scandal? Did Hen Love know? Was that it? Or had Ingy's pop eyes stared into the houseboat before the night when Bart had committed burglary and torn his father's picture from the wall?

His father's picture! If the Bayleys should ever be admitted to the Burgess house the destruction of that one telltale photograph would have accomplished less than nothing. All over his mother's house were pictures of her dead husband, the big one in the drawing room, the small ones in her bedroom. . . .

They mustn't come near us, there's got to be some way of stopping them, he was thinking crazily as his car raced around the crooked lanes of Wyattville. Then he pointed the hood toward his mother's house. That evening at dinner he was so preoccupied that he hardly heard her thin complaints about his being so late and so silent.

Next morning at eleven o'clock Bart was playing golf with Wy McCall. Even now there was a certain comfort in this companionship, but none of the frankness they had shown as classmates at St. Paul's and Yale. Wy, who was home from medical school, sometimes quizzed his friend roughly, as he used to do. But there was no real intimacy any more, because Bart's secret lay between them. It was so everywhere. That secret seemed to be forever shoving him farther and farther away from the healthy companionships which had been his life so short a time ago.

Now the two young men, pleasant but slightly constrained, were playing up to the fifth hole on the Wyattville course. Bart, usually proud of his approach, topped his ball, lost his temper and threw away his mashie.

"Nerves my eye. But why do you think I mangle everything I swing at?"

"Maybe you'd better stop swinging," said Wy, as if that would have been possible. "Caddie, suppose you run down Mr. Burgess' mashie."

"I didn't know I was playing with a damned satirist," snorted Bart. But when the club came back he poised it properly, lifted the ball with a pretty spin and landed it within three feet of the hole.

"If the game teaches you anything—which I doubt—" said Wy, "it shows you how to hold on to yourself."

The good shot restored a certain confidence in Bart Burgess. He was a Daniel, girding his robes to step into the lion's den. In the club house over there, at one o'clock, he'd be again in the midst of an insoluble jumble, all Wyattville milling around the Bayleys, artfully steered by the two people who, he felt sure now, were working almost scientifically to piece together his father's shameful record.

His one idea was to keep the Bayleys from coming to his mother's house. Then again he was thinking of Alice. . . .

At one o'clock, when he and Wy stepped into the anteroom where the Warrens, with one of their wealthy gestures, were offering cocktails to some twenty people, Wy McCall asked whimsically, "And who may these Bayleys be? Why are the Warrens throwing a party for them?"

After his fashion Bart explained. The Bayleys were nice people, living somewhere up the island. Mrs. Bayley had taken some prizes at the flower show, and they were staying with the Warrens over the week-end. "The girl's a knockout," said Wy. "I wonder if they're grooming her for Ingy? Queer combination, isn't it?"

"Don't be a gossip," cautioned Bart, a little sick with the thought.

"So you didn't jump off the bridge, just to foil me," giggled Lora, coming up with a cocktail in both hands. She gave one to Bart. "Try that. After taking one of those Casper Milquetoast would chase Max Schmelling back to Germany."

More people were coming in. Wyattville was being very good to Mrs. Warren's guests, that was certain, for they crowded so thickly around them that nothing of Alice but her little black hat was visible in the crush. Col. Warren, a gentleman of leisure since a campaign of short selling had left him triumphant over the sorrows of Wall street, had something the air of a hotel proprietor at work with paying guests. Bart's eyes were on Alice. Through an opening in the crowd he could see her standing next to Ingy, half a head taller than he.

"Don't look so sunk, pie," cautioned Lora. "They're not going to announce their engagement. Ingy won't do that, until he knows that I'm completely out of his clutches."

Bart stood miserable, wishing that she would stop implying things about Alice. Had Lora, too, formed herself into that little ring, working against his father's reputation? Nonsense, he thought. I'm letting myself get morbid. Lora's honest, if she's anything. . . .

But his imagination was working insanely. It was easy to think that the crowd that passed Ingy and Alice, smiling at them, shaking their hands, were congratulating them on what the society blurb writers call an event. Their mothers, too, were together like prospective in-laws, already arranging the terms of a treaty.

"Don't be snooty to your hostess," commanded Lora, so Bart went over to make kind noises to Mrs. Warren, and of course, to Mrs. Bayley.

"Alice!" called Mrs. Bayley, and when the girl turned there was nothing more than pleasant recognition in her eyes. Wasted were the happy hours with her on the island that had enchanted him; wasted the heart burnings and the remorse which had flung him away from her into the arms of another girl. She just smiled and held out her hand, a cluster of fingers with no grip in them.

Girl Hands the Boys Tips on Good Manners

Claims They Are Uusually Too Timid, Awkward.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's something for you, boys, from "Gracie," who has your interest at heart!

"I was much disgusted with that letter sent you by a young man who was very much annoyed when the young lady with whom he had gone out only twice refused to kiss him. Well, I know his type well. In the first place, he hasn't any technique—doesn't know how to go about pleasing girls. I've been out with his type often—in fact, since I was 16. I'm 24 now and considered attractive all around.

"I find the average American fellows from about 18 to 26 are awkward, dumb, lack poise, manners and seem awfully afraid. At dances they're the wall-flowers, not the girls! Most of them are awfully cheap. Now, I don't mean that they should throw their money away—by no means! All in all, really, someone should publish an article on 'How to Act in a Girl's Company' — just a straight-forward talk, not on etiquette [although it would help, too!].

"May I make a few suggestions? First of all, if you see a girl you like, don't let her slide out of your life because you're afraid she won't talk to you—she might be dying to meet you, too. If it's at a dance, ask her to dance. If it's promised, ask for some other one. Don't take No for a final answer. Same goes for any other time or place. If you must be introduced, find someone to fix it up for you.

"Please, please don't forget that a girl loves to receive little gifts now and then. You can get a swell box of candy for $1. A corsage of flowers can be bought for as low as 35c. You don't have to bring her to a musical comedy every week — even once a month is enough. Then, she'll know you're not a cheap-skate. Just a splurge once in a while will keep her happy. Try to vary your entertainment—don't take her to the same place every time. After a few dates when you've proved to her that you're not tight, suggest spending an evening in her house, or just a walk, or an old-fashioned picnic.

"In other words, win the girl's confidence in you. Let her get a chance to study and know you. After a few dates she should be in a position to know you and, of course, you know her. You can't make anyone like you right away, but by taking things easy you'll find you're the winner. I went with my boy friend for two months and saw him every Sunday before he attempted to kiss me. By that time I wanted him to and made no effort to stop him. I think more of him for it than I would if he were one of these so-called 'Rushing Romeos.'

"'Gracie' adds, "Really, I feel awfully sorry for most fellows. They have such terrible inferiority complexes. They look miserable — and many of them have confessed how unhappy they are. They want girl friends as much as we want boy friends. But their technique needs sharpening."

Choose Favorite Color Scheme for Lily Design

Mariposa Lily.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Mariposa Lily," "North Carolina Lily," or "Noon Day Lily"—in any case, it is a lily. We shall call it by the first name. The lilies which grow so abundantly throughout the Carolina states provided the inspiration.

Originally the block was made of white flowers on a green background, and that still seems an appropriate color combination. Present day quilt makers, however, have changed all that and the "Mariposa Lily" is cultivated in different colors to suit individual favorite color schemes.

For a pattern of the "Mariposa Lily" design, send 5 cents in stamps or coin to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at The Tribune Public Service Office, 1 S. Dearborn street.

Events on the Stage

"The Red Robin," a musical comedy now in rehearsal at the Grand Opera house as the first of a series of productions planned for Chicago by J. J. Shubert, will have its premiere Saturday night, March 4. Allan Jones and Martha Lorber will have the leading roles. The cast will be composed mainly of the principal players in "The Student Prince" company, which will end its engagement at the Grand Opera house tomorrow night.

"Design for Living," Noel Coward's new play with Lynne Fontanne, Alfred Lunt and the author as co-stars, will continue its run at the Ethel Barrymore theater, New York, until May 27. The management announces that there will be no tour of this play and that plans for a London engagement next summer have been canceled.

The coming week will be the most active period of the season on the Chicago legitimate stage. The openings will be: The Abbey Theater company from Dublin in dramatic repertory with five changes of bill, at the Harris theater, Sunday night; "The Bride Retires," a comedy with Edna Hibbard in the leading rôle, at the Blackstone theater, Sunday night; "Katinka," revival by the Chicago Opera company at the Civic Opera house, Monday night, and "The Red Robin," at the Grand Opera house, Saturday night.

Mundelein Prom.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

ROBERTA: THE REASON WHY so many heads of hair look unattractive is that brushing isn't included in the grooming. Even the most beautiful shade and texture of hair needs daily brushing.

MOTHER: A CHILD OF 5 SHOULD not have skin blemishes unless there is some internal disorder. Creams should not be used on such young skin, but two or three soap and water washings a day should be given.

Derns to Meet New Secretary of War Sunday

Winnetka Resident Son of Utah Governor.

bled eggs and sausage Saturday evening at the White House.

Mr. Houghteling is leaving for the east the first of the week to go by way of New York to attend to some business matters. Mrs. Houghteling plans to leave Chicago Wednesday afternoon.

On Thursday of next week Mr. and Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson and Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Otis are boarding the noon train for Washington. They will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Douglas, who moved to Washington a year ago when Mr. Douglas accepted the post of assistant secretary of the treasury in President Hoover's administration. The Douglas home is on Kalorama road.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis will return home immediately after the inauguration, but the Stevensons plan to go to Florida for a visit with Mr. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, who is now the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ives.

Kelloggs to Visit Douglases.

Other guests of the Douglases will be the John Payne Kelloggs of Lake Forest, who left for the east yesterday. Robert F. Carr, who served in Washington during the war in the purchase, storage, and traffic division under Gen. Goethals, is hoping to get away for the inauguration, but he isn't sure but that business will keep him here. Another who hopes to see the new President inducted into office is Miss Betty Scriven.

Miss Scriven left for New York yesterday to visit her good friend, Mrs. Roy Larson, the former Margaret Zerbe of Cleveland. Mrs. Larson's mother and the late Mrs. Scriven were intimate friends. If Miss Scriven can steal the time from her job here she will go on to Washington from New York.

The Robert J. Dunhams, who have been in New York on a visit, are expected home this week-end in time to repack their bags and set off again for the east and the inaugural festivities. Mrs. George Bass, so prominently identified with Democratic activities as national committeewoman from Illinois, will arrive in Washington on Wednesday or Thursday of next week.

Conspicuous by their absence at the inauguration will be the Melvin Traylors, the Kellogg Fairbanks, and Edward N. Hurley. All of them say in very disappointed tones, "We just simply can't get away, much as we want to." Others who had hoped to go east are the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors, but, having just returned from a southern vacation in Virginia and Georgia, they feel they must stay at home for at least a week or two.

Betty Histed to Be Bride Today.

When Miss Betty Histed, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roland Histed of Lake Forest, becomes the bride of Stephen Van Dyke Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Horton of Oak Park, this afternoon in the Church of the Holy Spirit in Lake Forest, only members of the immediate families will be present.

The Rev. Herbert E. Prince will read the service and there will be no attendants. Miss Histed will wear a tan traveling suit, for the bridal couple will leave immediately after the ceremony for an eastern wedding trip. Upon their return they will live at 900 North Michigan avenue.

Miss Catharine Carton, whose engagement to Paul P. Swett Jr. was announced last fall, has decided to be married on Saturday afternoon, June 24, in the Lake Forest Presbyterian church. Whether it will be a large or a small wedding is not definitely decided and the attendants have not been chosen. However, there will be a reception following the ceremony at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton. Mr. Swett is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Paul P. Swett of Hartford, Conn.

Wednesday, March 29, has been chosen by Miss Lucie Jacobs as the date for her marriage to Willett N. Gorham, and she also is undecided as to whether to invite a few or many persons to be present, but she is sure that it is to be a home wedding and that Sidney S. Gorham Jr. will be his brother's best man.

Miss Jacobs is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Jacobs of Winnetka. After a month's honeymoon in the south Mr. Gorham and his bride will be at home in an apartment on East Elm street.

Quentin Gilbey Weds in Paris.

In a recent letter from London there was mention of the marriage in Paris this month of Quentin Gilbey and Mrs. Drury Lowe. This news will interest the friends of the former Betty Ball, for before she was married to Gerald V. Wellesley she was Mrs. "Quinney" Gilbey. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Otho F. Ball of Astor street.

The Misses Clara and Mary Cudahy, who have been at their Santa Barbara residence all winter, will arrive in Chicago tomorrow and will spend tomorrow night with their brother, Edward L. Cudahy, leaving the next day for New York where they keep a residence on Fifth avenue.

Mrs. John Borden is leaving today to spend ten days in New York visiting friends there and on Long Island. After March 8 she will be in Washington, where Mr. Borden will join her, and will be there for three months.

Miss Helen Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laird Bell of Winnetka, has returned from a round of visits in the east, including one to Mrs. Edward B. Burling in Washington.

Arts Club Tea for Mme. Jeritza.

So many Arts club members came to meet the lovely Mme. Jeritza yesterday afternoon at the tea given for her in the club parlors that the supply of tiny sandwiches and cakes was depleted long before the last guests were received at 6 o'clock. There were "ohs" and "ahs" of admiration as one person after another met the famous star, who was stunning in a thin black wrap with a shawl collar of ermine.

At the head of the receiving line was Mrs. Potter Palmer, more attractive than ever in a black dress and a small turban of white velvet pansies. Next to her stood Mme. Jeritza, then Mrs. C. Barney Goodspeed, lovely in black with a silver fox shawl and a bunch of white freesia, and then Mario Duca, the tenor who is singing "Tosca" with Mme. Jeritza. Early in the afternoon John Charles Thomas was also there to greet his many admirers.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift reached Chicago yesterday morning, but an appointment at the customs house prevented her assisting at the afternoon party. Mrs. Swift has just returned from a trip to Poland.

There was an enthusiastic audience at the club yesterday morning for the lecture Maurice Sachs gave on "The Decade of Illusion." Mr. Sachs is the great-grandson of Bizet, the composer of "Carmen." Mrs. Goodspeed introduced Mr. Sachs and gave a small luncheon for him afterwards in the club dinning room.

Repeat "Tosca" Benefit Tonight.

Another brilliant audience will hear Mme. Maria Jeritza sing the title rôle of "Tosca" again this evening at the Auditorium. Mrs. C. Frederick Childs, the devoted president of the woman's board of the Presbyterian hospital, which is receiving the benefits of the two performances this week, will occupy the same box in the gold horseshoe tonight as she did on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner will entertain a party including Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Ezra J. Warner Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Edison Dick will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Stuart H. Otis and Mr. and Mrs. Carroll H. Sudler Jr.

One of the gayest parties will be that of Miss Catherine Carton, who will have with her a group of debutantes and second year girls with their beaux. Miss Carton is taking the box of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton.

On March 2 Mrs. Graham Aldis (Dorothy to her friends and the readers of her delightful poetry) will inaugurate something new and interesting at the Little Traveler in Geneva, short talks by clever people on Thursdays after luncheon. Mrs. Aldis will talk on "Now—and 'Any Spring.'"

Chicago alumni of Andover and Exeter are joining forces tonight at an annual dinner at the Drake hotel. Charles S. Dewey, president of the Andover Alumni association, and Jay N. Whipple, president of the Exeter alumni, flipped a coin and Mr. Dewey won the position of presiding officer. Dr. Lewis Perry, headmaster of Exeter, and Prof. Claude Fuess of Andover will be the speakers.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil F. Elmes of 1420 Lake Shore drive and Barrington announce the engagement of their daughter, Philippa Rhoda, to James Ward Kennedy of Orange N. J.

Mrs. Helen Walton will preside at a meeting of the Chicago Drama league this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Cordon club when Juliet Barker will review "When Ladies Meet," by Rachel Crothers.

Chicago Girls at Yale Prom.

With a smart new formal in her suitcase pretty Miss Margaret Hamill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Hamill, boarded the train yesterday afternoon for New Haven, Conn., where she will attend the annual junior prom tonight.

An invitation to a Yale prom is always a coveted "bid" and this time Chicago is to be one of the best represented cities in the country, according to the report from the committee in charge.

Miss Mary Lou Hayes is to be there and so are Miss Betty Barrows, Miss Boobie Teitsch, Miss Julia Woodward, and Miss Nancy Clapp.

Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze, vice president of the Woman's Athletic club, called yesterday to say that Ellery Walter, author of "The World on One Leg," is coming to the club at 11 o'clock next Friday to talk about the German youth movement. Mr. Walter spent last summer in Berlin.

This morning he is to be the guest of Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley at the lecture James B. Pond is giving at the club on "Eccentricities of Genius."

Tomorrow morning the club gymnasium will resound with activity, for the finals of the annual pingpong tournament are to be played, beginning at 2:30 o'clock.

Shaw's Latest Book Published in U. S. Today

Short Story Has 'Preface' at the End.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Adventures of the Black Girl in Her Search for God," by Bernard Shaw. [Dodd-Mead.] Published today.

Bernard Shaw's latest book comes to us with the heralding of denunciations by the Bishop of Winchester and the County Wexford [Ireland] Beekeepers' association, who expelled their most illustrious member for his "blasphemous statement regarding Christ and his apostles." What published blasts it earned from the local British and European press have come to us second hand. In a long life of shocking the complaisance of the public, Mr. Shaw has reached the peak on the vital chart of his career with his latest offering, because of all men's intellectual and spiritual taboos those about the sacredness of religion and the invulnerability of the Bible as the word of God are the most violently defended by man.

BERNARD SHAW. [From His New Book.]

And in "The Adventures of the Black Girl in Her Search for God" Mr. Shaw attacks the idea of God and the Christian Logos with the same wholly intellectual detachment with which he has in the past attacked the fortresses of practically every other social expression. He chose to write a short story rather than a play—which he set out to do when he went to South Africa on a holiday last year—because he felt that the message he wished to give the world "at the present world crisis" could best be given thus and the importance of the message, he says, "is probably at the bottom of my curious and sudden inspiration to write this tale instead of cumbering theatrical literature with another stage comedy."

The story, which is written in exactly the manner of his famous prefaces [he never was a writer of fiction, and he isn't any more so in this story than he was in the five novels which he did unsuccessfully before he turned to play writing] is followed by a "preface" [unlabeled] which explains in the most meticulous detail the exact pattern and interpretation of the story. The story is destined for the knowledgeable who can recognize in Mr. Shaw's descriptions of the various gods offered to the black girl in her passionate search differing concepts of the God of the Bible, of Mohammed, of Voltaire, of the worshiper of pure art [as opposed to religion], and of Christ.

In the story a black girl, recently taught to read by a Christian missionary and meeting the Bible for the first time, goes on a passionate search for God. She never finds him. She achieves a certain philosophy "that it is wiser to take Voltaire's advice by cultivating her garden and bringing up her pickaninnies than to spend her life imagining that she can find a complete explanation of the universe by laying about her with a knobkerrie. Still, the knobkerrie has to be used as far as the way is clear. Mere agnosticism leads nowhere. . . ."

In the "preface" which follows the story, the search, its failures and its satisfactions are fully explained in Mr. Shaw's most pellucid manner. In the story itself the search is as esoteric, as brilliantly scalpel-turned as anything that the author has ever written. Within a few pages he turns on to the orthodox Christian faith the driest of the dry light of Sir Francis Bacon. The story is a brilliant intellectual fantasy, a porcupine which shoots its quills in every paragraph, and always toward the vital spot of its enemy.

The Bible, "with its series of gods marking stages in the development of the conception of God from the monster Bogey Man to the Father; then to the spirit without body, parts, or passions, and finally to the definotion of that spirit in the words 'God is Love,'" is, for most of the book, that enemy. It is the subversion of everything that well schooled Christians have been taught to believe. It is Bernard Shaw almost diabolically brilliant.

With the brilliance of the story itself, followed by a coldly unadorned interpretation, the seventy-five pages of "The Adventures of the Black Girl in Her Search for God" show Mr. Shaw preëminently what he has always been, a missionary of ideas.

PAY ROLL HOLDUP.

"This case of yours, sergeant, recalls a puzzling one on which I worked as a young deputy sheriff in the west," remarked the professor to his friend.

"Four masked bandits held up the stage coach carrying the pay roll to the Deep Ore mine. Three of them were hardened criminals, but the fourth was a novice. Apparently through sheer nervousness he wounded the driver, Jake Munsey. When the guard remonstrated, one of the other three coolly shot him down in cold blood. Then the gang escaped with the $4,800 pay roll.

"From Jake's description Sheriff Waters and I gathered in four suspects: 'Denver' Johnson, 'Smoke' Hennessy, John Bird, and 'Wild' Bill Hicks—all members of the same gang.

[b] The gang leader, against the advice of the killer, had a week previously gone to Frisco to help a pal in trouble.

"A bit perplexing at first glance, sergeant, but, like your own case, a few minutes' study and you have the solution."

DO YOU KNOW WHO THE KILLER WAS?

LET THE HURRICANE ROAR

By ROSE WILDER LANE

Mother of 7—Still Young

Her system doesn't stagnate; her face doesn't age. She has the health and "pep" that come from a lively liver and strong, active bowels.

When you're sluggish and the system needs help, don't take a lot of "patent medicines." There's a famous doctor's prescription for just such cases, and every druggist keeps this standard preparation. It is made from fresh laxative herbs, active senna, and pure pepsin. Just ask for Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin. Take a little every day or so, until every organ in your body feels the big improvement.

The next time you have a bilious headache, or feel all bound-up, take this delicious syrup instead of the usual cathartic. You'll be rid of all that poisonous waste, and you haven't weakened the bowels. You'll have a better appetite, and feel better in every way. The constant use of cathartics is often the cause of a sallow complexion and lines in the face. And so unnecessary!

Would you like to break yourself of the cathartic habit? At the same time building health and vigor that protects you from frequent sick spells, headaches, and colds? Get a big bottle of Dr. Caldwell's syrup pepsin today. Use often enough to avoid those attacks of constipation. When you feel weak and run-down or a coated tongue or bad breath warns you the bowels need to be stimulated. Give it to children instead of strong laxatives that sap their strength. It isn't expensive.

KILLS CHICAGO WOMAN HE FINDS IN RIVAL'S ROOM

Ottawa, Ill., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Enraged when he found her in the room of another man early today, Arthur Ringney, 46, shot and killed Mrs. Patsy Shubnell, 21, of 6643 Greenwood avenue, Chicago. Mrs. Shubnell, a divorcee, had been staying in Ottawa for a year. A coroner's jury tonight ordered Ringney held for murder.

Ringney was arrested an hour later by Sheriff E. J. Welter when he returned to get his coat and hat at the home of John McCormick, where the killing occurred. The sheriff had anticipated his return and had hidden in the house.

At the county jail Ringney said he went to McCormick's bedroom early today and found Mrs. Shubnell lying on the bed with McCormick.

Tells of Killing.

"I was crazy about her," he said, "I accused her of double crossing me and told her I was going to kill her."

"I dare you. You haven't got the guts," he said she replied.

McCormick, who witnessed the shooting, claims he did not know Mrs. Shubnell was in his bedroom until he was awakened by angry voices and found her lying on his bed and Ringney standing over her with a gun. She was wearing a pair of lounging pajamas, but had removed her shoes and hose, McCormick said.

Parents Live Here.

Mrs. Shubnell leaves a small daughter. Today her father, E. C. Snave, and her sister, Mrs. N. E. Saunders, came from Chicago to take the body there for burial. She is also survived by three brothers, Elmer, Joseph, and Stephen Snave of Chicago.

"Death Valley Scotty" No Longer Squatter on Desert

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—So Walter Scott, better known as "Death Valley Scotty," will not be a squatter, the house public lands committee today approved the Arentz bill under which the California desert settler could buy the land on which his showplace house sits. The bill would permit Scott and his close friend, Albert M. Johnson, Chicago insurance man, to purchase from the government 1,500 acres of the desert for $1.25 an acre.

First Child Saved

Philip Zorn, 17 months old, called upon Dr. Herman N. Bundesen yesterday to show the president of the board of health what the Mother's Milk Bureau of Chicago had done for him. The boy, the son of Laurin J. Zorn, 7519 South Carpenter street, is the first baby whose life was saved by the bureau, which now supplies mother's milk to many surgical cases and premature babies. The Baby Life Guards of the bureau, founded by Dr. Bertha Van Hoosen, will give a benefit concert April 29, at Orchestra hall.

Cousin of Italian King Saves Drowning Officer

TRIEST Italy, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The Duke of Spoleto, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, saved a friend from drowning today. He and Lieut. Cavalli were in a motorboat in Fasana channel when a squall drove the craft onto the rocks at Punta Cristo. The duke and two sailors swam ashore. From the beach he saw Lieut. Cavalli being swept back into the swift current. He plunged in again and drew his unconscious friend to safety.

RAIL OFFICIALS SEE AUTOTRAM IN ROAD TEST

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The autotram, new type of streamlined automobile rail car recently completed here, was demonstrated today before railroad officials. Besides representatives of three railroad lines as passengers on the autotram, on a run from here to Three Rivers, F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central; R. B. White, president of the Central railroad of New Jersey, and H. L. Margetts, general superintendent of the Michigan Central railroad, came to Battle Creek for a ride on the autotram.

The riding qualities and the rapid acceleration and deceleration of the car was commented on by the officials.

GOALKEEPERS' STOPS.

Gardiner	11	11	8	—30
Hainsworth	6	4	4	—14

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 23.—(AP)—A far different team from the outfit that took a 10-0 trimming at Boston earlier in the week, the Montreal Canadiens dazzled the Blackhawks with the brilliance of their play here tonight and handed the Chicagoans a 2 to 0 shutout.

The Hawks had a poor night, lacking their usual dash and effectiveness, while the Canadiens sparkled in their speed and smart plays. Chuck Gardiner was the hero for the Hawks' cause. His extraordinary performance in the Chicago goal held the Canadiens to a mere two goals, while according to the play they should have had many more.

Two Goals in Second Period.

Gardiner was too good for the Canadiens in the first period, but in the second Johnny Gagnon teamed with Joliat on a play that gave Gagnon a high shot into the far corner. Joliat scored in the same period while Couture was in the penalty box.

Gardiner stopped 30 shots and Abel blocked many more for him. Hainsworth had only 14 shots to handle.

The Canadiens gave the Hawks little peace in the first few minutes. Howie Morenz turned on his blazing speed to head five successive attacks on Chuck Gardiner. Taffy Abel smeared Johnny Gagnon's try and then Joliat missed an open net with Gardiner out of position.

McFadyen tried to plunge through the Canadiens' defense. Carson locked with him in a high checking duel, and his stick drew blood from McFadyen's forehead. He automatically got a five minute rest, while McFadyen drew a minor and went off for repairs, while Tommy Cook served time for him in the box.

Gagnon Scores First.

Stout work by the defensive pairs at either end of the rink stopped all attempts for the first few minutes of the second period, but the Canadiens were boring in more aggressively and jumped into the lead when Johnny Gagnon darted around Abel and swung a high shot into the far corner of the Hawks' cage. Joliat started the play with a neat pass.

Pit Lepine was chased for holding. Gardiner dived out to save another sure goal by Gagnon as Lepine came back.

Gottselig was tied up by the Canadiens' defense on three rushes and then March was stopped at the last moment by Carson. Lepine headed two dangerous raids into Hawks' territory. Gardiner saved three times in a hectic scramble.

Score with Couture Off.

Lolo Couture went off the ice with a tripping penalty and the Hawks were on the defensive as the Canadiens sent four up the ice. The Hawks heaved the puck down the rink as the Red Shirts started rushing inside the Chicago blue line. Couture was still watching from the penalty bench when Joliat drilled the puck into the twine behind Gardiner for the second Canadien goal. Morenz and Gagnon teamed on a double passing play that gave Joliat his opportunity.

Morenz was stopped by Graham and Abel flattened Gagnon with a terrific body check as the third period opened. Giroux got through the Hawks' defense twice, but was hooked from behind and his shots deflected. Larochelle came in close and Gardiner made a stop with his ear, trapping the puck between his head and shoulder.

Gardiner Keeps Busy.

The Canadiens were peppering Chuck Gardiner with high shots and low shots as the Chicago defense went lax, but the little goalie banged them all out of the way.

Johnny Gottselig and Sylvio Mantha were banished for cross checking. Tommy Cook and Paul Thompson broke through the barrier of red shirts for a couple of quick shots at Hainsworth. Lepine, Larochelle, and Joliat came in three abreast, but Gardiner kicked Joliat's shot aside.

VACATION DAZE.

FRIEND ARCH: Well, Arch, I wonder whether you have been thinking any about my vacation. Probably you haven't, what with the Golden Gloves tourneys and all, but I have. And I've been wondering whether you wouldn't like me to take it pretty soon now, especially as I feel sorta rundown, and the more I think of Florida the more sorta rundown I feel.

Of course, it may seem strange to you that I feel this way so often about this time of year, and I admit it's a pretty good time to feel rundown with March a treacherous month, but last year I forgot about how bad I felt until too late and then didn't get south at all, but only to New York where one doesn't get sunburned, only electric lighted around 42d and Broadway.

Now here's the situation. This vacation is for 1932, which I haven't had yet, and I was wondering if you wouldn't like me to combine it with my 1933, which would give four weeks. You see if a fellow took only two weeks and happened to drive he'd spend about ten days motoring, and ten days motoring in two weeks is not my idea of a vacation, especially if you're sorta rundown. So I wish you'd think it over and drop me a note.

It looks fair enough to me because I'm not going to run out on my job or anything. I've heard of chaps who took their vacations and then resigned. That's not strictly honorable. But I like my work and you very much, and, anyway, no one is running out on a job in these times if he has a job. I hate to miss the Tournament of Champions and the city finals in Golden Gloves, but with you and Smitty and French and Stewart and Jimmy and Chuck, that ought to be enough to cover them all right.

Another thing, if I waited until after the Golden Gloves, it would be rather late to get back for advance stories on the Kentucky Derby and for talks with the leading candidates so we can tell our readers just what the horses themselves think of their own chances, right from the feedbox in their own whinnies, so to speak.

Now I've thought this over very carefully and it seems a good plan, but, of course, whatever you think is all right with me, but I do feel run down and probably could do much better work later if I went away soon.

There were several years when the spring fever caught me and you sent me down at the paper's expense to report a prize fight and the races. There's no big fight this year and while the races are good with lots of Chicagoans there, it's not worth the expense in a year like this, so I'll pay my own expenses if my favorite banker says yes to a proposition I'll make him. I'll not tell you the proposition, but if he says no, just forget about this little note which isn't the kind of a note I'll talk to the banker about.

I'm sorry to pay my own expenses, but even that has some advantages. I'm so conscientious that I always worry about my expense accounts. Of course you're very understanding because you travel around a lot, but I became a little discouraged when the auditor questioned those items of "good will" and "experience" and wanted to know what they meant. And how did I know what they meant only they were part of the difference between what I actually spent and what I should have spent.

As you remember, I never charge "entertainment." That's obsolete anyway now, but I never could see why one should charge "entertainment," which we don't charge when we're in the city — even if ice and carbonated water are higher on the road than here.

But there's one item I never could fully make up my mind about and it comes up often at Louisville. I'd like to get it settled, too. Here is the agreed statement of facts: You have on a straw hat. It's raining. You can take a cab or a street car. The cab is quicker. Moreover, if you walk to the street car you spoil your straw hat. Now the hat belongs to you but your time belongs to your newspaper. You take a cab. Should you charge taxi fare on the expense account for saving the paper's time or only what street car fare would have been had you not taken the cab? I leave it to you.

Well, Arch, think over my proposition and let me know. Whatever you say is all right, but the more I think of it the more run down I get.

Regards.

HARVEY T. WOODRUFF.

CUBS WARM UP; REAL WORKOUTS TO START TODAY

Mr. Warneke Arrives Minus His Bride.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., Feb. 23.—Manager Charley Grimm of the Chicago Cubs landed his party here at noon today after a pleasant and calm sail across the sometimes truculent Catalina channel. When noses were counted at the dock it was found that only nine players are left to form the second squad, due to arrive Feb. 28.

The battery staffs were 100 per cent present at the landing. In addition to twelve pitchers and four catchers Babe Herman, Bill Herman, Woody English, and Riggs Stephenson were on hand, jumping the gun by five days over the requirements of Manager Grimm's orders.

Sun Does Its Stuff.

When the Cubs arrived in Los Angeles a heavy fog was hanging over the city and for a time Manager Grimm was fearful that an afternoon practice could not be held. The sun busted loose while the pilgrims were at sea, however, and the word went out that the lads were to get to the ball park just as soon as they could finish up their midday victuals.

At 2 o'clock the first drill of 1933 was held. It was not severe, designed merely to limber up the artists for the real grind, which will start tomorrow morning.

What! No Bride?

The Cub party had the usual number of proud wives on the list, but those who had expected to meet Mrs. Lon Warneke, a bride of eleven days, were disappointed. She's still teaching school in Norman, Ark.

"Where is the little woman?" the National league's leading pitcher was asked. "Ain't you having no honeymoon?"

To which Lon replied: "Honeymoon, hell. That's all over—I've been married since Lincoln's birthday."

Mrs. Dorothy Root, world traveler, California resident, and wife of the talented Charley, went Marlene Deitrich within an hour after the ship landed, the get-up including a nifty pair of gray slacks and an antibes sweater.

Lumbago Bothers Boss.

All the athletes were in excellent physical condition when they landed at Avalon, excepting Manager Grimm, who still has the misery in his back, due to lumbago.

With the unparalleled rush to get into training, the Cubs were able to put 22 men in uniform at the first drill, a remarkable showing in view of the fact the team has been divided into two squads.

The nine who will report with the second squad are Stanley Hack, Gink Hendrick, Bill Jurges, Del Young, Vince Barton, Ki Cuyler, Frank Demaree, Harry Taylor, and Mark Koenig.

SOX OPTIMISTIC

The most optimistic squad of White Sox players to head for spring training in the last decade departed from the Northwestern station last night for Pasadena, Cal., with the good wishes of a throng of loyal south side fans ringing in their ears.

The delegation was not large, only seven working members of the cast being on the list, but in the two special cars there was an air of gaiety and enthusiasm which had been sadly lacking at the getaways of recent years. The athletes who accepted tickets from Traveling Secretary Joe T. Barry just before the Los Angeles Limited pulled out were Pitchers Urban Faber, Milton Gaston, Joe Heving, and Sam Jones; Catcher, Fred Bergman; Infielder Minter [Jack] Hayes, and Outfielder Evar Swanson.

President J. Louis Comiskey was in charge of the party. He was accompanied by Mrs. Comiskey, their daughter, Dorothy, and Mrs. Leslie Rosenblum. Trainer Bill Buckner completed the personnel as it left Chicago, but it is expected to be doubled by the addition of team members along the route to Pasadena.

SO LONG, SOX! WE'LL SEE YOU IN APRIL

All aboard for Pasadena! First group of White Sox players left from Northwestern station last night for training camp at Pasadena, Cal. Campbell to Go Home; No More Trials

Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Sir Malcolm Campbell is through breaking automobile speed records for this year, although dissatisfied with the all-time mark he hung up yesterday when he hurtled at the rate of 272.108 miles an hour in his multiple motored Blue Bird over the beach here, he is content to rest on his laurels and announced definitely today that he would make no more speed trials this year.

Campbell will leave Tuesday for New York and sail for England on Friday. The Blue Bird will be crated and shipped north tomorrow or Saturday.

Campbell had made tentative plans to try for a new speed mark from a standing start, but he probably will abandon them because of the lack of sufficient time to get his car into racing shape again before his departure Tuesday. The standing start record of 100.7 m. p. h. is held by Campbell's countryman, Kaye Don.

Campbell is still suffering from a sprained arm, and it was this ailment chiefly that influenced his decision against further races against time.

The injury was sustained a week ago when a wild gear lever struck Campbell's wrist during a test run. With his arm, the left one, encased in bandages, the Briton was forced to handle his machine with one hand in yesterday's record smashing effort.

In all probability, Campbell said, he will return here next year in an effort to raise his own mark. His goal now is 300 miles an hour, and, under favorable conditions, he hopes to do it.

"I am confident my car has much more speed in it," Campbell said, "and I would like to return next year and raise my record as high as possible."

Notre Dame Picks Harriss, Guard, as Most Valuable

The Rev. M. A. Mulcaire, C. S. C., vice president of the university, announced also that the name of the player voted most valuable annually will be inscribed upon the first football blanket won at Notre Dame by the late Knute Rockne. The blanket, which was given to Joseph McGinnis of Chicago, was returned by him to Notre Dame today to be placed in the proposed Rockne Memorial fieldhouse.

Father Mulcaire also announced that a distinctive monogram will be given to members of the B team every year.

Instead of doing away with the captaincy, as previously announced, Father Mulcaire announced that an honorary captain will be elected at the close of every season.

Nashville to Lead Parade to Tourney of Champions

BY ARCH WARD.

The first of the 23 out of town teams which will compete in the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at Chicago Stadium will arrive Sunday morning. They will be the winners in the meet conducted by the Nashville Tennessecan.

Among the early arrivals will be the championship team from Cleveland, O., sponsored by the Plain Dealer. The Cleveland party will be in charge of Sam Otis, sports editor of the paper; James Lee, secretary of the Northeastern Ohio A. A. U., and Lewis N. Bloom, vice chairman of the national boxing committee.

Headquarters for the tournament will be established Sunday morning at the Congress hotel. All teams will be here by Monday noon, for contestants must report at the Stadium to be weighed in and examined at 2 o'clock.

Tickets for the three nights of competition are on sale at THE TRIBUNE Public Service Office, 1 South Dearborn street, and at room 530 Tribune Tower. Prices range from 40 cents in the top balcony to $1.10 ringside.

Two hundred boxers still were in the running for south side qualifying positions after the first round Wednesday night. Of this number, 167 reported yesterday. Five failed to pass physical examinations as a result of minor injuries in their opening bouts.

Two rings will be employed each night in the Tournament of Champions. There will be approximately 100 bouts on each program. There will be no inexperienced boxers in the open division. All will be survivors of tournaments that attracted a total entry of nearly 5,000. This number has been surpassed in tournament competition only once. The New York Golden Gloves meet drew more than 6,000 last season.

One of the strangest bouts in the history of Golden Gloves was between Fred Gardiner and Ira Calitz, both unattached, at White City. Shortly before the end of the third round Referee Norm McGarrity ruled the match no contest on the grounds that neither was trying to win. Both boys were automatically disqualified from the tournament. Calitz is a cousin of Barney Ross, 1929 Golden Gloves champion.

John Dangelo, 112 pound novice, had the services of a professional fighter as a second. Paul Pantaleo, who also handled Carl Erickson, novice welterweight, was in Dangelo's corner.

Don Brand, who hitch hiked his way from Fort Dodge, Ia., to compete in Golden Gloves, was eliminated in the first round of the lightweight open division by Phil Kenneally of the C. Y. O. Kenneally, a student at St. Philip's High school, was seconded by his father, Patrick Kenneally, who trained Packey McFarland from 1907 to 1911. Brand was a popular favorite in the 1932 White City trials.

TERROR RETURNS $230; NOBODY IS ON HIM TO SHOW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Feb. 23.—One of the most unusual incidents in the history of pari-mutuel betting occurred in the second race at the Agua Caliente race track today. Terror, running in a field of selling platers, won the race. He paid $230 to win in the 32 mutuels, $102 to place, but was "out" to show.

Another horse, Secluded, was not given any show consideration in the first race. Secluded finished second, paying $38.20 to place, but also was "out" to show. Officials said no show tickets were sold on the horses.

70 Bouts to Decide Section's Best.

OUT OF TOWN BOUTS.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The south side's sixteen best amateur boxers will be named tonight for the Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions which opens Monday at the Chicago Stadium. These sixteen will be joined by the teams already chosen from three other sections of the city. Championship teams from twenty-three cities in seven states and from the Catholic Youth Organization of Chicago will be pitted against these Chicago boys.

In addition to reducing the open division field to the best sixteen boxers, tonight's show will determine the sixteen south side novice boxers who will compete in Chicago's first Golden Gloves novice meet which will be held in conjunction with the Tournament of Champions.

Bargain Prices Prevail.

Admission tonight at White City is 60 cents, the same bargain price that has prevailed throughout the Chicago sectionals. A record army of Golden Gloves boxers has fought on four sides of the city for eleven nights. On nine of these nights two rings were in use and last Wednesday the qualifying tournaments overlapped with the finals of the north section at Loyola university and the opening of the south side tournament at White City.

There will be seventy bouts tonight. The first will start at 7:30 and the doors will open one hour earlier. All contestants must report not later than 6 o'clock for physical examinations.

Five Hours of Punching.

Last night 2,000 south side fans watched their favorites fight for qualifying positions in the Tournament of Champions and in Chicago's novice meet. For nearly five hours a succession of bouts swept through the two rings. One hundred and thirteen fights were run off, which set a new one night mark for the sixth Golden Gloves competition. Tonight, in the finals, the open division flyweight fighters are the only ones who will not see action.

Last night's crowd was as enthusiastic as any previous Golden Gloves gathering. And the fights, some uproariously funny as inexperienced boys battled seriously to win and others well fought between evenly matched contestants, upheld the standard of the tournament.

Something to Holler About.

Art Middleton of the Wildcat Athletic club and Alex Zaleski of the C. Y. O. put on a scrap in the bantamweight novice class which had the fans standing up and yelling. It was a fight such as only two red blooded kids can put on when they're seeking Golden Gloves honors. And, it might

VON PORAT AND GRIFFITH MEET IN RING TONIGHT

Gastanaga Faces Hunt in Semi-Windup.

Otto Von Porat, Norwegian heavyweight, and Tuffy Griffith of the west side will meet in the 10 round windup of the boxing show at the Coliseum tonight. It will be Von Porat's first Chicago bout in two years. He returned last month from Europe where he won four bouts by knockouts during his long stay there.

The 10 round semi-final will bring together Izzy Gastanaga, New York heavyweight, and Babe Hunt of Ponca City, Okla. Another 10 round match will be between Jack Roper, stablemate of Griffith, and Joe Sekyra of Dayton, O.

Ray Tramblie, Rockford, Ill., middleweight, will seek his fourth straight victory against Marty Sampson of New York in a six round preliminary. Jack Moran and Freddy Langford, Chicago 160 pounders, will battle in a four rounder.

Billy Cepak, Cicero Stadium promoter, has completed his card for next Friday night. Jack Moran, west side middleweight, and Harry Paul of Philadelphia will clash in the six round main event. The six round semi-windup will bring together Harry Schuman, west side welterweight, and Puggy Weinert of the south side. Four round bouts are: Joey Kleko vs. Meyer Frager, Steve Zene vs. Walter Jerz, Johnny Roth vs. Bob Groshek, Benny Barrish vs. Tod Kelly, and Harold McGary vs. Michell Bennett.

Jackie Parker will face Bob Groshek in a six round match tonight at the Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Matchmaker Johnny Coulon yesterday announced the following supporting matches: George Shrosbree vs. Jerry Kucera [5]; Red Chinski vs. Johnny Terry [4]. Wrestling exhibitions will bring into action Neil Donald and Marie Lapatina and Hassan Ahmed and Al Woznica.

Varias Milling, Los Angeles Filipino featherweight, will start drills today for his 10 round match against Johnny Pena of New York at the Washington Boulevard arena on March 6. Pena is training at Kid Howard's gymnasium. Milling will work at Trafton's gym. Sammy Levine and Jackie Sharkey may clash in an eight rounder.

LEVINSKY MEETS RISKO TONIGHT FOR THIRD TIME

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight veteran, will oppose King Levinsky, hard hitting Chicago battler, in the feature bout of ten rounds at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. It will be the third time these rivals have met. Risko captured both previous bouts by decisions.

Although he has been campaigning for more than nine years, meeting the best in the heavyweight division, Risko shows no signs of slowing up.

Last year, within the short space of six weeks, he defeated Tuffy Griffiths, Mickey Walker, and Levinsky in succession, in twelve round battles. The Cleveland boxer also has to his credit a decision over the world's heavyweight champion, Jack Sharkey, registered in 1928.

EXONERATE ALL CONNECTED WITH SCHAAF FIGHT

New York, Feb. 23.—[Special.]—The legal inquiry into the death of Frederick Ernest Schaaf, Boston heavyweight, after a bout with Primo Carnera at Madison Square Garden on Feb. 10 was formally ended today by Assistant District Attorney James J. Daly. Daly accepted the report of Medical Examiner Charles Norris exonerating the boxing commission, Carnera, and all others connected with the fight in the death of the boxer.

Under these circumstances, Daly said, a grand jury inquiry into the fatal bout would be unnecessary.

Detroit Beats Rangers, 3-0; Regains Lead

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Detroit's Red Wings climbed into first place alone in the American division of the National Hockey league tonight, downing the New York Rangers, 3 to 0, in an uproarious last period scoring flurry.

George Hay, wingman who joined the Red Wings midway in the season, started the scoring early in the last period with his first goal of this year. He sank a double pass from Sorrell and Carson. Herbie Lewis scored late in the period and Larry Aurie followed him, as the Rangers tried desperately to score.

AMERICANS, 2; MAROONS, 1

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The accurate aim of Nick Wasnie, rangy right wing, gave the New York Americans a 2 to 1 overtime victory over the Montreal Maroons tonight and shortened the margin between second and third place in the International division of the National Hockey league to four points. Wasnie scored both American goals, while the Maroon defense was weakened by penalties.

Canzoneri, with a two fisted attack, started in determined fashion that saw him sweep the Key West Indian into a straight defensive battle. Nebo, covering up most of the way, crouched and waited for the champion's rush in an effort to connect with his long sweeping left.

How to Play Ping-Pong

BY COLEMAN CLARK.

[Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.]

I am amazed at some of the questions concerning the rules of ping-pong which are put to me by people who have indulged in the game for years. I can scarcely put my foot outside the office without some one stepping up to me all worried and excited with a query like this:

"Say, Clark, about this pingpong, are there any rules? Last night, no, this morning—gosh, we never got to bed—we got into an argument. Do you have to serve into those little white squares on the table?"

Last Saturday when I was rushing to keep a bona fide appointment Bob French blocked my right of way and blustered this at me:

"Say, Clark, I take it all back what I said to you about pingpong—boy, I'm nuts about it. You know all the fellows in the apartment chipped in and bought a table the other day. The West Towers fellows challenged our bunch in the East Towers to a match. One bird from the West Towers [I never liked him anyway] ges, I argued with him for an hour, and I want you to settle the question so I can collect from him. I served one over the net to him on the fly, like you do in tennis—well, he gives me the laugh and says something about bounce ball service. We never did finish the game.

REVAMP STOCK OF INSULL FIRM TO ABSORB LOSS

Cent. Ill. Pub. Service Receivers Report

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

A comprehensive view into the financial affairs of the Central Illinois Public Service company, largest operating property in the Middle West Utilities system, was given yesterday when receivers for the parent concern made public an audited statement for 1932.

L. A. MAGRAW.

The salient feature of the report is the $3,285,000 surplus writeoff which the company faces because of accumulated losses inherited from the Insull management.

Net income for 1932 is placed at $1,780,000. This figure is subject to final decision on the adequacy of the company's depreciation reserve, which amounted to $622,283. The depreciation amounts to 5.1 per cent of gross earnings. The income is equivalent to $5.47 a share on the 288,650 shares of 6 and 7 per cent preferred stock outstanding. In 1931 net income was $2,867,000, as computed by the Insull bookkeeping system, equivalent to $10.07 a share on the 291,016 shares outstanding during the year.

Debt Charge Coverage.

Net earnings [before interest charges] were $4,705,320, or 1.6 times debt charges. This compares with net earnings of $5,712,000 in 1931, equal to 2.01 times charges on the funded debt. Gross revenues were $11,866,000, a decrease of $1,554,000 from 1931.

Creation of a capital surplus of $11,496,000 by a reduction in the stated value of the company's stock was ratified yesterday at the annual stockholders' meeting. The surplus was created in order to meet the extraordinary charges faced by the company. Because of the insufficient surplus the company was unable to write off such losses.

The capital adjustment provides for changing the common stock of 260,343 shares from no par, with a paid in value of $84 a share, to $40 par stock. The number of shares remains unchanged.

Auditors Explain Report.

The report is certified by Arthur Andersen & Co., who have been retained to audit the books of all the companies in the system. The auditors state that they have not verified the property, depreciation and surplus accounts, nor do they certify to the adequacy of the 1932 depreciation reserve.

The surplus charges actually made last year amounted to $1,140,000, consisting largely of charges from prior years for taxes, bad debts, deferred maintenance expenditures, and obsolete material and merchandise. These are not included in $3,285,000 for which the company made provision by creating a capital surplus. The latter represents a deficiency in depreciation reserves on abandoned property of $2,530,664; estimated losses on investments of $287,414, and miscellaneous items of $98,543. The balance of $287,414 represents the "estimated losses in accounts of a former officer and director."

The report is signed by L. A. Magraw, president.

SOUTH SHORE LINE REPORTS LOSS FOR 1932

An operating loss of $127,332 for 1932 was reported yesterday by the Chicago, South Shore and South Bend railroad. This compares with net operating income of $350,219 in 1931.

After charges, net loss was $458,332, against net income of $115,035 in the preceding year. Gross revenues fell 36 per cent to $1,864,000 last year.

The corporate deficit at the close of 1932 was $917,848, against $288,537 a year earlier. The road is controlled by the Midland United company, which in turn is jointly controlled by the three Chicago utility companies.

Laurence K. Callahan was elected as director at the annual meeting to succeed Lucius B. Andrus.

U. S. Income from Taxes Off 113 Millions

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—(AP)—The government's income from taxes for the first seven months of the 1933 fiscal year were $113,393,699 less than in the same period of the previous year, despite additional levies in the billion dollar tax bill.

In the seven months the government collected $331,242,813 from all sources of taxes, compared with $944,636,512 in the corresponding period of the previous year. For January tax collections amounted to $86,804,917, compared with $216,995,057 in December and $62,538,568 in January, 1932.

The December collections, however, included $141,033,327 of quarterly income tax payments, while last month's income tax amounted to only $17,888,855, approximately $3,200,000 less than collected in the same month of 1932.

Gasoline Produces Less.

Of the new taxes, that on gasoline showed a decline from December of $1,929,000, returning $11,341,892. The drop was attributed largely to seasonal factors.

Electrical energy, however, showed a slight increase in taxes, bringing in $3,016,606, compared to $2,975,161 the previous month.

The tax on cigarets increased over December, returning $26,087,481, compared to $21,960,082, but was $600,000 less than in January, 1932. Total tobacco taxed amounted to $31,960,498, against $27,132,597 in the previous month and $33,321,489 in January a year ago.

Securities Yield More.

The tax on bonds, issues of capital stock, conveyances, etc., amounted to $1,499,907, compared with $1,374,536 the previous month, while the tax on stock transfers totaled $1,810,036, against $1,677,383 in December.

Automobile and motorcycle taxes brought in $774,737, against $462,796, while the soft drink tax increased $64,000 to $349,486, and the tax on pipe lines went up $49,000 to $760,644.

The tax on bank checks gained in January, bringing in $3,985,054, against $3,642,530 the previous month.

FARM PLIGHT HITS EARNINGS OF J. I. CASE CO.

The low ebb of farm buying power, coupled with the many adverse factors in the foreign trade field in which it has an important stake, made 1932 a distinctly unprofitable year for the J. I. Case company, manufacturers of farm implements, according to the annual report issued yesterday.

Operations resulted in a loss of $2,611,000 after provision for depreciation and interest. After dividends on the preferred stock there was a final deficit for the year of $3,324,000. In 1931 the company lost $885,270 and had a final deficit after dividends of $2,175,000. The 1931 loss included $1,049,000 for foreign exchanges losses.

The company made no change in its reserve of $2,550,000 to provide for losses on receivables, collection expenses and contingencies. Losses sustained during the year on receivables and collection expenses were charged directly to income leaving the reserve intact.

PLAN APPROVED FOR TERMINAL NATIONAL BANK

Shareholders of the Terminal National Bank of Chicago and the Terminus National Bank of Chicago, at a meeting yesterday, confirmed a consolidation agreement under which additional capital funds will be made available to the combined bank. The merger was a technical operation and the new bank will be known as the Terminal National Bank of Chicago.

Under the agreement shareholders of the old bank are entitled to one share of the stock of the consolidated bank for seven and a half shares held by them in the old bank. This required 5,000 shares for distribution to the old stockholders and an additional 5,000 shares was to be delivered to an underwriting group for $150,000 in cash. The money received is to become an asset of the new bank.

National Tea Earnings Show Gain Last Year

An increase in profits for 1932 over 1931 was reported yesterday by George Rasmussen, president of the National Tea company, in his annual statement to stockholders of the chain store system.

Profits for 1932 totaled $899,053, equivalent to $1.30 a share on 627,736 shares of common stock outstanding, compared to the 1931 earning of $716,279, which was equivalent to 98 cents a share on 629,046 shares then outstanding.

Sales Show Decrease.

The consolidated sales for 1932 totaled $65,657,249, compared with $76,657,864 in 1931, a decline of 14.35 per cent. This decrease was attributed to further declines in commodity prices during 1932 and the closing of 123 unprofitable stores.

Mr. Rasmussen said the company continued its policy with respect to provision for depreciation by charging off against earnings the sum of $1,105,232, as compared with $1,116,301 in 1931. Further, the surplus account was reduced by $500,000 to cover possible obsolescence of store fixtures and by $2,222,609 through the reduction of good will to $1.

Reduce Number of Stores.

The company on Dec. 31, 1932, had 1,389 stores in operation, compared with 1,512 on Dec. 31, 1931.

Mr. Rasmussen said the company has been giving close attention to store rentals, with the result that many favorable adjustments were made during the year. Of all leases in effect Dec. 31, 1932, only 376 were made prior to Jan. 1, 1930. Of this number downward adjustments were made on 107.

Current assets were given as $8,902,283 as of Dec. 31, 1932, compared with $10,047,625 as of Dec. 31, 1931. Current liabilities as of Dec. 31, 1932, were $2,458,950, compared with $3,299,818 in 1931. Surplus at the end of the 1932 period was $6,183,674, compared with $8,466,842 at the end of 1931.

CONTINENTAL CAN REPORTS PROFIT OF $2.78 A SHARE

Net Off Less Than Use of Containers.

The Continental Can Co., Inc., during the year ending Dec. 31, 1932, made a net profit of $4,819,323, after all charges and federal tax, according to the annual report of the company issued yesterday by President O. C. Huffman. Earnings were equivalent to $2.78 a share on 1,733,323 shares of $20 par stock issued. Net profits for 1931 was $5,670,699, or $3.27 a share.

Mr. Huffman said the earning decline of only 15 per cent was in the face of decline in packs of the principal canned foods variously estimated at from 20 to 30 per cent.

13 Millions in Cash.

The balance sheet showed current assets of $31,453,180, including cash items of $13,177,989. Current assets as of Dec. 31, 1931, were $32,589,027. Current liabilities as of Dec. 31, 1932, were $1,865,157, compared with $1,882,534 at the close of 1931.

Commenting on his report, Mr. Hoffman said:

"Under normal conditions, when the production and inventory carryover of canned food products in any year is less than average, such as the year just ended, it is reasonable to expect an increase in the production of canned foods and hence in the packers' can production of the company in the succeeding year. To predict whether such will be the case in 1933, with all the many uncertainties before us, would be hazardous.

Optimistic for Future.

"General business conditions, prices, credit and crop conditions all will have a bearing on packers' can volume of 1933. General line can business of the company will naturally improve upon the return of more favorable general business conditions. The continued opening up of new uses for cans through research and experimentation offer encouragement for the future of the company."

The report stated that the company expended $1,446,898 on new plants and factory improvements during 1932. One of the major improvements took place at the company's plant in the Clearing Industrial district.

NO MORATORIUM IN INDIANA, SAYS GOV. M'NUTT

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 23. — (AP) — Gov. Paul V. McNutt tonight said there will be "no bank moratorium in Indiana."

"Unwarranted and probably inspired reports that there would be a moratorium in this state have reached me," the governor said.

Gov. McNutt made his statement tonight, he said, to quiet rumors that a bank holiday, such as has been in effect in Michigan, is anticipated for Indiana.

Leonard Refrigerator Sales Show 60 Per Cent Increase

Sales of Leonard Electric Refrigerator, division of Kelvinator corporation, for the first four months of its year, beginning in October, exceed the same period last year by sixty per cent. This was stated by R. L. Petrie, general sales manager at the annual dealer meeting held in the Stevens hotel under the auspices of the Chicago distributor, L. C. Wiswell company. Mr. Petrie said that Leonard Electric Refrigerator is pursuing its advantage with the heaviest advertising activity in its history.

BANKS HELPED BY 200 MILLION RESERVE FUNDS

System Pours Money Into Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 23.—Federal reserve banks hurled more than $200,000,000 into money markets last week to assure banks of adequate credit and cash, and to ease the financial situation, the federal reserve board revealed today.

The titanic effort of the reserve banks, the largest they have put forth since their heaviest open market operations last year, was designed to fight off the deflationary effect of gold withdrawals and demands for new money, and apparently it was crowned with success. Despite gold withdrawals of $51,000,000 and new demands for money totaling $134,000,000, the reserves of member banks, which are the reservoirs of credit, increased $35,000,000.

Used Funds in Three Ways.

The $200,000,000 which the reserve banks threw into the money markets in the week ended Feb. 21, moved through three channels, the purchase of $25,000,000 worth of government securities, the purchase of $143,000,000 of bills and the discounting of another $41,000,000 worth of bills. Not since the reserve banks were buying $100,000,000 of government securities a week last summer, have their operations been on a comparable scale.

Purchase of bills was a new weapon which the reserve banks brought into the fight last week. The buying of $143,000,000 of bills was not only unusually large, but it came at a time when, by increasing its holdings of government securities to $1,834,000,000, th banks had almost closed to themselves this method of affecting the money market.

By purchasing $25,000,000 worth of government securities for the third consecutive week the reserve banks brought their holdings within $17,000,000 of the record high of $1,851,000,000.

Money Sets Peak Record.

The open market operations of the reserve banks were forced largely by the increase of money in circulation to a new all time high of $5,988,000,000. Within the last two weeks, banks have been called on to furnish $177,000,000 of additional money. The open market operations of the reserve banks are aimed to prevent these

Chicago Banks Escape Ills of Moratorium in Michigan

BY HOWARD WOOD.

The Michigan bank moratorium has had little effect upon the deposits of Chicago banks, according to the federal reserve weekly report on the condition of member banks released last night.

Despite the fact that there are many corporations in Michigan which have accounts in both Detroit and Chicago and which during the Michigan moratorium have turned to Chicago for current operating funds, the deposits of Chicago member banks changed but little during the seven days ended Feb. 21, 1933.

Net demand deposits, which include all the commercial and industrial accounts, declined only 4 million dollars during the week. Such deposits on Feb. 21 amounted to 915 million dollars, compared with 919 millions on Feb. 15. These figures apply to the totals for reporting member banks in Chicago.

Time Deposits Still High.

Time deposits were down a little more, but were still above the level of a few weeks ago. Time deposits of Chicago reporting member banks on Feb. 21 totaled 302 millions, against 315 millions a week before.

Government deposits in Chicago banks on Feb. 21 amounted to only 5 millions, against 7 millions on Feb. 15. For months Chicago banks, loaded with more cash than they could satisfactorily invest, have been trying to reduce this pressure of excess cash by curtailing their deposits of government and postal savings funds.

Total outstanding credit of Chicago member banks declined 4 millions during the week, and on Feb. 21 stood at 1 billion 48 millions. This bank credit was divided as follows: Loans and discounts, 636 millions; investment, 412 millions. Each class showed a drop of 2 millions from the week before.

Banks More Liquid.

The decline in the amount of loans and investments of Chicago member banks illustrates the manner in which these institutions have increased their liquidity during the last year. From Feb. 24, 1932, to Feb. 21, 1933, the total deposits of Chicago member banks declined only from $1,356,000,000 to $1,217,000,000. Total loans and investments, however, shrank from $1,481,000,000 to $1,048,000,000 during the same period.

Chicago member banks during the week ended Feb. 21 increased their reserve balances with the federal reserve from 289 millions to 314 millions. There were no borrowings from the federal reserve.

New York City member banks, according to yesterday's reserve report, had combined net demand deposits of $5,380,000,000 on Feb. 21, against $5,645,000,000 the week before.

Part of this decline was due to the drawing by Michigan banks on their accounts with New York City banks. Detroit banks carry their balances largely in New York rather than in Chicago.

The drop was also partly the natural result of the recent reduction from ½ of 1 per cent to ¼ of 1 per cent in the rate of interest paid by New York City banks on demand deposits. The New York City banks halved their interest rate and with the aim of forcing some of the excess funds back to interior cities. They had found these deposits unprofitable, because whereas they were paying ½ of 1 per cent interest on them, they couldn't invest this money profitably in short term government securities.

Total loans and investments of these New York City banks dropped from $7,078,000,000 on Feb. 15 to $6,809,000,000 on Feb. 21. Reserve balances carried with the federal reserve increased from 775 millions to 782 millions.

HOLDS SURETY FIRMS CAN'T END GUARANTY ON MICHIGAN DEPOSITS

Lansing, Mich., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Attorney General Patrick H. O'Brien ruled today that surety companies cannot cancel their bonds protecting deposits during the present banking emergency in Michigan.

The opinion was written to Grover C. Dillman, state highway commissioner, whose department has approximately $500,000 on deposits protected by surety bonds. H. A. Miles, assessment district engineer of the department, said that a few of the companies have attempted to cancel the bonds.

Commissioner Dillman was advised in the opinion to make demands upon banks for the deposits in order that the liability of the surety companies may definitely be fixed.

"The matter is now taken out of your hands the same as any closing of a bank," the attorney general wrote. Surety companies may not cancel surety bonds protecting your deposits while the funds are tied up under the order or proclamation of the governor."

COLGATE EARNS 20 CTS. A SHARE ON PREFERRED

The Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company yesterday reported net income for 1932 of $58,301 after all charges, including inventory loss and provision for foreign exchange loss. The profit is equivalent to 20 cents a share on the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. The company reported profit of $7,598,000 in 1931, equal after preferred dividends, to $3.12 a share on the 1,985,299 shares outstanding.

DETROIT BANKS MOVE TO FREE 40% OF DEPOSITS

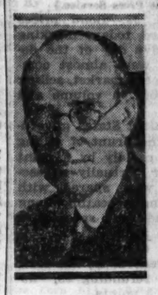
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Feb. 23.—Detroit bankers have tentatively agreed upon twin reorganization plans for the two big Detroit banks which would immediately free 40 per cent of the deposits held by each, it was learned from authoritative sources today.



GOV. W. A. COMSTOCK. [A. P. Photo.]

Meanwhile Michigan banks reopened today, many of them for the first time since Gov. William A. Comstock issued his emergency closing order ten days ago. Withdrawals, however, were restricted.

Under the plan now being considered both the Guardian National Bank of Commerce and the First National Bank of Detroit would be reorganized in much the same fashion as Gen. Charles Gates Dawes' Chicago bank, the Central Republic Bank & Trust company, was reorganized last summer.

There would be this fundamental difference, however. In the case of the Dawes bank, cash assets equal to approximately 100 per cent of deposits were made available to depositors largely by the $90,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. In the case of both Detroit banks the present plan calls for the immediate freeing of only about 40 per cent of the deposits, the exact amount to be decided upon after a closer scrutiny of the assets of the two banks. There is a possibility that it may run a little higher than 40 per cent.

Propose Two New Banks.

Under the plan each of Detroit's two big banks would be succeeded by a new bank. Each new bank would assume liability for about 40 per cent of the deposits of its predecessor institution. To offset this deposit liability it would take over cash and highly liquid assets from its predecessor.

A tax increase of 700%

Federal Estate taxes are many times greater than they were prior to last June. On estates of $2,000,000, the increase is over 700 per cent. On smaller estates, the percentage increase is even more. For example, an estate of $450,000 which up to June 6, 1932 paid a tax of $2,100 is now taxed over ten times that or $27,600; an estate of $150,000 which was formerly taxed only $100 now must pay $4,600.

This increased taxation may seriously affect your plans for providing for your family after you are gone. Much may be done during your lifetime to minimize the effect of these taxes, and we shall be pleased to discuss this important matter with you and your attorney at any time.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—Bond prices continued downward today, marking the eighth successive day of the decline. While bids were almost completely absent from the market, selling increased apace, both in volume and breadth.

Issues of the United States government again bore the brunt of selling and prices melted rapidly by a point or more. However, virtually no section of the list was spared, with foreign issues taking a beating along with both high-grade and speculative domestic corporate issues.

The higher type of railroad issues, such as Atchison general 4s, due 1995, and Union Pacific refunding 5s, declined as much as 3 points.

Foreign Selling Seen.

Liquidation by commercial banks throughout the country and a considerable volume of foreign selling attested to the general urge for liquidity and the disturbed state of mind of many bondholders.

Strength in the foreign exchanges against the dollar reflected the selling of bonds by foreign investors and the transfer of funds abroad. Many sales were for seven-day and fifteen-day delivery, indicating their foreign origin.

Some of the prime investment rail bonds to slump severely were Baltimore & Ohio first 4s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Chicago Union Station 4½s, Norfolk and Western consolidated 4s, and Pennsylvania general 4½s.

Discuss Drop in U. S. Issues.

Opinion throughout the street varied as to the significance of the government bond drop, though all observers were agreed that the former price level, which was based on artificially easy money, was too high.

In most quarters, however, it was held that the decline today in treasury issues, which extended to more than a point for all maturities, represented liquidation of secondary reserves by commercial banks to guard against any emergency which might develop. Banking conditions, rather than apprehension over the treasury's condition, were held responsible for the selling.

Foreign bonds, too, came in for substantial selling, with German issues heading the list on the down trend. Japanese issues showed rallying tendencies, moving contrary to the general trend.

Peoples Gas Light and Coke.

Please give me information on Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. Thank you in advance.—H. E. J.

During 1932 the company sold 38.8 per cent more gas than in 1931. The increase was in sales to customers who purchased on an interruptible supply basis [sold at the option of the company when it has surplus gas available] at cheap rates. Because of this and rate reductions effected in October, 1931, gross revenues were $33,586,000, a one-half per cent decrease from gross of $33,761,000 for 1931. Gross for 1930 was $39,881,000, against $41,887,000 for 1929 and $41,867,000 for 1928.

In October, 1931, it began supplying customers with a mixture of natural and artificial gas. It formerly supplied artificial gas. The new policy involved expenditure of additional funds. Expenses in 1932 increased 3.68 per cent over 1931. In addition, state and local taxes during the year increased 14.1 per cent over 1931, an amount equal to 56 cents per share.

As a result, net income for 1932 was $4,163,000, or $6.20 per share on 671,938 shares, against net of $6,692,000, or $10.31 per share on 648,901 shares for 1931. Net for 1930 was $7,197,000, against $6,783,000 for 1929 and $6,371,000 for 1928.

The new management has made drastic surplus deductions. During 1932 $11,000,000 was deducted from investment reserve, $3,900,000 was set aside for losses on employes' investment fund, $2,565,000 for losses on advances to individuals and $2,945,000 was set aside for provision for service annuity reserve.

On Dec. 31, 1932, current assets, including $5,393,000 cash, totaled $11,885,000 and current liabilities were $10,939,000. There were no large bank loans payable. Accrued taxes totaled $7,083,000. Working capital was $947,000, against $344,000 the year before.

In 1933 only $43,000 of bonds will mature. Other funded debt totals $54,883,000. During 1932 the company was successful in consolidating most of its short term debt into a $20,000,000 6 per cent bond issue due June 1, 1957.

There are outstanding 671,938 shares of $100 par capital stock. It pays $1.25 per share a quarter.

The company is supplying gas on a temporary rate basis which is currently being reviewed by the state commission.

STOCK LEADERS DROP SHARPLY; TRADING GROWS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 23.—Fresh liquidation, a part of it said to be emanating from European sources, drove the stock market averages to new low levels for the year today. Sales were the heaviest in months, totaling about 1,350,000 shares.

Brokers ascribed the street's growing despondency to a number of causes currently figuring in the day's news. Banking difficulties, which reflect in some measure at least the epidemic of currency inflation talk, was generally rated as the chief factor in the disturbance.

The trend of the senate's stock market investigation was thought to have frightened some of the more timid speculators, and in some quarters there was a disposition to attribute some of the selling to disappointment over President Elect Roosevelt's cabinet setup. Comment indicated that the selection of Senator Hull as secretary of state and of William H. Woodin to the treasury post had been generally well received, but discussion on some of the other selections varied.

Rails Under Pressure.

The market's weakness was about as noticeable in one department as another, the losses ranging pretty generally from 2 to 3 or 4 points. Railroad shares were under heavy pressure throughout the session, despite advance freight revenue reports indicating an increase of around 5 per cent in the week's car loading figures when they are made public next Saturday. Atchison, Delaware and Hudson, New Haven, Union Pacific, Norfolk and Western, and Southern Pacific were among the chief losers. The close found the group with two or three exceptions, at new low prices for the year. The former bear movement lows were recorded around Jan. 3 last.

The present standing of the group, in comparison with its January lows, is shown by the following table:

Industrials Hold Firmer.

Industrial shares, while at their lowest since the first week of last August, still have an ample "margin of safety" between them and their bear market lows, which were registered generally on July 2. Their close of today compares with the extreme lows as follows:

Silver Issues Bulge.

Shares of silver mining companies made the only apparent effort to provide a silver lining for the dark cloud of woe, and even they had to give way toward the end.

Most of the trading favorites, like American Can, General Electric, Case, Aircraft, Chemical, and the like were sold in heavy volume and losses among them ranged from 2 to 3 points or more.

HEDGING SALES IN LARD

The provision market was little affected by the action of either stocks, grain, or hogs, and held within narrow limits. Short covering was in evidence in May lard, while hedging pressure developed in the September delivery. The close was unchanged to 2½ cents higher, with March showing the most strength. Bellies were unchanged to 10 cents higher, with cash interests taking the May and July. Trade in cash meats was relatively slow, with mild weather curtailing consumption of fresh joins. Cash lard was quoted at $3.77½, loose $3.22, and leaf $3.12½, while bellies were $4.12½. Liverpool lard closed unchanged. Exports of lard from New York were 135,000 pounds and of meats 86,000 pounds. Hogs were steady to 10 cents higher, with receipts smaller than a week ago and well below those of last year. Prices follow:

LIQUIDATION IN BUTTER

Heavy pressure sent butter futures down sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, with losses of ½@¾c. Eggs were ⅛c lower to ⅛c higher. Butter declined rapidly after a relatively firm opening. Liquidation was under way and relatively favorable storage and production news did not bring in much new support. Short covering checked the break. The four markets moved out 149,000 lbs more butter than last year in the last two days and production reports covering the last two weeks showed the makes still under last year. Receipts of eggs continued moderate. Light buying appeared in February fresh firsts, but the later deliveries received little attention. Storage holdings were reduced slightly over the holidays. Sales: Butter, 164 cars; eggs, 23 car. Prices follow:

DETROIT BANKS PLAN TO RELEASE 40% OF DEPOSITS

Plan Two New Units to Clear Up Difficulties.

by liberal loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. According to usually well informed sources total aid extended to the two banks by the R. F. C. would amount to between 135 millions and 145 millions. Of this amount, about 100 millions would go to the First National and the remainder to the Guardian.

Capital for the two new banks, according to the plan, would be supplied by some of the larger depositors of the old banks. The present program calls for conferences between bankers and these more important depositors to pursuade the latter to coöperate. The capital of the First National bank's successor institution would be $10,000,000 and that of the Guardian's successor would be about $3,500,000, it was reported.

No Preference to Banks.

Bankers engineering the proposed plan said that no preference would be given out-of-town banks having funds on deposit in either of the institutions. Like other depositors, they would have about 40 per cent of their deposits transferred to the new banks.

As security for its loans to the Guardian and the First National, the Reconstruction Finance corporation would take over the slower assets—loans and investments—which were not transferred to the new institutions.

The plan, therefore, if consummated, would make it possible for every depositor to withdraw all or any part of the 40 per cent of his deposits transferred to the new bank. For the rest, he would wait until the slower assets securing the R. F. C. loan had been liquidated and the R. F. C. loans paid off. These assets would be trusteed for slow liquidation.

Bankers point out that the new banks organized to succeed the Guardian and the First National would be 100 per cent liquid and, therefore, would be in an impregnable position.

Await Depositors' Decision.

Big depositors will be approached between now and next Monday with the idea of prevailing upon them to contribute part of their deposits toward capital for the new banks. Until this capital is pledged, it is understood, no official announcement will be made concerning the plan.

At the close of 1932 the Guardian National Bank of Commerce had total deposits of $138,385,923 and the First National had total deposits of $423,358,000. These deposits had decreased substantially, however, by the time the emergency moratorium was declared by the governor.

Reports were current here today that the Reconstruction Finance corporation had already been asked to advance $135,000,000 to enable the plan to be put into effect, but these reports could not be substantiated. It was also reported that conferences were under way in New York and Washington concerning the plans under consideration.

From Washington came the report this afternoon that Secretary of the Treasury Mills is in New York in conference with William H. Woodin, who will succeed Mills March 4, on the Detroit loan application. Mills is seeking assurances from Woodin that the new Democratic administration would approve the loan.

Banks Cashing Checks.

The Guardian National Bank of Commerce is one of the units of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., which operates 20 banks and trust companies in Michigan. The First National of Detroit is a member unit of the Detroit Bankers company.

Rudolph E. Reichert, Michigan state banking commissioner, today reported that most banks were "doing business in the best possible way." He reported that most banks were cashing checks that had not already been cleared on the depository percentage basis outlined in Gov. Comstock's second proclamation, issued Tuesday.

Most banks were following the plan that had been in operation here during the last week, permitting depositors to withdraw up to 5 per cent of their deposits. There were no lines awaiting the opening of Detroit banks this morning.

Detroit bankers are awaiting clarification of Gov. Comstock's second proclamation, in which he outlined rules for limited operations. Also, they are awaiting the enactment of legislation at Lansing and Washington which they believe will help the situation.

Bank Offers to Pay in Full.

The Guardian Bank of Royal Oak today announced it would pay off 100 cents on the dollar at once if the depositors desired.

"We are merely following the text of the governor's second proclamation in which he said a bank can pay off to the extent of its ability," President Herbert H. Gardner said. "We are able to meet every claim against us, and will do so, if necessary. But last week we published an advertisement showing the banks' condition and today the calls for money have been few.

Details of the proposed reorganization have apparently been presented to Gov. William A. Comstock, who said that any contemplated reorganization must not permit stockholders to get from under liability to pay any assessments which may be levied in the future.

SUPPLY OF HOGS DWINDLES, SO PRICES MOVE UP

Gains Range to 10 Cents; Cattle Seesaw.

Light supplies continued to influence the live stock markets yesterday. Hog receipts were the smallest for a Thursday since Nov. 10, 1932, and 29 per cent under the Thursday average for the last six weeks.

Buyers endeavored to check the rise when wholesale quotations for pork products failed to respond as readily as prices for live hogs, but they failed to get results until most of the better grades had changed hands on a 5 to 10 cent higher price basis. The "picked over" and plain quality stock sagged back to a steady level on closing rounds.

Traders expect to see the heavier hogs work closer to the top. Prime 235 pound butchers topped the list at $3.70, which equals the highest price paid for hogs since Tuesday last week. Best light stopped at $3.65. The general average moved up 5 cents to $3.45.

Good Cattle in Demand.

The early action in the cattle alleys was confined to the better grades of steers and heifers. The rank and file of offerings met a "catch as catch can" trade after the more urgent eastern buying orders had been satisfied. Later in the day local interests commenced putting on a little pressure.

Dressed beef on recent sessions sold at the lowest prices of the winter, and the trade has had little encouragement from the hide market. On the early strength a few top sales of yearlings were made at a 25 cents higher figure. New York Butchers and United Dressed Beef paid $7 for 990 to 1,152 pound steers. Very little else was good enough to bring more than $6.

Lambs Bring $5.65.

Sheep receipts at Chicago at 10,000 were the smallest for a Thursday since Dec. 1, 1932, and 41 per cent under the average for the last six weeks. The demand expanded in the face of additional declines in the wholesale trade for dressed lamb. Live costs were elevated fully 25 cents, with the clearance the earliest in recent weeks.

All interests paid up to $5.65 near the close, while packers obtained the bulk of medium weights around $5.50 and extremely heavy at $5.25. Prime 93 pound averages brought $5.50 and 108 pound lambs sold at $5.25.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER

An early bulge in cotton on buying induced by prospects that the house of representatives at Washington would give early consideration to the Smith bill to take over the government stocks was short lived. Prices moved up 10 points early, but reacted later when selling developed on the weakness in stocks and grain. Chicago was unchanged to 8 points lower at the close and other markets off 4 to 10 points with New York leading.

The market was easily influenced toward the last. Spots were 5 to 10 points lower with New Orleans 5.90 cents, New York 6.05 cents, Galveston 5.90 cents, and Houston 5.85 cents. Liverpool closed unchanged to 1 point lower. Prices follow:

SUCCESS.

This is no time for trail blazing. Days are too precious for experiments in what will "go." People are no longer doing things for pride's sake or because they have more money than they know what to do with. Hard, sound, unusual VALUES alone insure patronage. Tremendous values, unmistakably presented, insure GREAT GROWTH. Here the man is not made to create the success of the business. The business is established world-wide. It leads. It grows by leaps and bounds, and yet always on a solid, enduring foundation. While the depression has raged, this business has grown. Therefore, it must be a business that men from all walks of life can learn easily—and quickly put themselves on an income basis. That is the situation. It is outstanding in the principal countries of the world for its remarkable growth. It is at its best in America.

In telling you what many men make, we do not wish you to believe that immediately you can rise to these incomes. They didn't. Some of them were slow in starting, others seemed to jump into the heart of the idea. A young man with us—in his early twenties—knew just one business—putting up price boards. He lost his job. He got into debt. The outlook was black for him. But from the start, in this business that was wholly strange to him, he succeeded. He is making far more here after a few weeks than he made in the other line after several years. Here he works full time, with no seasons or layoffs. We have men here who make regularly $75 to $100 and more in a week. Some of the older men in recent weeks have made over $200—some as high as $75 up to $213.75 in a single day—not counting prizes! Hundreds of men are enjoying comforts and progress—doing the things that millions would glory in being able to do. But the man who won't work, who hates to get up, who has no character or ambition, doesn't fare well in Electrolux, Inc. (not refrigeration). The man with ambition, and GET-UP AND GO in him, will find that there is little to learn, and it is easily mastered. He will succeed splendidly, and yet we remind you that for the first month your income may be only between $125 and $200, but as time passes, your earnings will grow as you apply yourself diligently.

You buy nothing, do not invest or deposit a cent. If you wish a personal interview FRIDAY, Feb. 24, between 9 a. m. and 1 p. m., so that we can determine if we believe you can succe

SOLUTION TO PAY ROLL HOLDUP

[f] Johnson is not the killer or the novice, so Hicks, Bird, and Johnson are eliminated as the killer. Therefore Hennessy is the killer, Bird is the novice, and Johnson the leader.
